Typhoon and Christian, Whisky and Men, Bootleg. "Cop-Dodger," New Drug. They Really Drowned Him.

—BY ARTHUR BRISBANE—

Copyright, 1927.

BAD news from Asia. In Japan, 1,000 are reported killed by a fearful typhoon and tidal wave sweeping away villages on Kiushiu Island. The typhoon is said to have been the most severe in many years.

CHINA reports 80,000 massacred by Marshal Feng Yu-Hsiang, called the "Christian General." That Chinese Christian, roused to fury, because some of his men were killed by the "Heavenly Gate" Society, ordered in revenge, a slaughter that included old men, women and children. A Christian general can be more deadly than a typhoon.

MR. HULL, in charge of United States immigration, says millions of foreigners are in this country illegally. We accept immigration, as we do our alcoholic drinks, only of the bootleg variety. Whether it is wise to specialize in bootleg whisky and bootleg immigration remains to be seen.

A NEW drug appears in American illicit selling, called by addicts and criminals the "Cop-Dodger." Chief Magistrate McAdoo, of New York, says it comes easily through the custom house. Then a simple treatment turns the preparation into morphine.

The increase in drug use and the number of addicts in America shows how hard it is for prohibition or law to reach small packages, easily concealed drugs and whisky.

NEW YORK CITY no longer relishes ordinary murders, now so plentiful, but is mildly interested in this one.

Benjamin Goldstein took out insurance, at the cost of friends, for $70,000. Joseph Lefkowitz, Harry Goldberg and Irving Rabinzahl told Goldstein they would take him in a boat, pretend he was drowned, hide him and collect the insurance. They took him in a boat, but did not pretend. They dropped him overboard, rowed away, let him drown. The three are indicted for murder in the first degree. A rabbi who happened to be on the shore saw the deliberate drowning and reported it. There will be recriminations, when the plotters meet again presently.

ACCEPTED ideas go overboard one after another. Science does away with "solid matter;" only electrons, revolving at a horrible rate of speed, are left.

Now you learn that terra firma is a delusion. Dr. Lambert, of the Coast Survey, says the crust of the earth moves up and down with a rising and falling tide as does the ocean.

CONTINENTS slip around on the hard inside core of the earth. South America was once joined to Africa.

Scientists have perfected instruments that will measure within one billionth of an inch in width, and one millionth of a degree of temperature. We are gradually learning about everything, almost too much for our feeble minds. In the last 127 years men have learned more than they learned in the 500,000 years preceding A. D. 1800.

THE American Historical Preservation Society yesterday sold at auction the house in which President Monroe died in New York ninety-six years ago. It didn't seem worth while to preserve the place, which sold for $10,000. Many hope that the Monroe Doctrine will be preserved, however, that no League of Nations nonsense will be allowed to interfere with it, and that a nation strong enough to back up that doctrine nearly a hundred years ago is not too weak to maintain it now.

THUG FELLS GIRL

Victim of Clubber

OPAL WELLS

Miss Opal Wells, 19-year-old waitress of 2614 Brereton avenue, was clubbed by an unidentified Negro, who attempted to attack her about 100 feet from the Twenty-eighth street bridge at 1:30 this morning. It is believed the Negro, hearing someone approaching, was frightened away.

CRIES SAVE HER

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY.

Up a dismal alley in a drab little home at 2614 Brereton avenue a mother is holding her daughter in her arms today, thanking God that He spared her child a fate worse than death. A Negro attempted to attack her early this morning.

Opal Wells, 19, works in a restaurant in Liberty avenue. For months she has worked the 1 o'clock shift and doesn't get home until after 1:30 in the morning. Mrs. Wells has never liked the idea of her little girl coming home so late alone. But there is a large family and Opal is the only one old enough to help the father keep the family larder filled.

Last night Opal was hurrying home, tired and a little afraid of the dark, when she saw a man leaning over the Twenty-eighth street bridge.

In her own words:

"He didn't look as though he were there for any good. It seemed queer to me that a fellow would be hanging around like that at such an hour. But, I just kept on walking. I had no more than passed him and noticed that he was a Negro, when something struck me on the head. I thought it was a rock, but it might have been a black jack or his fist.

"I screamed bloody murder! I thought I was going to be killed and I remembered all the terrible things that had happened to other girls. There must have been someone coming, because, as I fell, the man let go of me and ran back down the steps from the bridge before he could strike again."

Opal shuddered and her blue eyes dimmed. But she was surprisingly

3 Face Jail In Audit

A Plum township constable, armed with warrants for the arrest of County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong and William H. Ziefel, of the county commissioner's office, will come to the city late this afternoon to get his men unless Armstrong and Ziefel promise Justice of the Peace Thomas E. Mallisee to appear before him tomorrow night.

They face charges of falsifying of corporate books and making false entries in public records. The information was sworn to by Mrs. J. O. Miller, president of the League of Women Voters.

Jail doors yawned for another county employe today. Controller Charles C. McGovern decreed that unless James E. Routley, Ziefel's assistant, produces the original record of a $28,000 election payroll that was the center of interest at yesterday's session of the McGovern audit of county books, Routley is to be placed behind the bars.

Routley yesterday asked for a reasonable time to produce the record. McGovern gave him until 2 o'clock today, with the jail alternative.

Mrs. Miller, who has often sparred with County Commissioners over the conduct of the county's business, charged, two years ago, that Commissioner Armstrong held a "one-man" meeting of the board of county commissioners while the late Addison C. Gumbert was under the care of a physician at Cambridge Springs. During the meeting in question, many new positions were created and much county business was transacted, she charges.

Armstrong's explanation at the time was that the meeting was held during a visit by Commissioner Armstrong to Mr. Gumbert's bedside.

Pens Will, Then Kills Self

Disposing of his possessions in a brief will, Meyer Manes, 30, of 813 Sebring street, shot himself in the head in his loan office, 113 Smithfield street, about 1.30 o'clock this afternoon.

Slumped over the desk on which he had written the will, Manes was found dead a short time later by Albert H. Shulte, 380 Beiley avenue, electrician, and Joseph Locker, 5517 Black, an employe, who had gone to Mane's private office to do some work.

The will, written in a bold hand and showing no trace of nervousness, was on office stationery. It follows:

"I do hereby appoint my father, B. Manes, and Fan C. Greenberg, of 1539 Westfield street, to be administrators of estate.

"Everything I possess I leave to my ywife, Jessie P. Manes."

After signing his name to the will Manes wrote, in a shaky hand, "Kindly take care of my wife and children."

For some time Manes conducted a loan office on Water street. He leter opened the Manes Jewelry Company store in Smithfield street and recentlyy has been conducting Meyer's loan office. Business worries are blamed for the act.

Mellon Not Sponsoring Hughes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(AP.) — While he has not decided to support any Republican presidential candidate at this time, Secretary Mellon, it was said today at the Treasury, favors Charles E. Hughes from a personal point of view. It was added that this did not necessarily mean Mr. Mellon would be behind Mr. Hughes, should Mr. Hughes declare himself a candidate.

At a special press conference called at the secretary's office, it was declared that Mr. Mellon regarded President Coolidge as definitely out of the field through his statement in the Black Hills that he did not choose to run in 1928.

The secretary, it was asserted, intended to hold himself aloof from pre-campaign discussions.

Mr. Mellon's attitude was outlined as a result of stories from Pittsburgh that he would support Mr. Hughes, his former cabinet associate, for the nomination.

JUST FRIENDLY TO HUGHES

Even though he is friendly to Mr. Hughes, the secretary was said to feel that he should not come out in favor of any candidate at this time.

W. L. Mellon, Pennsylvania Republican state chairman, talked with the secretary over the telephone today from Pittsburgh, it was declared, and denied reports that the word has been given out after a recent conference here to "start the ball rolling for Hughes."

The Republican chairman declared that he had made no statements regarding the presidential nomination and that the matter had not been the object of the discussions at the treasury.

Any effort to enroll support for Mr. Hughes at this time would be premature and unauthorized, in view of his statement that he is not a candidate and in view of the fact that Mr. Mellon has no personal knowledge that he will run, the secretary was said to feel.

The secretary himself, mentioned as potential presidential timber, does not feel that he would become a candidate under any condition which he could see at this time.

WORLD FLIERS TO TRY 'SUICIDE HOP' FRIDAY

TOKIO, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Edward F. Schlee and William S. Brock, pilots of the round-the-world monoplane Pride of Detroit, today announced they expected to hop off near here for Midway Islands, nearly half way across the Pacific Friday.

This was a reiteration of the statement made previously by the fliers at Omura, where they were held up two days by bad weather. They arrived at Kasumigaura, near here, today after a 600-mile trip from Omura.

The projected flight to Midway means a hop of 2,480 miles over water and almost errorless navigation if they are to reach their destination. Midway is only a coral formation of a few square miles in area. Japanese aviators believe the attempt would be suicidal and there has been a wave of protest againstt their disposition to continue.

Brock and Schlee are endeavoring to break the round the world record of 28½ days. They are now in their nineteenth day and have covered but 12,275 miles of their course, having more than 9,000 miles, mostly over water, before them.

Once at Midway, the fliers would

3,000 DEAD IN JAPAN TYPHOON

By International News Service.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The death toll in the typhoon and tidal wave which devastated the Japanese seacoast yesterday was estimated officially at 3,000, according to a Central News dispatch from Tokio today. In addition, 1,000 persons are missing.

Kyoto reports 270 dead and many missing.

In the district of Nakamura, where the storm was particularly severe, 1,000 are dead. The death toll in Nakajuni is 500.

The railroad station at Yokohama was unroofed by the winds, a warehouse in the same city was whirled high in the air, a freight train was derailed, more than 150 houses were damaged and three sections of the city were flooded by the rains which accompanied the disturbance.

Other districts were also heavily hit by the storm which swept through Japan. The extent of the damage will probably not be known for several days.

Rescue work in the stricken areas was being hampered today by continuation of the rains.

No accurate check has yet been made of the fishing boats that were off the coast of Kumamoto when the tidal wave struck. It is feared that many of these vessels were lost.

Crowd Sees Detectives Get Man

Noonday crowds in Smithfield street at Sixth avenue were treated to the thrills of a catch-as-catch-can struggle today when three city detectives battled with an alleged murderer and jailbreaker from Tunica, Miss.

The fight, which began outside the offices of the Pullman Company, on the second floor of the Henry W. Oliver Building, ended when City Detective David Corbett, bedraggled and bloody from the encounter, managed to land a clean knockout blow on the chin of the fugitive, William Brown, alias Lucious Bowen, Negro, 66 Taylor avenue.

Corbett, with City Detectives Roger Castilic and Frank Ferris, attempted to take Brown into custody as he collected his final pay for his services as a porter from the Pullman Company.

Brown, according to information from Tunica, escaped from jail July 4 while awaiting trial for murder, scheduled to have started a few days later.

HARRIS LEAVES $150,000 TO SONS AND DAUGHTER

The value of the estate of John Harris, Sr., of Crafton, whose will was filed for probate Monday, is shown to be $150,000 by the schedule of property filed. Of the total, $100,000 is listed as personal and the remainder as realty. The estate was left to sons and daughters.

THIEVES LOOT CLEANING PLANT IN BLOOMFIELD

Thieves who gained entrance by jimmying a front door stole customers' clothing valued at $100 from the Triangle Dyeing and Cleaning Company, 4501 Penn avenue, during the night, according to a report of Mrs. Elizabeth Morton, proprietor, to police.

ARMSTRONG MEETS "SNAG" -:- M'GOVERN GETS PAYROLL

JOSEPH G. ARMSTRONG MRS. J. O. MILLER

These two figure prominently in the most startling pre-election action taken here for several years. Mrs. Miller, president of the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters, swore to informations charging Armstrong and his chief clerk, William Ziefel, with falsifying corporate books and making false entries in public records. The informations are believed an outgrowth of the public audit being conducted by County Controller C. C. McGovern.

PUBLIC AUDIT CONTINUES

C. C. McGovern, county controller, examining some of the hundreds of thousands of cancelled "private payroll" checks of the county public works department, subpenaed in the public audit he is conducting into county affairs. More than $1,500,000 was involved in the "private payroll" system during 1926 and 1927, dating back to 1915.

Buhl Will Leaves $11,326,343

The personal estate of Henry A. Buhl, merchant and philanthropist, totals $11,326,343.07, according to an inventory filed in the register of wills' office. There was no inventory of his real estate holdings, which were estimated at several millions.

Among the items were more than $500,000 in Liberty bonds, more than $1,000,000 in federal and municipal bonds, $7,732,363.63 in stocks, including 21,764 shares of preferred stock in Boggs & Buhl and 7,177 common shares in the same company.

The furnishings in the Buhl home at 1241 Western avenue were valued at $2,212.

calm as she went on with her story:

"He had greasy clothes and I am quite sure works on the railroad."

"Do you think you would know him?" Opal was questioned.

She studied a moment:

"Yes, I believe I would. He was of medium height and weight, about 30 years old and was not very dark."

Opal has long brown hair, parted smoothly at the side, worn in a boll on her neck. Her eyes are a pretty gray-blue, long lashed, and her lips are full and red. She is as brave as she is pretty for she is going back to work this afternoon.

Her mother doesn't want her to go, for Opal is still dizzy and feels ill from the shock. But Opal smiled and tried to comfort her:

"Oh, mother, I'll be all right. Nothing will harm me. Look at all the times I've gone over that bridge and up the hill alone at night and nothing has ever happened."

"Have you ever felt afraid?" she was asked.

"Sometimes," the little waitress admitted reluctantly. "But I have to work, and I can't be a baby."

And so, what might have been a stark tragedy has turned out to be just a warning. A warning not only to Opal Wells, but to every other girl who travels alone at night.

AUTOIST HITS CABLE ACROSS ROAD; INJURED

GREENVILLE, Pa., Sept. 14.—J. L. Jones was seriously hurt when his auto hit a steel cable stretched across the new state road.

PARENTS HELD IN BEATINGS

Irate neighbors, charging a boy and girl were beaten too frequently, caused the arrest of Mr. and Mrs. John Mascios, of 3212 Central street, who today were held, pending investigation, by Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court. More than 10 witnesses appeared, several testifying that yesterday the boy, John Mascios, Jr., 15, had been chased from his home by his mother, who hurled a brick at him. Further testimony was given that the sister, Anastasia Mascios, 16, had been chased from her home. Neighbors befriended her.

FREE CHUM IN YOUTH'S DEATH

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—A coroner's jury today found that Paul S. Winters, of Fredonia, Mercer county, was shot and killed accidentally and ordered the release of George O. Hollibaugh, also of Fredonia, with Winters when he met death in a house at Takoma Park, Md., a suburb of the national capital.

Hollibaugh maintained that a pistol was accidentally discharged while they were packing preparatory to returning home after attending commencement exercises at a nursing school from which a girl friend graduated.

DIVORCING "NICKY" ARNDSTEIN

Fanny Brice, musical comedy and vaudeville star, will sue "a New York society woman" for $250,000 for alienation of affection after she completes her suit for divorce from "Nicky" Arndstein, as the name is spelled in the bill, it has been intimated by her attorney. The woman is one of the wealthiest and most prominent in New York. Fanny is shown above with her two children, Frances and William Jules.

Teacher's Nose Is Broken By Pupil

MT. HOLLY, N. J., Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Miss Caroline Carroll, 25, of Rancocas, a teacher in the Mount Holly public school, received a broken nose yesterday when she was hit by a pupil with whom she had remonstrated for alleged failure to salute the American flag. The pupil, William Albertson, 13, was arrested on a charge of assault and battery.

Asserting that he had saluted the flag, Albertson said the teacher had shaken him violently, scratched his neck and pulled his hair, and that he had struck her in attempting to break her hold.

Police reserves were called to quell the disturbance that arose while Albertson was being reprimanded.

COAL MAN CITED FOR CONTEMPT

Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker today signed a decree holding Robert P. Cann, of Stoneboro, Pa., treasurer of the Mercer Iron and Coal Company, in contempt of court for failing to turn over to F. R. Kanengeiser and Harry Keck, receivers for the iron and coal company, a check for $1,260.18 made payable to the company. The receivers were appointed in an equity suit brought by the Eagle Indemnity Company.

It was brought out at the hearing that Cann had not cashed the check. He was directed to pay the costs in the contempt proceedings and sentence was suspended.

HURT CRANKING CAR IN GEAR

Bernhart Spleth, 27, probably was fatally injured by his own machine today. He was craking it while it was in gear, and was pinned against a truck parked ahead of his automobile at East Ohio street and Uneeda way, North Side. He was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital. Spleth, whose home is in Vermont, was visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Spleth, at 1464 High street, and was starting the machine to go to the store for his mother when the accident occurred.

John S. Cowan, supervising principal of the township, said the situation was well in hand and no further trouble was expected. Strikes had occurred also at the Sunnyside and the Franklin schools.

As to the possibility of the pupils returning to school for a few days and then going on strike again so as to keep within the law, C. E. Dickey, superintendent of county schools, declared this morning that such demonstrations would not be tolerated.

"What do these people expect to gain by keeping their children out of school?" Dr. Dickey demanded. "Such acts have a tendency to provoke those in authority and we will have to resort to the arm of the law. If any more strikes are called, we shall have to resort to stringent measures," he declared.

ARREST 3 AFTER BRAWL

after Murphy became quarrelsome when asked to leave the headquarters. He was said to have been distributing his own campaign literature.

Franklin Murphy, 21, son of the candidate, and James Lenigan, 21, of 2022 Plainview avenue, were arrested when they upheld the contention of Murphy that he "did not have to get out" as Patrolman Lavery and two other patrolman began to eject them.

FIRST STEP IN PROBE BEGUN

HARRISBURG, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Impounding of the ballots cast in 32 counties of the middle district of Pennsylvania at the general election last November having been ordered by Federal Judge Albert Johnson as the first step toward a recount of the senatorial vote, plans went forward today to have the boxes in the eastern and western districts impounded.

Prothonotaries of the Common Pleas Courts in five counties where the records are to be concentrated were directed to keep the boxes and their contents safely pending further disposition.

Similar proceedings for the impounding of ballot boxes in the eastern and western districts were expected to be started in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh today or tomorrow.

JUDGE DECLINES TO ACT

(By International News Service.)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—Judge Oliver B. Dickinson, of the United States District Court here, declined to act today on applications by attorneys for Senator-elect William S. Vare and William B. Wilson, his Democratic opponent, for the impounding of the ballot boxes and their contents in all the counties comprising the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

Judge Dickinson referred the lawyers to his colleague, Judge J. Whitaker Thompson, to whom they will make applications tomorrow.

Judge Dickinson did not act on the application because he preferred that the matter be taken up with Judge Thompson, who is familiar with the entire situation through having heard the test suit of the Reed senatorial committee for the impounding of the ballot boxes of Delaware county.

They were smiling despite the bad luck they have had since they arrived in Japan, having been forced down twice at Omura on the Island of Kiushiu by inclement weather. They apparently escaped injury and their plane damage in the typhoon and tidal wave that struck the Omura area early today. A heavy rainstorm in the vicinity of Tokio today did not seem to bother them much.

DOG SAVES MASTER AS FIRE DESTROYS HOME

ALBANY, N. Y.—Adolph Mylie, farmer living near Albany, owes his life to a faithful police dog which dashed into a burning house and awakened its master just in time to save his life. Mylie was asleep when the fire broke out. The flames were at the door of his room when the dog leaped through the fire to his master's side and awakened him. Unable to escape through the hall, Mylie barely had time to leap through a window before the flames reached his bed. His family was away at the time.

SHARPSBURG K. OF C. ELECTS OFFICERS

The annual election of Sharpsburg Council No. 972, Knights of Columbus, was held last night in the clubhouse, 1624 Main street. Joseph P. # EARLY RULING UNLIKELY IN MINE CASE

W. VA. GIRL DRUGGED, ROBBED

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(INS.)—Miss Cordie Harvey, 25, of wealthy parents of Charleston, W. Va., who came to New York two weeks ago to "see the sights," was lured to a hotel room and drugged and robbed of jewelry valued at $1,500, it became known today with the arrest of two suspects.

The prisoners described themselves as Edward Kelly and Paul Jeffries, waiters. The police say they were identified by Miss Harvey.

Miss Harvey told the police that one evening recently she wanted to go to the City Hall postoffice and asked a young man at Thirty-second street and Broadway for directions. It happened to be Jeffries, she said.

She said later he met her on the street and reminded her he was the man who gave her the directions.

Later he learned where she was stopping, the Hotel Martinique. On the night of the robbery he waved to her as she stood on a balcony at the hotel and said she looked lonesome. She said she was not. He said he had come to the hotel to visit Mr. and Mrs. Bentley, a newly married couple. Wouldn't she like to meet them? She accompanied Jeffries to a room on an upper floor.

There was no woman in the room, but there was a man there, said by the police to be Kelly. Miss Harvey said one of the men seized her from behind and pressed a handkerchief, saturated with chloroform, to her nose.

The two men fled with her rings, one valued at $1,125, another at $250, a third at $75, a watch worth $40 and $20 in money, according to Miss Harvey.

WOULD DISSOLVE BURIAL SOCIETY

The People's Burial Association filed a petition in Common Pleas Court asking for a dissolution of the corporation. It was incorporated February 23, 1926, and ceased business March 5, 1927. The court fixed October 7 for the date of the hearing. The purpose of the association was to insure proper burial of its members. The member selected his own undertaker and an approximate sum that he desired to expend for burial costs. The amount of money to be paid in each month's assessment was rationed.

FORMER PITTSBURGH MAN GUILTY IN AUTO CRASH

SOMERSET, Pa., Sept. 14.—Marsh Boalman, former East Liberty meat dealer, but now of Bethel township, Allegheny county, was convicted of aggravated assault and battery in court here yesterday, the result of an automobile collision on the Lincoln highway, October 31, 1926. Boalman, attempting to pass another car, crashed head on with the auto of E. K. Espenshade, Harrisburg, going in the opposite direction.

BULL TOSSES MAN INTO FENCE OF BARBED WIRE

SHARON, Pa., Sept. 14.—Attacked by a bull as he was crossing the Beattie farm, Nick Miller, of Clarksville, was thrown into a barbed wire fence and painfully hurt.

BOLIVAR (O.) CHURCH STRUCK BY LIGHTNING

BOLIVAR, O., Sept. 14.—Lightning knocked several holes in the roof and belfry of the Methodist Church yesterday while decorators were working in the church's interior.

SHE LAUGHS

Sophomore art, when applied to the face, apparently didn't disturb Miss Billie Bair, Latrobe, at the festivities. She was a sophomore guest.

"WILT THOU, ETC.?"

Miss Virginia Roberts, Pittsburgh, had only a decisive "No!" and a cold shoulder for H. Anderson, New Haven, Conn. Both are freshmen, just beginning.

Old Glory Hulk Dims Hope For Crew

WRECKAGE IN BATTERED STATE

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Because of the condition of the wreckage of the monoplane Old Glory found approximately 600 miles off the Newfoundland coast, little hope was held today that the occupants of the plane, Lloyd Bertaud, James D. Hill and Philip A. Payne, are still alive.

Searchers on the steamer Kyle, chartered to hunt for the missing fliers, found a portion of the wreckage on Monday. Further dispatches reaching here today from the Kyle stated that a remnant of the plane's wing, measuring 34 feet and including three of the four gas tanks, had been found in the turbulent waters.

Apparently the fuselage had been torn off and no trace of the engine was discovered, although a part of the fuselage and a piece of landing gear was found.

The fact that some of the wreckage had been kept afloat aroused hopes that the three men might have escaped in the buoyant collapsible lifeboat, which was not found. The Kyle is continuing the search.

The three gasoline tanks picked up contained large quantities of gasoline. Glass fuel gauges and feed pipes were connected to the tanks.

The engine and body of the plane evidently had been torn from the wing. It was believed that the missing gasoline tank, holding 500 gallons, broke loose and smashed the plane, breaking it in two.

That the wing belonged to the Old Glory was established beyond a doubt when the Stars and Stripes were found painted on the lower side. Part of the lettering also was discernible.

FATHER GETS 15 YEARS FOR ATTACKING DAUGHTER

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 14.—Convicted on charges of attacking his daughter Lillian, 9, leaving her for dead along a roadside last May 4, William Donahue, 38, of Derry, was sentenced by Judge Charles D. Copeland today to serve from 7½ to 15 years in the Western Penitentiary. State police arrested Donahue, following a two-weeks' search, after the girl told them her father was responsible for the attack.

POLICE HUNT MISSING NEW CASTLE MAN, 51

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Sept. 14.—Police are looking for Thomas J. Rowan, 51, of New Castle. He disappeared from home, leaving farewell notes to his wife, mother and brother.

KNIGHT ERRANT RESCUES MILADY'S SLIPPER IN RAIN

HORRORS!

It was raining—heavily—Tuesday morning. A fair, petite miss hustling to the day's work stepped from a Beechview street car at Second avenue and Smithfield street, stepped daintily towards the curb, hopped gracefully over a widening stream in the gutter. One slipper, a dainty slipper, dropped into the water. "Eek!"

SIR WALTER

Cometh the knight, dashing through the pouring rain to milady in dire distress. Sir Walter splashed manfully into the gutter's swell, retrieved the delicate slipper from the very jaws of a yawning sewer drop, and dramatically returned it to the damsel. He proffered an arm while she replaced it.

"THANK YOU!"

Lothario picked up her forgotten umbrella, she thanked him blushingly, but clung tightly to his arm as they walked oblivious of everyone else down Smithfield street. "You may call Locust——," her voice trailed back and an elderly bystander broke in: "Well, chivalry isn't dead after all, is it?"

YOUTH SHOT, MAN HELD AT WASHINGTON, PA.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 14.—William Dickey, 30, of Weirich avenue, is being held here on a charge of having shot and wounded Earl Meeks, 21, of Broad street, when Meeks returned to the Dickey home in company with Mrs. Dickey. Dickey declares he fired because he thought Meeks was about to attack him. He admits Meeks had caused trouble in his home.

MAN FOUND GUILTY OF BEATING TEACHER

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 14.—Perry Warren, New Kensington, was found guilty in Criminal Court here on a charge of having beaten Prof. Ernest Shupe, teacher in the schools of that place last March 22. Following trouble between Shupe and Warren's son, Warren invaded the school and attacked the instructor. Sentence will be pronounced later.

WOMEN FINED FOR BREAKING PEACE VOW

DOVER, O., Sept. 14.—Six women residents of Washington street signed an agreement a month ago not to fight among themselves. It was broken the other day and Mrs. Kate Tordy and Mrs. Mary Melich, arrested and accused of describing each other in no uncertain terms, were fined $1 apiece by Justice Weaver.

P. R. R. REQUESTS BUILDING PERMIT

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has applied for a building permit to erect seven temporary wooden train platforms at the east end of its present train shed in Pennsylvania Station. The cost of the work is estimated at $40,000.

The job will include umbrella shelter platforms to afford protection for passengers while work is proceeding in enlarging the steel train shed. Rapid progress is being made in razing buildings along Liberty avenue from Eleventh to Seventeenth street, ground which will be used in the enlargement of the terminal.

A strip five feet deep with a frontage of 21 feet on Ferry street, near First avenue, has been sold by Joseph Sachs to Charles J. Antipas at private terms.

A six-family apartment building with garages at 1300-02 Wisconsin avenue, Dormont, has been sold by Andrew Reagan to Ethel Klebansky, who took in part payment six six-room houses in the Rosedale Heights plan. The total consideration was $127,500. The Auslander Krasnow Company was the broker.

WYLIE AVENUE SALE

Israel Goodstein has sold to David Averbach a two-story brick building at 2631 Wylie avenue, lot 22x100 feet, and four brick dwellings at 807-13 Wylie avenue, lot 76x63 feet, at private terms.

The Pittsburgh Real Estate Board held its first luncheon of the fall yesterday in the William Penn Hotel. L. T. Stevenson, president of the board, presided. A. W. Stevenson reported on the national real estate convention at Seattle. W. C. Short reported on the educational courses being sponsored by the board and the University of Pittsburgh. Many new members who joined during the present membership campaign were present at the luncheon.

Building permit applications filed today included:

Fourteenth Ward—R. T. Scully, brick and tile dwelling and garage, 111 South Linden avenue, $27,000; J. J. Bissell, brick and tile dwelling and garage, 123 South Linden avenue, $30,000; R. H. Pearce, brick dwelling, 3325 Beechwood boulevard, $12,000.

Twenty-fourth Ward—C. Camells, brick store and dwelling, 1624 East street, $9,500.

COAL SUIT LIES WITH COURT

A belief that a ruling in the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation's injunction and damage suit against the United Mine Workers of America would be handed down by Tuesday prevailed among both defense and plaintiff counsel today, as Judge F. P. Schoonmaker deliberated over the mass of argument and evidence submitted in the three-day hearing. This opinion, it was indicated, was predicated largely on the fact that Judge Schoonmaker will leave, the first of next week, for the Erie term of Federal Court.

The main point at issue in the deliberations probably is that of the jurisdiction of a Federal Court. Plaintiff arguments held that the strike, hampering production, restricted shipments of the company's coal in interstate commerce, and was a matter for Federal Court ruling. The defense maintained that since mining was not interstate commerce, interference with mining was not interference with interstate commerce. It also held that since a similar matter now is on appeal in state courts, the Federal Court would be overstepping its bounds to interfere.

The plaintiff seeks a temporary injunction restraining the miners from interfering with their operations, and huge monetary damages for property destruction and loss alleged to have been caused. Decision in the case will affect mine union activities throughout the country.

BOOTLEG SECRET TO BE BARED

Trade secrets of bootleg manufacturers will be revealed by Dr. H. Elliott Foote, who holds the alcohol fellowship at Mellon Institute, in a speech at Bureau of Mines Thursday night. He will speak on the various methods of producing alcohol and tell about the synthetic sources of that liquid.

52 STUDENTS ENROLLED FOR LIBRARIAN COURSE

With an enrollment of 52 students, the Carnegie Library School began its twenty-seventh year today. A special program was scheduled with the address of welcome by Dr. Samuel Harden Church, president of the board of trustees at Carnegie Institute. The students are registered from all parts of the country. Thirty-five have their bachelor's degree or will receive it at the end of the course.

AIR DERBY PLANE GETS NEW PROPELLOR HERE

A Ryan monoplane, a duplicate of the famous Lindbergh plane, is being fitted with a new propeller at Rodgers field today in preparation for entry in the transcontinental air derby. Frank M. Hawk, a Ford national air tour pilot, landed the plane here last night en route from Texas to New York.

THIEVES TAKE BULLDOG ALONG WITH REGISTER

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Sept. 14.—A bulldog guarding the place was taken, along with the cash register, by thieves who entered the Lanigan service station on the New Castle-Youngstown road near Harbor Bridge. Money loss was small.

FIRE HELD AT BAY -:- AFTER GAS JET PLAY -:- WHEN MAMMY'S AWAY

"MAMMY'S GONE"

ALL ALONE

Mammy went away for a short time and left Robert Lee Morris, 6, and William Lennion Morris, 4, 6348 Orphan street, all alone at home. They sat on their stoop, wondering what to do. Sittin' still ain't no fun for little fellers.

"PLAY"

A foray through the house turned up nothing new but a gas jet in a baseboard . . . matches . . . pretty flames.

FIRE!

And in another minute, the wall was ablaze and the flames spreading. Turning off the jet wouldn't stop it. They crouched terror-stricken in the corner, amazed at their own work.

HELP!

They couldn't even beat it out and it was hot too close. They shrieked for help. Firemen came.

"WE'S SORRY"

And when Mammy came home! They were seriously examining with due care the results of their day of fun. Damage, firemen said, was about $250, fortunately no more. "We's sorry, Mammy, honest." The proper corrective measures have been taken.

SEA WRECKAGE MAY SOLVE FATE OF 10 FLIERS

Colors of 3 Missing Planes Similar

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 — (AP.) — Discovery of airplane wreckage in widely separated parts of the Atlantic ocean may mean that the sea, which has guarded the secret of the loss of four transatlantic airplanes, will yet relent to explain in part the disappearance of nine men and a woman.

The parts of the planes buoyant enough to survive as floating wreckage are sufficiently marked for identification by which aviation experts might reconstruct some of the missing details of the catastrophes.

French fishermen have reported finding about three weeks ago wreckage of a "yellowish color with black lettering" 250 miles off Sable Island, a trecherous strip of Nova Scotian land.

Other wreckage has been found at Newquay, Cornwall, England. The Cornwall reports do not include identification marks. Three of the missing planes had wings each of a different shade of yellow.

WHITE BIRD?

The wreckage seen by the French fishermen may have been part of the "White Bird" of Capt. Nungesser and Maj. Coli, which set out May 8 on a flight from Paris to New York. The "White Bird," as indicated by its name was all white, the only relief being a skull and cross bones in black.

Four months in salt water might have given an appearance of the "yellowish color."

The ill-fated Levasseur plane was the object of a widespread search at sea and in the wilds of Canada.

The three other missing planes, the St. Raphael, Old Glory and Sir John Carling, all had yellow or gold wings.

OTHERS

The St. Raphael, a Fokker monoplane, flew August 31 from Salisbury plain, England, for Ottawa, Canada, with a fuselage of sky blue and bright yellow wing.

The Old Glory hopped off September 6 from Old Orchard, Me., for Rome, Italy, with a fuselage of silver and wing of old gold.

The Sir John Carling, bound September 7 from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, for London, had a fuselage of deep green and wing of burnt yellow.

TARIFF WALLS IN EUROPE TO BAR U. S.

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14—European countries generally will follow the lead of France in erecting a tariff wall against the United States in retaliation against this nation's high tariff, Representative Emanuel Celler, Democrat, of New York, declared.

Returned from sessions of the Interparliamentary Union at Paris, Celler predicted that the American Congress will be compelled to reduce the tariff duties in wholesale fashion. He said:

"The American farmer has long since seen that high tariff has been more or less a bane of his existence. It has worked to his disadvantage. He has been compelled to buy in a protected market and sell in a free market. They will be joined by American exporters to France.

"The protest filed by the American officials against provisions of the new French tariff seems a bit of a joke.

"American exporters who have been hard hit by the higher French duties may have a right to complain, but it seems ludicrous for the administration to complain—the administration that has been the upholder of the highest kind of tariff.

"All Europe is obsessed with the idea that the high tariff has made for American prosperity, and therefore seeks the same prosperity through the same supposed medium."

CONVICT SHOT IN OHIO BREAK

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 14—(AP)—One Ohio penitentiary convict was shot and another made good his escape yesterday when two prisoners at the stone quarry made a break for liberty.

Thomas H. Berry, 29, Negro, was shot in the back and leg by Guard Willis and removed to the prison hospital. He was sentenced from Montgomery county for assault in July, 1924.

Dug Griffin, 30, also a Negro, made good his escape. He was sentenced from Hamilton county for housebreaking and was received at the prison February 11, 1926.

The man dropped their tools and bolted as Willis turned his back, but he saw them before they had gone a very great distance, and opened fire.

Special Sale of Samples

FURNITURE

Our buyer attended this annual Exposition, and, as usual, secured many fine samples of new Furniture at approximately 25% Savings. There are no duplicates, just one of a kind—the illustrated pieces give you a fair idea of what you may secure.

This Three-Piece Suite

$149.75

We hesitate to give you a true estimate of its value, but the saving is certainly not less than 25%. Beautiful carved frame with a curiously worked serpentine front. Upholstered in a three-tone jacquard velour that is exceptionally beautiful. With reversible cushions.

This Two-Piece Suite

$199.50

Unfortunately there is but one suite of this character, yet there are other suites of different woods and design at equal savings. This suite is Louis XVI type, with solid mahogany frame and upholstering of fine taupe mohair all-over. Reversible cushions of frieze.

Fine Chair Samples

$48.75 to $95

A great number of chairs, but just one of a kind—the illustration is of typical beauty. Some are covered in mohairs, others in velours or friezes. All are remarkable values.

Love Seat Samples

$82.50 to $125

You will see love seats in the finer homes these days—they fill a specific need so appropriately and so beautifully. These are upholstered in mohair and damasks.

PARENTS FIGHT HOSPITAL OVER BABY'S SEX

INFANT TAGGED WRONG, SAYS DOCTOR

CLEVELAND, [illegible] Sept. 14.—A mother and father who [illegible] say they became the parents of a boy today stood ready to carry on their legal fight against hospital authorities who claim the child was a girl.

Samuel [illegible], the father, testified before Judge Carl Weygandt yesterday that a baby was born to his wife three weeks ago and that physicians told him at the time it was a boy.

Judge Weygandt was called upon to decide whether a substitution had been made, continued the hearing until later in the month, so that a nurse, Miss Ruth Meyer, could return from a vacation and testify. Miss Meyer was present when the baby was born.

TOLD IT WAS BOY

Smith was shaving a man at his barber shop on the day the baby was born, he said, when a hospital doctor telephoned him congratulations on being the father of a nine-pound baby boy. He finished shaving the customer, closed his shop and went to the hospital.

In the maternity ward nurses told him the baby was a boy, he continued, and showed him the marker "male" on the baby's crib.

"A week later I visited the hospital again and found my wife crying," Smith said. "She told me the nurses had brought her a baby girl."

"I'm fighting this case to make sure there was no substitution," he said. "If it can be proved to us that the girl is our baby that will be the end of the matter.

"Meanwhile the worry is causing my wife days of unnecessary illness. Neither of us is particular. We wanted one but a girl will do if it's really our own."

The Smiths have four other children, three of them girls.

TAGGED WRONG

Philip Vollmer, hospital superintendent, told the other side of the story.

"The mistake came in labeling the baby at birth," he said.

"Instead of marking the baby as a girl, the nurse in attendance through some oversight placed a male label on the child. We handle so many babies that the nurses depend on the label for reference. However, we finally brought the matter to Mrs. Smith's attention and told her it was a girl."

Dr. A. J. Rustink, a physician who arrived shortly after the birth of the Smith baby, said that he had been confused by the label and entered the name of George Smith on a birth certificate at the request of the mother. Later, when the baby was found to be a girl, the certificate was changed, he said.

CORN, FLAX TARIFFS ORDERED INVESTIGATED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—President Coolidge has ordered the tariff commission to investigate demands for increasing the tariff on both corn and flax to protect American producers from foreign competition. The necessity of a higher tariff on cherries also is being studied.

DIRIGIBLE FOR NORTH POLE EXCURSION

GEN. NOBILE'S NEW SHIP

Here is the N-4 at Milan, Italy, in which Gen. Umberto Nobile, who accompanied Amundsen in his flight over the North Pole, will attempt another such flight to the pole and points west. The expedition will be much larger than Amundsen's. It is backed by the municipality of Milan and the Royal Geographical Society. The object is to explore between the Pole and Alaska.

ULDINE UTLEY HOLDS FAMILY SERVICES

The largest family represented at "Family Night" at Memorial Hall last night was a father, mother and six children. There were several large and small families welcomed by Uldine Utley, evangelist, who had arranged a special sermon for the family group.

Uldine spoke on the words of Joshua: "As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord."

Among the ones who asked the little preacher to pray for them was a woman described as "very wicked-looking, who said she was lost."

She was assured that no one was lost, but the woman shook her head and said:

"I am afraid I am. I have been instrumental in leading so many young people astray. I feel God can never forgive me."

After getting down on her knees and praying, Uldine says, the woman "went away happier."

WOMAN, 65, TAKES FIRST AIR RIDE; FORCED DOWN

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Sept. 14.—While visiting her daughter in Youngstown, O., Mrs. Mary A. Kerber, 65, took her first airplane ride. And the plane had a forced landing a mile from Lansdowne Field.

MUCH LOOT FOUND ON ALLEGED SHOPLIFTER

SHARON, Pa., Sept. 14.—When Mrs. Julia Sabo, arrested for the third time on a shoplifting charge, was searched there were found 14 rings, 40 strings of beads and 2 pairs of hose all on her person.

WALTER S. WARD SUED BY WIFE FOR DIVORCE

By Universal Service.

RENO, NEV., Sept. 14—Walter S. Ward, millionaire New York bakery man, who has been missing for the past year and a half and who was acquitted four years ago of the murder of Clarence Peters, an ex-Marine, is being sued here for divorce.

Mrs. Beryl Curtis Ward, who stayed by her husband through all the strain of his trial, filed the action through local attorneys. She did not put in an appearance in Reno, however, and even after more than three months' residence here her whereabouts remains unknown.

The action charges infidelity, failure to provide, and desertion. Mrs. Ward asks for the custody of her two small children, for whom she returned to New York after her first journey to Reno when she was told that they must be with her if she planned to seek their custody.

Details of the alleged infidelities against Ward were not given in the complaint, and it is understood that Mrs. Ward hopes to withhold the identity of the woman or women whom she accuses of being partly responsible for the breaking up of her home.

Ward, the son of George S. Ward, former Pittsburgher, president of the Ward Baking Company of New York, was the center of a nation-wide sensation in 1922, following the shooting of Peters on May 16 of that year.

WARD 'PADDING' HEARING TODAY

Another phase of the First Ward aldermanic battle between Thomas A. Flanigan and A. M. Maloney will be heard today when Patrolman Thomas Delahanty, reporting at Central Station, attempts to explain to Alderman Maloney why he registered in the Fifth District of the ward, Magee street, Monday when, it is charged, his residence is in the Fifteenth District. Delahanty was arrested on information made before Alderman Maloney shortly after he registered and was released under $1,500. Maloney forces charge that the ward registration is being padded in favor of his opponent, said to be the favorite of police.

DEATH ROLL

William H. Denman.

William H. Denman, 74, of Bellevue, died Sunday in Suburban General Hospital, Bellevue. He had taken part in trapshooting events, and was a member of Beaver Gun Club, Beaver, Pa., and several other sportsmen's associations. He leaves two sisters, Miss Mary Ann Denman and Mrs. Ellen Jesson, both of England, and two brothers, Henry Denman, of Palisade, Col., and Frederick J. Denman, of Pittsburgh.

The Rev. L. W. Shey.

The Rev. L. W. Shey, formerly assistant rector at Trinity Episcopal Church, died in Bridgeport, Conn., yesterday after a short illness. At the time of his death he was rector of the Episcopal Church at Mystic, Conn. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Charlotte Hazlett Shey, niece of the late John N. Hazlett, of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. W. P. Buchanan.

Mrs. Margaret Snodgrass Buchanan, wife of W. P. Buchanan, of 329 Bailey avenue, Mt. Washington, died yesterday in the Allegheny General Hospital. She was born in Strabane, County Tyrone, Ireland, and had lived in this country for 35 years. Besides her husband she leaves two brothers, Alexander Snodgrass, of Leeds, England, and Edward Snodgrass, Sr., of Bellevue. She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church.

$35,000 DEMANDED AS RESULT OF CRASH HURTS

George and Rosie Haller filed a suit for $35,000 damages against the Service Appliance Company, on behalf of their minor son, Michael Haller. They allege the son was injured last February 7, by an automobile truck of the defendant company in Fifth avenue near Sheridan street, McKeesport. The parents ask $10,000 for themselves, and $25,000 for the son.

Inexpensive Horne Hats Are Backed by An Ideal

Horne hats in the moderate range of $5.00 to $10.00 are chosen according to a very certain standard of quality and style.

They are pliable in texture, a feature which always distinguishes the better type of millinery.

Their styles are, for the most part, copies of adaptations of Paris originals. Among the new ones which show Paris inspiration, are the velvet hats which are draped after the Alphonsine manner, felt hats with the off-the-face brims typical of Agnes models, hats in which felt-and-velvet are combined according to the dictates of Reboux, and the skull cap effects which have been variously sponsored by almost all the important French designers.

Wear Weave Coats

Women's Models Featured at

$55.00 to $100.00

Designed for travel, general service and to interchange with a fur coat, Wear Weaves at this range are outstanding for the following reasons:

They offer wide choice of fabrics, of both conservative and novelty patterns.

Most of the fabrics are superior imported ones.

They include weights for the woman who wants a coat for immediate wear and who prefers such a general-service coat to be light enough to carry easily; and weights for the most severe winter weather.

The trimming furs are of excellent quality, they harmonize delightfully with the texture and coloring of the coats, and there is wide choice of flat and long-haired furs—natural lynx, badger, wolf, Jap fox, kit fox, squirrel and beaver.

There are all regular sizes, and sizes for large and small women.

LONG STRIKE SEEN IN ILLINOIS PEACE FAILURE

COLLAPSE DIMS HOPE OF MINE SETTLEMENT

By International News Service.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Prospects that the Illinois coal strike would continue indefinitely were seen today as a result of the breakdown of peace negotiations between operators and officials of the miners' union.

The final break, marking the end of present negotiations, came last evening when members of the Illinois Coal Operators' Association and the executive committee of District 12, United Mine Workers of America, met to hear the report of the peace committee, composed of two representatives of each group.

George B. Harrington, operator and spokesman for the committee, reported that the peace body could not agree.

A. J. Moorshead of the Madison Coal Company broke a painful silence that followed the report by expressing regret that the negotiations should end thus.

"The time will come," he said, "when we will take a saner view. After 30 years of working together it requires a stout heart and a dumb mind to withstand the scenes of distress in our mining regions."

John L. Lewis, international president of the miners' union, declared the ultimatum of the operators demanded as a basis for negotiations the surrender of the miners' wage scale and that the miners had offered peace with honor to both sides.

After the brief session had adjourned, President Lewis issued the following statement:

"I regret the conference's failure of agreement and I consider that the Illinois miners made a most commendable offer to go back to work without prejudice to either side's position. I am sure the business men and the public of the mining communities will appreciate their position."

DEPUTY SHERIFF NABBED IN NANT-Y-GLO SHOOTNIG

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 14.—A. J. Zimmerman, deputy sheriff and coal and iron policeman, was arrested last night on a charge of felonious shooting in connection with the wounding of Charles Misenko, 26, striking miner at Nant-y-Glo Sunday night. Trouble occurred between union and non-union miners. Misenko's condition is critical.

QUITS JOB ON FINDING FLOOD-BURIED LIQUOR

ZANESVILLE, O., Sept. 14.—A quart bottle of bonded whisky that had been buried far underground since the flood of 1913, when several saloons in the Main street section were washed away, was dug up today by a workman repairing a foundation. He pocketed the liquor and walked off the job, saying that he was going to find the owner.

NOT A SHRINKING VIOLET

GIGANTIC LILIES

Tropical lilies such as the Victoria Regina give splendor to the Tower Grove Park, St. ouis. The bloom is named after the English Queen and will support a man.

WIFE'S DEATH VOIDS WAYNE B. WHEELER'S WILL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Wayne B. Wheeler, Anti-Saloon League chieftain, left the bulk of his estate to his wife, who preceded him in death by three weeks, his will revealed when offered for probate. The estate, extent of which was not mentioned, will thus revert to the children. The will was drawn 10 years ago. Bequests of $500 to his mother, and $350 to his father, if living, were provided in the will. Both, however, are now dead.

don't fool yourself

It ruins romance

Do you ever come face to face with a real case of Halitosis (unpleasant breath)? Can you imagine yourself married to a person offending this way? Halitosis is the unforgivable social offence, and don't fool yourself by thinking you never have it.

The insidious thing about it is that you yourself never can tell. The one way to avoid such offence is to rinse the mouth with Listerine, the safe antiseptic.

Immediately it removes every unpleasant odor—even a powerful one like that of the onion.

Keep a bottle handy in home and office. Send for our free book of etiquette. Address Lambert Pharmacal Co., Dept. G-4, 2101 Locust St., St. Louis, Mo.

Paint the House NOW!

DO you know that autumn is the best house-painting season of the year?

The summer sun has drawn the excess moisture from surfaces until they have become dry and porous. The paint will stick better, fill up the pores of the wood more thoroughly and last longer. Then, when the damp days of winter arrive, the house will be thoroughly protected.

Do your house painting now! Paint garages, barns, porches, woodwork, everything exposed to the weather. Above all, use good paint.

Practical painters will tell you that Lawrence Paints are best for all painting purposes. High-grade ingredients, careful manufacture and over a quarter of a century experience are a few reasons why Lawrence Paints are so highly recommended.

They are sold by paint and hardware stores most everywhere.

11 FACE FIRING SQUAD FOR LITHUANIAN REVOLT

BERLIN, Sept. 14—Despite the strict censorship laid down by the Lithuanian government since the abortive revolution began at Tauroggen, it became known here that six students were shot to death by a firing squad on orders from the Lithuanian general staff and that five more will face the executioners tonight. Reports reaching here indicate that the Lithuanian government has been forced to adopt drastic measures to check the revolutionary movement which threatens the existence of the Wolemaras dictatorship.

WOMAN SEEKS $7,500 FOR INJURIES

Injuries suffered when a truck collided with a street car on which she was a passenger, resulted in a suit for $7,500 damages being filed against the Pittsburgh Railways Company and C. R. Moore Company, by Rose M. Coleman and her husband, George A. Coleman.

It is averred that Mrs. Coleman was a passenger in a car in West Liberty avenue, when a truck of the Moore company collided with the car, knocking her to the floor and causing permanent injuries.

Emma J. Taylor asks $20,000 damages in suit filed against J. L. Milburn for injuries suffered January 7 last, at Penn avenue and Barker place when struck by a truck of the defendant.

COOLIDGE SHAKING HANDS AGAIN AT WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—President Coolidge has revived the noon reception at the White House. About 166 people passed through his office and received the first handshakes since his return from the Black Hills. The receptions had been abandoned last spring when the President suffered a sprained wrist.

FARM-LOAN EXTENSIONS FOR FLOOD SUFFERERS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Plans to allow farmers of flood-stricken areas in the Middle West and South more time for repayment of their government loans are slated for discussion at conferences of the presidents of the 12 Federal land banks here this week. Many of the borrowers were said to be unable to repay their advances or meet interest charges.

Leading Woman -:- Mother and Housewife -:- Third Orphan

LITA GREY, as she appeared at 17, shortly before her marriage to Charlie Chaplin, with whom she was leading woman. She contemplates returning to films.

LITA GREY CHAPLIN, with her children, posed for this domestic picture at a time when her divorce action against her noted comedian husband was pending, also stating that she would be starved into taking up picture work again. Beefsteak is more plentiful now.

BETTY JEWEL entered the movies on a dare, appearing first in D. W. Griffith's "Orphans of the Storm," in which she was termed "the third orphan."

Erstwhile Brothers-In-Law In Same Film As Anita Stewart's Husband Shows Up For Divorce

NEW YORK, Sept. 14

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS,
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service.

RUDOLPH CAMERONS' sudden appearance in Hollywood after an absence of many years was put down to one thing, a definite move to obtain his much-rumored freedom from Anita Stewart.

Anita, who has had many admirers, has let the years go by without divorcing young Cameron, who was her leading man in the old Vitagraph days.

A divorce may have been in Rudy Cameron's mind, but apparently so was a job in the movies. At least, before any divorce papers were filed he got himself a job. It seems a peculiar trick of fate that his return engagement to the screen should be made in "Coney Island," Ralph Ince's picture. Ralph only a few years ago was married to Lucille Lee Stewart, a sister of Anita. After being divorced from her he married Lucille Mendez, who is now his leading lady.

The association of the two erstwhile brothers-in-law was brought about in this way. Ralph Ince had been playing the lead in "Coney Island" as well as directing it, when he decided it was better to let someone else be the hero. So Cameron, who is young and good looking, was chosen as Ince's successor.

There is no stopping these newspaper reporters once they get started. Here we have Roland Drew. Permit me to present him to my readers, a newspaper reporter with movie ambitions. He travels West to get a chance in the "fillums" and picks for himself one of the big roles of the year in "Romona." That Christopher Columbus of the movies, Edwin Carewe, took enough tests to film any ordinary sized rogues gallery to get the right man to play Felipe. Veterans of the screen submitted to tests. Then came Roland Drew, ex-Manhattan reporter, and he screened so well he was given the job. Dolores Del Rio plays Romona and Warner Baxter is in the cast. Lucky Felipe wins the heart of Romona. To win Dolores Del Rio is as perfect an assignment as any reporter could wish. The whole Carewe company has gone to Zion Park to film exteriors.

Betty Bronson, whose sprightly elfish "Peter Pan" brought her into notice a few years ago, is leaving Paramount. The little girl who has tried to "Peter Pan" her way into continued popularity has signed a contract with Warner Brothers to co-star with Monte Blue in "The Come Back."

Betty, who is only 18, has been blamed perhaps unfairly for a series of mediocre pictures. Yet, often it is not the star who should be censured. Nine times out of ten she must do as she is told. At any rate the change to the Warner lot may be an advantageous one.

Monte Blue is a good actor. He does not try to occupy the center of the stage, and his pictures are popular. "The Come Back" is said to afford the little Bronson girl the right opportunity, and we hear she will forget "Peter Pan." That's what she should do.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has purchased "Laugh, Clown, Laugh," from United Artists. This purchase seems to me to augur that we shall see a working arrangement between these two companies in the future that will mean an imposing array of directors, scenario writers and stars. The assets of the two companies is tremendous and with Nicholas Schenck, head of M-G-M, and Joseph Schenck, boss of United Artists, it is reasonable to assume the two brothers will work together. That, I think, is proved in the arrangement made whereby Herbert Brenon has been loaned to M-G-M by U. A. to direct "Laugh, Clown, Laugh," and Nils Asther to play the male lead.

Just a word about Nils Asther, who in addition to being the fiance of Vivian Duncan, seems to have established himself pretty thoroughly in the minds of the Hollywood producers. "Sorrell and Son," directed by Herbert Brenon, was shown in Hollywood the other night and the report comes back to me that it is another "Stella Dallas," with all the pathos, drama and tugs at the heartstrings. Nils, it is said, has scored another success. He seems to be getting many of the choice roles. For instance, he is now playing opposite Pola Negri in "Rachel," and Pola, you will agree, picks them carefully.

Fay Wray does not seem to be getting such a good break after all. She was playing small parts at Universal when Erich Von Stroheim saw her and chose her for the lead in "The Wedding March." That was over a year ago and since that time very little has been heard of her. Working as a Van Stroheim star has its disadvantages, for it means practically retiring from the limelight, since it takes at least a year for any of his pictures to make its appearance. Now comes word that Fay Wray has been chosen to play the feminine lead in "The Legion of the Condemned," by John Monk Saunders, author of "Wings." Miss Wray is a nice child and let's hope this picture gets in circulation soon. Gary Cooper will play opposite her and work will be started under the direction of William Wellman. Yes, he is the same one who directed "Wings."

"SAILORS' WIVES" NEW ASTOR-HUGHES PICTURE

The production schedule at First National's Burbank studios lists Warner Fabian's novel, "Sailors' Wives," as the next vehicle for the screen team of Mary Astor and Lloyd Hughes. Filming is expected to start by the end of the present month, upon completion of "No Place to Go," in which these players are now acting under the direction of Mervyn LeRoy and the production management of Henry Hobart. Mr. Hobart will be production manager for "Sailors' Wives."

Aldine to Show Variety Acts and Films

With the redecorating and re-equipping of Loew's Aldine, Pittsburgh will be given practically a new playhouse, beginning next Monday, at which time a new policy of five acts of vaudeville and feature pictures will be inaugurated. Nothing has been left undone to make the Aldine a beauty complete with every feature not only for entertainment but for comfort.

In order to convert the Aldine from a picture and presentation theater to a vaudeville and picture house it was necessary to install a complete new stage and sets of scenery, which were painted by a group of leading theatrical artists in New York. In keeping with the Loew policy, popular prices will prevail in the Aldine, with a special bargain matinee every day except Saturday. There will be three complete shows daily, beginning at 12:30 o'clock.

In addition to five acts of Loew vaudeville every week, a first release feature picture will be shown. News events of leading happenings throughout the world will be included on the bill daily in addition to short subjects of popular interest. The opening bill will be headed by Lillian Shaw, dialect comedienne. Featured also are the Ritz Brothers, exponents of song, dance and mirth, and Al Vann, song writer, and his gang of musical merrymakers. Downey and McCoy and Miller and Bradford round out the first vaudeville program.

"After Midnight," a Norma Shearer picture, will be the screen feature. Among the coming attractions are Georgie Price, Cantor's Revels, six youthful dancing girls and a funny man, Ryan and Lee and "The Blood Ship," a sea tale of adventure.

MARY SHAW COMING IN "THE CRADLE SONG"

"The Cradle Song," which will be presented in the Nixon next week by the Civic Repertory Theater of New York, is the joint work of Gregorio Martinez Sierra and his wife, Dona Maria Martinez Sierra, both of whom are authors of the first rank in Spain. Mary Shaw heads the company.

"Rose Marie," musical comedy that has created favorable impression here on several previous visits, is booked for the Alvin for one week only, beginning Monday evening, September 19, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday. The sale of seats for this attraction will open tomorrow.

The role of John Connell, central figure in "Honor Be Damned," to be presented by the George Sharp Production Stock Company in the Pitt next week, was played in New York and in Pittsburgh last season, by Willard Mack, the author. Thurston Hall will be seen in this role.

In Keith-Albee vaudeville program in the Davis next week will be "Memories of the Opera," featuring Caesar Rivoli and 18 other artists. The screen feature will be Joseph Schildkraut in "His Dog."

Scenes representing "Lindy's" landing in France and other flying events are announced among the new attractions of "Wine, Woman and Song," the review in the Gayety the coming week, headed by Bert Bertrand and Gertrude Ralston.

Films Find War For Locations Expensive

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 14.—Motion picture location wars come high. Edwin Carewe's fruitless efforts to enter the location site of Al Rogell's First National Picture Company at Inspiration Point, Utah, is estimated to have cost the Carewe outfit four days' time and an expense estimated at $50,000.

This represents the salaries of the company of 200 for the period of idleness, and the overhead for the company, 2,000 head of sheep, and a large number of horses.

Peace between the contending film forces was concluded late last night. Carewe arranged to work at a location in Bryce Canyon. He plans to start shooting his scenes for "Ramona" tomorrow.

Movies Express Realism With Guide Books

Telephone numbers of little Parisian Suzannes and Maries, or the street address of a great criminal lawyer in Vienna, are but a few of the interesting and sometimes useful bits of information that may be obtained in the hand prop room of studios in Hollywood.

For included in the million and one articles that constitute the stock are legal documents, telephone directories, city directories, hotel guides and newspapers of virtually every city of any size in the civilized world. There are race programs, menus, hotel stationery and even canceled checks and postage stamps.

The material is all genuine. While the Parisian telephone books may not contain the numbers of persons who had phones installed last month, it will never be very far behind the times.

This store of material is but an illustration of the demand for realism in pictures these days. When a French newspaper is shown upon the screen, it must be a real French journal and not an imitation. When the heroine in a film is studying a Berlin hotel guide, the audience can be sure it is the real hotels guide in the German capital she is studying.

Gilda Gray to Appear In Person as Well As on Screen

Samuel Goldwyn announced yesterday through United Artists that Gilda Gray's first feature under his direction, "The Devil Dancer," will be released late this year in conjunction with her personal appearance. Definite selection of the city for the premier has not been made, but it is probable that the picture will first be seen in Los Angeles accompanied by an elaborate prologue already under preparation in manuscript form.

Miss Gray and her picture, "The Devil Dancer," will later sojourn East, appearing in principal cities en route. Her company in the prologue, numbering more than 150 dancers and musicians, will travel with Miss Gray. Willy Pogany, Hungarian mural painter and decorator, whose settings are to adorn "The Devil Dancer," also will design the scenery for the prologue.

Early California and Texas Days Setting For New Film

The old customs of the Mexican and Spanish people who resided in California and Texas in the early days of holding numerous festivals, fiestas or bailles, is reproduced in "Gun Gospel," Ken Maynard's latest Western. The entire baille with its picturesque settings, costumes and age-old customs is faithfully brought to the screen as it was held a hundred years ago. An entire sequence of the story of "Gun Gospel" is built around one of these affairs. No more romantic background could have been selected for the meeting of Maynard and the girl in the picture.

The building of this set entailed two months' research for technical details and another four weeks for its construction.

INHERITANCE TAX REPEAL URGED BY CURTIS

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Repeal of the Federal estate tax, leaving that field of taxation to the states, is favored by Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, Republican leader, he declared.

A member of the Senate finance committee, Senator Curtis indicated that he will be disposed to go along with the majority in whatever legislation it may recommend on the Federal "death duties." Personally he believes the Federal government should evacuate the estate tax field.

Announcement by Senator Curtis for repeal of the law came as a great boon to the powerful lobby now in Washington working for repeal of the "death duties."

The national conference of state legislators, organized last week here, will have two days before the House ways and means committee in which to advance their argument for repeal.

At the outset they are faced with opposition to repeal by Chairman W. R. Green, Iowa, of the committee, and Representative John N. Garner, Texas, ranking Democrat on the committee.

Congressmen charged with revenue legislation said that aside from a fight over the amount of tax reduction to be afforded, the fight over the "death duties" is likely to be the biggest in the battle of the new revenue bill.

MELLON TO VISE DRY STORIES

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Controversy over Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman's admission of rampant bribery among prohibition agents appears to have pushed Prohibition Commissioner J. M. Doran to the front as a power in dry enforcement.

Doran has done most of the talking for publication since the Lowman statement appeared. Future statements involving policy considerations will go to Secretary Mellon for approval, it is understood.

Treasury regulations requiring this in the case of all officials have been in effect for some time, but Lowman's statement went out without the customary visa.

Lowman is expected to leave more of the active direction of enforcement to Doran. The reorganization bill gives the commissioner full control of the prohibition bureau, subject to Mellon's power of review and veto.

Mellon's authority, in practice, is delegated to Lowman, who also coordinates prohibition, coast guard and customs activities. Since critical issues ordinarily go to Mellon personally, he can determine in the long run the exact placement of authority.

'CAT' FACES LIFE TERM IN JAIL

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—The "Cat" is no more. He is now just a convicted criminal. He was sentenced to from one year to life in the state prison at Joliet on five robbery charges. It was one of the quickest convictions in the history of Cook county, although it took the authorities two years to capture him.

The "Cat" is William Ed Baker, alias Mitchell. He has been marauding, holding up women and robbing them for two years. He was captured last Tuesday. He confessed at once. He was indicted Monday and arraigned yesterday. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced immediately.

CHARGES HURLED AS PRIMARY NEARS

Charges and counter charges were hurled across the political arena as the rival candidates for office entered the last week of the primary campaign, with County Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong and E. V. Babcock, and County Controller C. C. McGovern furnishing most of the fireworks.

"The Controller's so-called public audit is in reality a sensational pre-election grandstand play," said Babcock at a mass meeting last night in Mannerchor Hall, Nineteenth Ward. "It's only result has been to prove his inefficiency and incapacity to perform the duties of his office. If there is anything wrong with the bookkeeping or the finances of the county the responsibility rests squarely upon the shoulders of the Controller, who occupies his office by appointment and not by the choice of the people."

"To pay attention to the baseless insinuations of a man who tries to climb to office over the wrecks he has made of the reputations of honest men would occupy time that should be devoted to constructive thought," said Armstrong at a meeting in Barkers' Hall, Fifteenth Ward. "All the political propaganda in the world will not close the tunnels, tear down the bridges, destroy the roads or check the development of our county parks."

Armstrong received one of the greatest ovations of his career at the Fifteenth Ward meeting, members of the audience shouting "We want Joe," as they waved copies of newspapers telling that Mrs. J. O. Miller, of the League of Women Voters, had asked that warrants be issued for his arrest.

"Why don't the Controller fight his own battles instead of hiding behind the skirts of a misinformed woman?" asked Congressman Harry A. Estep.

McGovern himself was not idle, charging in addresses at Clairton and Port Vue that for years the court house has been the scene of "looting, squandering and juggling of public money."

"Clerks and minor officials of the county government have been permitted to get their hands into the money basket while the higher officials have been wasting thousands of dollars in unnecessary expenditures in the name of public improvements."

Judges James H. Gray and Richard W. Martin will be among the speakers at a Wilkinsburg "town meeting" in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel tomorrow night. The organization candidates tomorrow afternoon will be guests of honor at a tea in Hotel Henry given by the women's division, with Mrs. C. A. Verner in charge. Six organization meetings are scheduled for tonight in the Forbes School, First Ward; Taylor Allderdice School, Fourteenth Ward; Allen School, Eighteenth Ward; Larimer School, Twenty-third Ward; North Side Chamber of Commerce Auditorium, Twenty-fifth Ward; Horace Mann School, Twenty-seventh Ward.

The verbal battle between the Controller and the Commissioners took attention from the judiciary fight which, nevertheless, went on merrily. Assistant United States District Attorney Ralph H. Smith, who in addition to counsel for the Citizens League, got after the independent candidates for judge, saying, "The Republican organization and its leaders became evil things in the minds of these so-called independents on the day they were denied the indorsement of the organization they had sought to obtain by the use of every political, social and financial influence they were able to bring to bear."

"Poor sports" was the term applied to the independents by District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, saying that the men who were claiming most loudly that they are being "supplanted" never were elected, but were appointed by the Governor. "These important affairs should not be placed at the disposal of any one man," he said.

"To hold over a judge the threat of political punishment forces him either to bow to that threat or to become involved in counter political moves, if he has a spark of courage," said Judge Frank I. Gollmar, who is making an independent fight. "For a judge to feel that he may be attacked because of the whims of one or two strong political leaders when his term expires, is to destroy the independence of thought of the bench."

Judge James H. Gray, another independent, said in addresses last night that "an effort is being made to confuse voters, especially women, into believing that they are not good Republicans unless they vote the way they are told to vote by persons who for the time being are party leaders."

County Democrats have a little primary fight of their own, with W. K. Hodgkinson opposing James Houlahen and P. F. Brennan, the minority organization's candidates for commissioners. Today Hodgkinson made public an open letter asking Houlahen these questions:

"Do you not know that it is an unwritten rule of the Democratic organization for any of its members to serve no more than two terms in succession?

"Did you not state in public four years ago that you would not be a candidate this year?

"Twelve years ago when Steve Toole was seeking a third term, did not you state that he desired to be a czar?"

SACCO MEETING HERE SUNDAY

Powers Hapgood, Labor candidate for county commissioner, who was arrested several times during the demonstrations by radicals in Boston preceding the electrocution of Sacco and Vanzetti, will be a speaker Sunday at a Sacco-Vanzetti memorial service in the Academy-Lyceum theater.

All labor and fraternal organizations in Western Pennsylvania have been asked to participate. Dr. W. J. Van Essen will be chairman. Other speakers will include H. A. Goff, Sarah Limbach, Dr. Frank Abbate, D. E. Earley and John W. Slayton.

MEXICO CUT OFF, STORM TOLL UNKNOWN

Sally's Shoulders

MAKES AIR TRIP AT 101

AND LOVES IT

"Grandma" Almatia Bennett of Boston celebrates her one hundred and first birthday by hopping off from East Boston for Old Orchard, Me. Charles W. Bradley, 99, accompanied her. The pair are shown in plane shortly before the flight.

Mexico Isolated, Toll Of Storm Unknown

NOGALES, Ariz., Sept. 14.—(AP.)—The collapse of communication both by telegraph and railway today still kept from the world details of the wholesale death and destruction believed to have been dealt out by a storm which for three days last week lashed 1,000 miles of the west coast of Mexico seaboard.

Officials of the Southern Pacific of Mexico Railroad last night reported that no train connections with Mexico City or southern coast points would be made today. Guaymas, Sonora, main seaport of the west coast of Mexico, is the northernmost coast point on the Southern Pacific of Mexico. Below that point communication was virtually impossible.

Meager reports that the death toll in Salina Cruz and Manzanillo, both important west coast seaports, was enormous, gave cause for speculation regarding the picture which would be revealed with improved communications.

Salina Cruz, port town of the state of Oaxaca, according to dispatches from Guaymas, felt the full fury of the hurricane. The town was said to be in ruins and it was believed that the loss of life ashore and at sea might run into hundreds.

Twenty-five foot breakers tore across the waterfront and rolled far into the town.

Two ships of the National Line, the Jalisco and the Navajoa, were reported missing.

EXTRA SESSION DECISION NOT YET MADE

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14—Despite adverse advice given by the Republican chiefs of Congress, President Coolidge has decided to explore further the needs for a special session.

Since his return to Washington, President Coolidge has found time to consult only Senator Curtis and Representative Tilson, Republican floor leaders of Senate and House, and both insisted that a special session "would do no good" in solving the problems that press upon the administration.

Their advice was contrary to that given him at Rapid City by the Senate veterans, Smoot of Utah and Jones of Washington.

It was indicated that the President will consult with most of the members of Congress available in Washington before coming to a final decision in the matter. Unless he receives a majority opinion favorable to a special session, it is believed that the President would be reluctant to override the wishes of the two leaders, who will be largely responsible for pushing his own program through any session.

COLD WINTER PREDICTED BY CRICKETS, SEERS SAY

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 14—A cold winter is the latest prediction of weather seers of this vicinity. They base their prediction on the fact that crickets are seeking shelter in houses and protected places earlier than usual. Caterpillars, too, are seeking the protected places.

CHILD PARALYSIS SPREADING

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14—Infantile paralysis is spreading in California, Ohio, New Jersey and Massachusetts, the public health service announced today.

Hugh S. Cumming, surgeon general, warned parents in these districts to keep their children away from picture theaters, fairs, picnics and public assemblages.

For the week ending September 3, 465 new cases were reported in the United States.

The disease, highly contagious, is more widespread than last year.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

SALLY JEROME, pretty and clever, is the prop and mainstay of her family in the absence of her father, who has not lived with her mother for nine years. The family consists of MRS. JEROME, the twins, BEAU and MILLIE, and Sally herself. Mrs. Jerome enjoys poor health so Sally does the housework mornings and office work for grouchy MR. PEEVEY afternoons. In the flat below the Jeromes lives TED SLOAN, an automobile salesman, who wants Sally to marry him and keep on working. But the only man who interests her is JOHN NYE, whose real estate office is across the hall from Mr. Peevey's. Nye hires Millie as his secretary and becomes blindly infatuated with her. Millie confesses to Sally that while she likes Nye and intends to marry him for his money and position if she can, she really prefers a bond salesman named DAVIDSON. She tries to get Davidson a job with John Nye, but Sally prevents it, sure that it would make trouble. Davidson falls in love with Sally, in the meantime, and bluntly tells her so. Millie is rushed to the hospital for an appendicitis operation, and Mrs. Jerome wires for her husband but receives no answer. Sally tries to do Millie's work in John Nye's office and her own, too, for John keeps on paying Millie's salary and sends her bushels of flowers, although she won't see him. She sees Davidson one day while she is convalescing.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

SHE reached for a paper package that lay on the lower shelf of her bedside table. "Here's some nightgowns I've worn. Wash them and bring them back to me. I need them," she said with never a please or a thank you.

Sally took them—not meekly, but calmly. And holding the package against her breast, she leaned across the bed to kiss Millie.

But Millie turned her scowling face away. "Don't kiss me!" she said, with a make-believe shudder. "I'm so nervous that I just want to be let alone—by everybody."

But when it came to shaking hands with Davidson, it was a far different matter. She clung to him with one hand, patting his arm with the other, and made him promise to come to see her again soon.

"And bring me chocolates—bitter-sweet chocolates," she called after him. "You know the kind—with black walnuts in them."

Millie had got back her appetite at last.

"I don't believe she liked the idea of my driving home with you," Sally remarked to him when they were out in the late sunshine in the millstream of traffic.

"I like it, though," he replied. "I like it better than I've liked anything in a long time." He laughed. He was in a very good humor and drove Sally several miles out of her way home before he finally dropped her at her door in Trellis street.

Mrs. Jerome was in her armchair in the sitting room when Sally went upstairs. She had brought a new book home from the library and had sat right down to start it without taking off her hat and shoes, so she said, guiltily.

"And then," she explained, "the bell rang and a boy brought this telegram—and you papa's coming." Her voice was trembling and her cheeks were flushed with excitement. He'll be here tonight."

CHAPTER XXXIV.

SALLY'S mother had been married for more than 20 years, and she was at the tag-end of middle age.

The flush that lay across her face like a film gave it a look of youth, and there was a new brightness in her heavy-lidded eyes. She got up from her chair, not slowly, as she usually did, but with light quickness.

"You'll have to put him in Millie's room," she said, and even her voice sounded younger and more vibrant. "And you'll have to hurry to get it ready. His train gets in at 10 o'clock."

"Sally noticed that her step, as she crossed the room was springy. She turned suddenly.

"I'll tell you what we'll do!" she cried excitedly. "We'll have Beau and Mabel go down to the station and meet him in their car! I just want him to see how well we've got along without him all these years — automobiles and everything—"

In that moment Sally was glad that she had kept her from knowing how great a failure Beau really was, and how great a struggle they really were having to get along.

Smiling with satisfaction, her mother turned towards the telephone in the hall and then suddenly stopped once more.

"Pshaw! I keep forgetting that the children haven't a 'phone in that new flat of theirs. Sally, you'll have to run over there and tell them I want them to go down and meet their papa with the car at 10 o'clock. And you'd better go now, and do your work here later. For they're probably at home eating supper, and you'll catch them in now."

That was true, Sally reflected. For the young Jeromes practically lived in their little second-hand car these days. Nothing but food and sleep and their jobs kept them out of it.

It was standing in all its flaming gorgeousness before the door of the brand-new apartment building, where they lived. One mudguard had been crushed in and the paint knocked from it in spots. But except for that it was just as glossy as ever. And just as blindingly, glaringly, red.

Sally rang their door-bell, and after two or three minutes she rang again.

"Oh, why don't they answer?" she asked herself impatiently. "They must know I know they're here, with that car standing in the street!" And just then the inner door gave a click and she opened it.

Beau and Mabel had taken a tiny flat on the top floor of the building. By the time Sally reached the top she was out of breath and her knees ached.

"What a high mountain you live on!" she was beginning cheerfully, when the sight of Mabel's face, as she opened the door, stopped her.

Mabel had been crying. Her small, tilted nose was quite scarlet at the end, and there were pink rims around her eyes. Water wave combs in her black hair and a layer of cold cream on her tear-stained face did not improve her appearance the least bit.

"Come in," she sniffled. "I'm getting myself something to eat—"

And then without stopping to show Sally her new domain with a bride's delight in her home, she stalked straight through the small rooms to the tiny kitchen at the back.

She was boiling four potatoes in a gallon of water on the stove, and some bread, sliced almost an inch thick, was piled on a plate on the table.

Beside it was a glass bowl of butter, and the butter had toast crumbs all over it.

"Here, let me help you get things ready," offered Sally, taking all this in with one sweep of

THE QUEEN AND HER PROUD PARENTS

MISS AMERICA

"MISS AMERICA" AND THE FOLKS

Miss Lois Delander, 16-year-old high school girl, Joliet, Ill., who as "Miss Illinois" was crowned "Miss America 1927" as climax of the national beauty pageant at Atlantic City, is shown here with her proud parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albin Delander.

WOMAN WRITER TELLS OF LIFE AS REPORTER

Relating several of her hectic experiences as a newspaper woman, Miss Alma Sioux Scarberry, feature writer of The Sun-Telegraph, was enthusiastically received at a luncheon of the Maj. John Baird Atwood Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at the Hotel Henry yesterday. Miss Scarberry also accepted an invitation to talk at another luncheon of the veterans soon.

The majority of the incidents, some humorous, others not quite so funny, took place while the writer was on assignments given by Philip Payne, managing editor of the New York Daily Mirror. Mr. Payne is missing with the Old Glory crew which attempted a transatlantic flight.

Maj. A. B. Hay, assistant district attorney and a member of the Union Veterans' Legion of the Civil War, was present. He spoke on the regimental reunion last week. The Veterans' Legion is composed of men who served more than three years on the front line in the Civil War.

The meeting was the first of the fall series and was well attended.

Mouth Organ Melody Big Aid to Health

The humble harmonica not only has been proven to be an instrument of professional value, but yesterday Borrah Minevitch again proved that not only has this instrument musical possibilities, but that it is also a builder of the human body.

Doctors throughout the country have for the past year puzzled at the large chest expansion of the world's greatest harmonica player for whom the Sun-Telegraph is conducting this harmonica contest to find some Pittsburgh boy who has the capabilities of joining his band, yesterday put Borrah through a test which showed that his continuous blowing and drawing on this instrument has caused an enlargement of the lung cells and that now Borrah boasts of a chest expansion of 6½ inches, or four inches greater than either Dempsey or Tunney, the heavyweight contenders.

Last year, just before the heavyweight championship bout, Tunney under the advice of his manager, Billy Gibson, who is an admirer of the mouth organ virtuoso, induced the present champion to use the harmonica in his training quarters, not only as an exerciser but as a form of amusement differing from his daily training routine.

This is the last day upon which the boys may enter this contest. Tomorrow night all entrants must report to Borrah at 7 p. m. at the stage entrance of the Loew's and United Artists Penn Theater for their tests, when the winner will be selected by Borrah.

Please enter me in the Borrah Minevitch Sun-Telegraph Harmonica Contest to be held at Loew's New Penn Theater.

$100-2,600 BID FOR WORKING AIRPLANES

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The nine remaining airplanes of the government's air mail fleet were sought by 19 persons who submitted bids to the Postoffice Department. Walter A. English of Taft, Cal., submitted the highest bid for any of the planes, offering $2,600 for one De Haviland.

The Fairchild Aviation Company of New York, makers of aerial maps, were high bidders on three planes.

The bids varied greatly in amount, in some instances but $100 being offered for the planes, although all are in serviceable condition.

TAFT TO SPEED COURT WORK

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Moving to speed up disposition of cases in the courts, Chief Justice Taft of the United States Supreme Court will call a conference here of the nine senior circuit judges of the country, he has notified his office here.

Mr. Taft, who has been in Canada for the summer, will return to Washington a few days before the conference to look over the docket for the fall term of the high court.

At the forthcoming conference attention will be given to the effect of new judgeships created last winter by Congress.

Chief Justice Taft has been working on plans for keeping accurate records of the various courts. Suggestions for a system of keeping statistical information were expected to be considered at this fall's meeting.

"CONSTITUTION WEEK" PROCLAIMED BY MAYOR

Observance of "Constitution Day" Saturday and "Constitution Week" this week by decorating the home with flags was requested by Mayor Charles H. Kline in a proclamation issued yesterday. Another proclamation issued at the same time requested cooperation in the "For-get-me-not Day" drive of the Disabled Veterans of the World War on September 24.

Rogers Offers Coolidge Fish Proof Home

FIRST NATIONAL STUDIO, BURBANK, Cal., Sept. 14.—I want to be the first to offer the Coolidges a summer home. It's located at Claremore, Oklahoma. Oklahoma is a doubtful state. That is, it is doubtful if it is allowed to stay in the Union, if it don't mend its political ways. We have the ranch house screened to keep the fish out. We have had as many as 10,000 fish in one rodeo there. We will guarantee him a Wild West show and Indian war dance twice a day. If a farmer mentions relief in his presence he will be shot at sunrise. Remember this offer is for either next summer or the four following ones.

ACCUSED SON INHERITS MRS. HILL'S $50,000

AVIATORS RESCUE MAN

PHIL WOOD

Phil Wood, brother of Gar Wood, with Duke Schiller, copilot for the Royal Windsor in its contemplated transatlantic flight, rescued a blind man from a blazing house in the midst of a Newfoundland forest fire.

DUKE SCHILLER

C. A. Schiller, who risked his life with Wood and a newspaper photographer. The three tied wet cloths about their faces, broke through to where the helpless man had been cut off, and carried him to safety.

ESTATE WILLED YOUTH HELD AS SLAYER

OTTAWA, Ill., Sept. 14—(AP)—Harry Hill, the "beloved son" of Mrs. Eliza Hill's last will and testament, today found himself the principal beneficiary of the mother he is charged with having slain.

Hill, in jail here awaiting trial, learned yesterday that his mother had bequeathed him a $30,000 farm and United States bonds, treasury notes and real estate mortgages valued at $18,000. Lesser grants complete an estate of $50,000.

The bequests were made with blessings and in endearing terms, contrasting with Mrs. Hill's letters threatening disinheritance, written shortly before her death. The will was made October 8, 1925, two weeks prior to the divorce separating her from Dr. H. C. Hill, who was given $500 by the terms of the will.

The will, center of a search since Mrs. Hill's body was found buried in the basement of her home, was in the possession of Thurlow G. Essington, former state senator, who hurried back from Europe upon learning of Mrs. Hill's death, as he remembered the will filed in his office.

Hill's attorneys are challenging attempts by the prosecution to send the accused youth to the electric chair on a case of circumstantial evidence.

MRS. MARGARET A. ROSS, 94, DIES AT JOHNSTOWN

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 14—Mrs. Margaret A. Ross, 94, widow of the Rev. L. Ross, died today. She was a native of Somerset county.

MAN STABBED WHEN FOUND IN HOME

Steve Wallo, 55, of Third avenue, Homestead, was reported dying today in the Homestead Hospital from 35 stab wounds received, Homestead police say, when he visited the home of John Maddis, 36, structural iron worker, of 156 Fifth avenue, Homestead.

Maddis, who is under arrest to await the outcome of Wallo's injuries, told police he came home unexpectedly and found Wallo in his home. The stabbing followed. Maddis had been hunting work. Mrs. Maddis denied that the stabbing had been provoked by Wallo's attentions to her.

Self-Anaesthesia Test Kills Doctor

MANCHESTER, England, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—The death of Dr. Signey Rawson Wilson, medical scientist and surgeon, in his locked laboratory was generally attributed by friends and associates today to an attempt at self-anesthesia.

Dr. Wilson was sitting lifeless before a machine for administering gas mixtures, with an anaesthetizing mask over his face, when found by his wife late yesterday. He was about 48 and was known among medical scientists on both sides of the Atlantic for his studies of the effects of anaesthetics.

Fellow surgeons said he undoubtedly met death attempting to obtain and prolong the analgesic state, in which the subject loses all feeling but retains consciousness. This state now is attained for but a fleeting moment. Its prolongation was Dr. Wilson's chief ambition.

"His method," said a medical friend today, "was to subject himself to an anaesthetic and while 'going under' to describe his sensations to a group of associates or students. He would conduct his experiments in any convenient place—in a colleague's house or at home. He made gallant efforts to record the exact time the analgesic state occurred."

Dr. Wilson held that by the strength of his own will he could repel complete consciousness under the influence of gas. It was his belief that only by experimenting on himself could he gather the data he sought.

KICK TO WRECK CAR MAY COST KICKER'S LIFE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 14.—Miss Agnes Cosgrave, 25, after a quarrel with her friend, Thomas Scott, 30, switched off the ignition key in his car and declared: "I'll fix this car so you won't ride anybody else around in it for a while." With that she kicked her right foot through the windshield. Hospital attaches said the resulting loss of blood from cuts on her ankle made her condition serious.

ATLANTIC CITY NOT WICKED, SAYS JURY

By Universal Service.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 14.—Atlantic City is not a wicked city, with vice and graft rampant, as charged by the Municipal Research League and the North Side Welfare Association." That was the findings of Atlantic county's grand jury in a presentment.

The grand jury investigated charges which included allegations that Atlantic City and county officials were protecting vice and graft rings, and found them without foundation.

Furthermore, the grand jury, which returned its presentment to Supreme Court Justice Luther A. Campbell, took occasion to criticise the persons making the charges while completely exonerating the city and county officials. The presentment said in part:

"Atlantic City and Atlantic county are not overrun with criminals and are not infested with crime. The criminal conditions in this municipality are no worse now than in previous years.

"Whether these charges were made to satisfy the vanity of some persons, or out of revenge, or for personal political gain, does not matter now. They were wholly unsupported by proof and greatly magnified."

DOPE RAIDS NET 640 POUNDS

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14—Operations of an international opium ring which smuggled the drug into the United States and shipped it from prominent hotels in steamer trunks were exposed by the Bureau of Customs following a $50,000 seizure here.

Customs agents seized a trunk containing 140 one-pound cans of gum, or crude opium in the baggage room at the Washington Union Station. Officials announced that this was one of three detected shipments, two similarly laden trunks having been seized in New York's Grand Central Station about a month ago.

Authorities investigating ownership of the drug reported that the trunks were checked as baggage from certain hotels to their final destination in other cities. The three yielded 640 pounds of opium.

OHIO DISTRICT REVENUE COLLECTOR QUITS JOB

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14—Charles M. Dean has resigned as collector of internal revenue for the Ohio district which is headquartered at Cincinnati, it was announced at the White House. Commissioner of Internal Revenue David H. Blair said a successor has not been selected.

PIMPLES AND BLACKHEADS ALL OVER FACE

Was ashamed to be seen—simple remedy brought quick improvement

Munden, Va., Aug. 5:—"Awhile ago I began to be troubled with enlarged pores and blackheads. Then pimples developed, and even boils. My skin was very sore and in a terrible condition. It was so disfigured and unsightly I was ashamed of it. I tried about everything to be had for pimples, but with no good results. I had heard Resinol Ointment and Soap so highly recommended for troubles like mine, I decided to try them. After one treatment there was a decided improvement, and the pimples began to fade away. I advise everybody with skin trouble to try Resinol." (Signed) Miss Hazel Beasley.

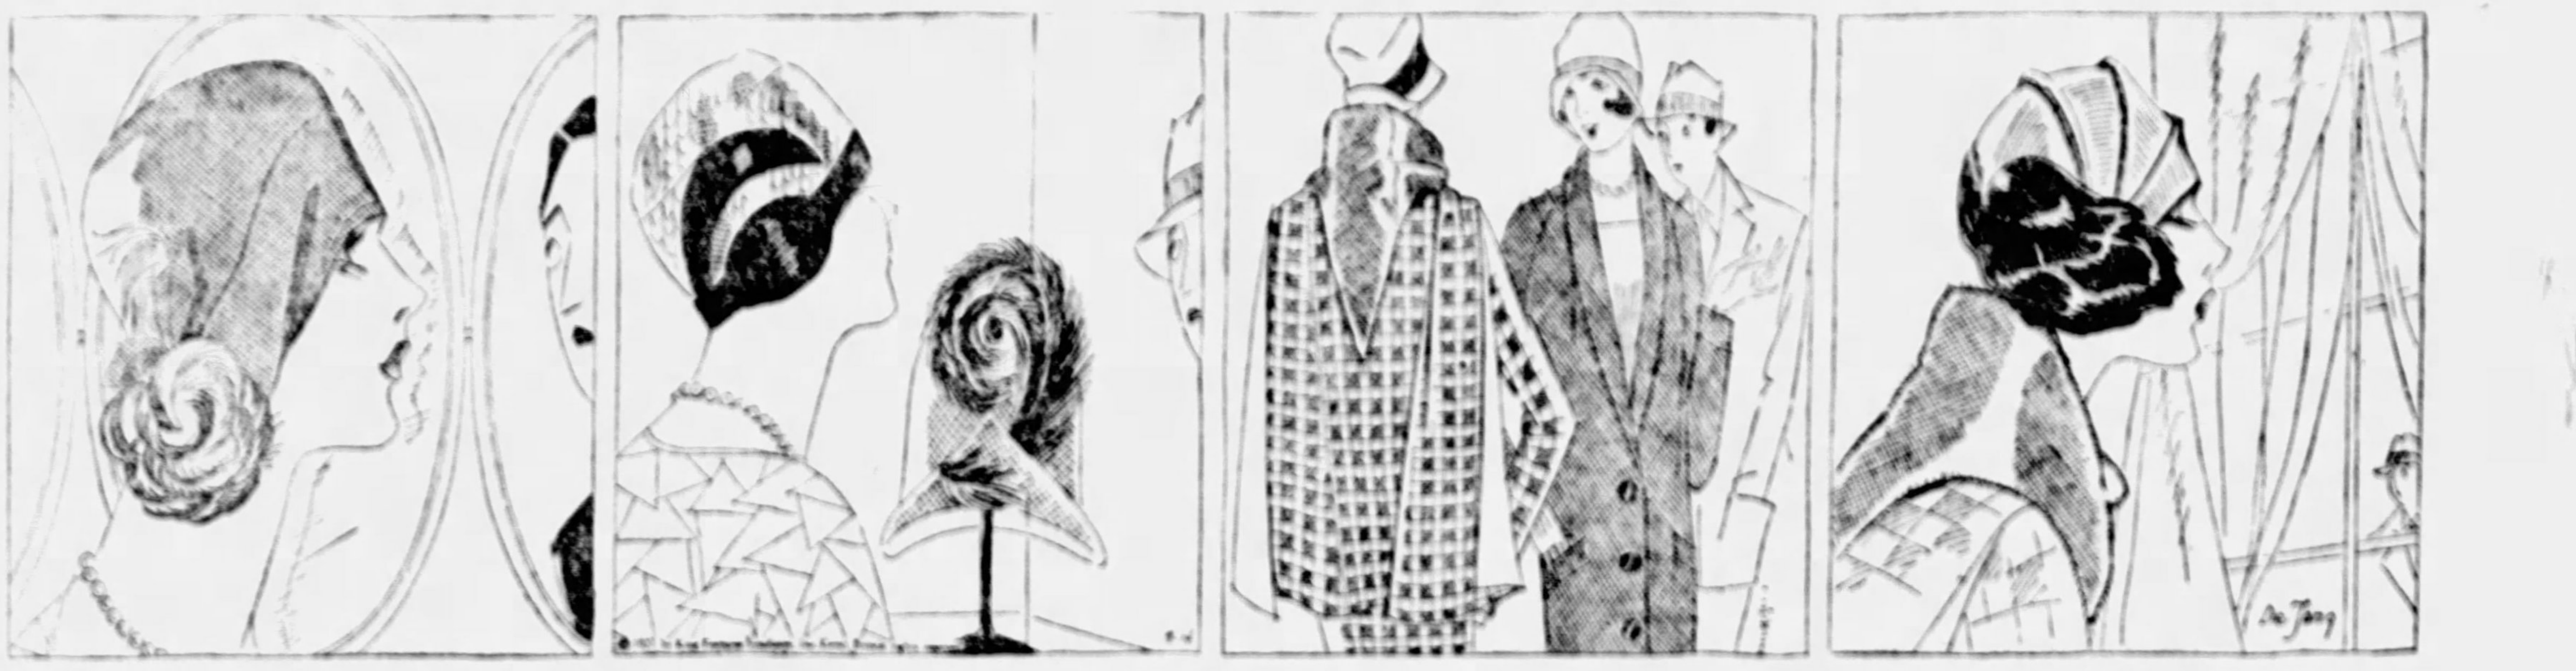
CHIC CHERIE ⁘ Long Distance Heat Waves. ⁘ LATEST FASHIONS



They are putting feathers on Fall hats, and as soon as Cherie really noticed the fact she hurried down to the shops to see what could be done about her own new headgear. This one is felt and velvet, with a little curl of feathers over one ear, but it isn't the hat at which Cherie is staring in this annoyed way.

The hat she has on now is velvet, with a flat pasted feather decoration. The one on the stand shows a fashionable up-in-front brim, with a swirl of feathers directly in front. The hats are enough for all of Cherie's attention. It isn't possible, is it, that this person is being rude, or anything like that?

After the hat-buying episode Cherie went to meet Dina, and as they stop you may notice that Cherie's coat is check tweed with a cape and a pointed fur collar, too. Dina's is a velveteen with the new moulded silhouette, the sleeves cut in one with the back. And who is this that hovers not too discreetly in back?

Just because she bought one of the feather-trimmed hats—fine felt with a cluster of feathers sweeping from center back to over the ears—she would like to walk out again. How anything look out of the window and see this same person—it must be the same—obviously waiting in front of her own front door!

What Is Puppy Love?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

LIKE many another phrase found in the average dictionary, puppy love has a worldful of meaning. It suggests the ardent, well-intentioned love of early youth which makes up in intensity and enthusiasm what it may lack in judgment and wisdom.

It has been said that it takes a wise man to know he is a fool. Possibly a young man who recognizes his own symptoms as those of puppy love may be said to be so wise as to be nearly past the puppy-love stage. Certainly my correspondent in the following letter does well to question whether a friendship and affection that has outlasted three years is not more than puppy love.

"Dear Miss Fairfax," he writes, "I am a young man of twenty-three. I am in love with a girl five years my junior. At first I thought mine was puppy love. But now I recognize it as the real thing.

"When we first became friends, we did not live far from each other, so we were nearly always together. Then we had a little misunderstanding and I was told not to call again.

"She did not speak to me for quite a while. Then she would smile when we met. Finally we were beginning to be friends again.

"Then, when our friendship was ripening fast, she moved away. She invited me to go to see her, as did her parents. But I have never gone, although I have wanted to very much.

"I am popular with girls and go about with many of them. But none seems to take the thought of this one girl from my mind. I see her folks and she sees mine, yet we never meet.

"I have promised her brothers I will go to see them. But I feel as though she still holds my cruelty against me. Yes, I feel cruel because she has written to me and I have never answered.

"What shall I do? Even though it is nearly three years since we met, shall I go to her? Her parents are strict, but I know I am welcome at their home.

"Please print my letter. I want her to know through your column how I feel. I will follow your advice eagerly, as I love her more each day.

"Also, will you please print this in your column for the benefit of young women who look down on old-fashioned girls. An old-fashioned girl can be loved. And sometimes an old-fashioned girl is mighty hard to get out of your heart after she has gotten into it.

"I thank you and wish you all success in your column. You do not know, really, how helpful you are. I am sure you are going to help me and I am going to watch eagerly for your reply.

"BROKEN HEARTED LOVER."

I thank you, my friend, for the kind things you say about my column. I am happy in the hope that I may be helpful to the fine young women and men of today.

I am inclined to believe, from your letter, that a sweet old-fashioned, new-fashioned girl has slipped into your heart and is going to remain there. Are you not grateful that you have found such a girl and have the chance to win her love?

Why do you fight such an affection?

A friendship that has outlived quarrels and separation, as well as neighborly comradeship for more than three years, can hardly be classified as puppy love.

My only criticism is that you do not cultivate it more actively and enthusiastically.

You are welcome at your friend's home. Why do you not visit there, since you love her? She has written you. Why have you not answered her letters? While you are neglecting her friendship, there are other young men who are doing their best to win her.

As it is, in three years' time she may have drifted away from you. But do not neglect longer the opportunity to win lasting happiness and good for yourself and her. An affection may start as sentimental puppy love, yet grow into a deep and fine emotion. Test puppy love by the sure test of the years. Let it grow into friendship, then, if it will, into unselfish, unchanging devotion. For love—mutual, loyal, unselfish, considerate affection between a man and a woman, leading as it naturally does to lastingly happy marriage, is the greatest human good and the greatest happiness life can bring to any man or woman. Win and treasure this love and the girl—love of whom is leading you onward and upward.

That Maddening Malady—Stomachache

WHAT is the cause of stomachache? You have been careless in eating, is the most likely answer. The wonder is you don't have the stomachache every day. Be honest about it! You do eat a lot of things you shouldn't, don't you?

Indigestion is a common complaint. There may be belching of gas, bloating of the abdomen, pain in that region, diarrhoea, and a general feeling of discomfort.

DR COPELAND

The pain may be constant, a dull, grinding ache, or it may be colicky pain. Sharp, cutting, knife-like pains may come and go with lightning-like speed.

Bad water, bad milk, bad food—taking into the stomach any sort of tainted food or contaminated fluid may give you a serious attack of stomachache and wind up with a violent and exhausting diarrhoea. Nobody can afford to take a chance on food and drink. You must be sure they are good.

When you are so situated that you must eat what is offered or starve, and drink what you can get, or die of thirst, is there any way to guard against danger?

There is. It is a sure way. Heat will kill the germs of infection and render them harmless. Boiling the water or milk and cooking the food thoroughly will make it safe.

Just at the close of the war I went to the Russian border through a territory reeking with filth and disease. Water was terribly scarce and of doubtful origin. Food was questionable. But I did not have a single symptom of stomach or intestinal trouble, because I refused to take anything that had not been boiled or cooked. It was handed to me hot, so that I could be sure it had been properly treated. My only task then was to wait for it to cool enough to be taken into the stomach.

By giving attention to the quality of milk, we have lowered the infant death rate amazingly. A generation ago there was a funeral going on every hour of the day on the East Side of New York. It isn't so now, thank God! Pure milk has ended the slaughter of the innocents.

Be careful about filling the stomach with cold drinks and frozen foods. The chilling of the stomach may interfere with digestion. This might cause the stomachache.

Taking an enema of hot water will empty the bowel and be likely to relieve the pain. The escape of gas and fecal matter should be accomplished at once.

The old-fashioned remedy for stomachache is essence of peppermint. A few drops in a glass of hot water may relieve the suffering.

The most reliable remedy is bicarbonate of soda, a teaspoonful in a half glass of warm water. This may be followed by the peppermint solution.

If the pain continues, call your doctor.

Answers to Health Queries

A. F. D. Q.—What can I do for oily hair? It becomes oily within two days after I wash it.

2—What do you advise for pimples?

3—How can I gain in weight?

A.—Frequent shampooing and the use of a good tonic should help this condition. For further information send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

2—Correct the diet, by cutting down on sugar, starches and coffee. Eat only the simplest of food. Exercise is essential. For particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

3—Eat your meals at regular intervals. Add to your diet milk, cream, fresh eggs, plenty of green vegetables, fresh and stewed fruit. Avoid constipation. Sleep and rest as much as possible in a well-ventilated room. For full details and a tonic send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

T. B. Q.—What is the cause of an itching, burning scalp, and what will help it?

A.—Dandruff would be likely to cause the itching, and the burning might be due to a nervous condition. Keep the hair and scalp immaculately clean with frequent shampooing and careful rinsing, and use a good hair tonic occasionally. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

Baked Sausage

Take six good-sized fresh country sausages and slip them from their cases. Season them with pepper, salt, a few drops of onion juice, a teaspoonful of sugar, the same of powdered sage, and a tablespoonful of dry crumbs. Work smooth, adding a small beaten egg and a tablespoonful of cream. Form into little pats, about six, and lay on a small baking dish well buttered and bake a delicate brown in a medium oven. Slice cold boiled potatoes in thick slices lengthwise, and after dipping them into a little melted butter and dusting them with pepper and salt, lay them around the sausage to brown in the oven. Turn the potatoes once so they are brown on both sides. Serve hot popovers with the breakfast. Fruit and cold cereal may precede the breakfast, and orange marmalade may be served with the sausage.

SAYINGS OF MRS. SOLOMON

By HELEN ROWLAND

WHEN A BUSINESS GIRL GETS A HIGHER EDUCATION

VERILY, my Daughter, another Summer of Discontent hath passed away, and the vamp hath garnered her harvest of hearts, the fisher-of-men hath landed her "catch," and the husband-hunter brought down her game!

* * *

But that which the Tired Business Woman hath gathered, exceedeth them all. For she hath gained a Higher Education in the ways and by-ways of men in their hours of relaxation! Yea, she hath seen them in the RAW!

* * *

Behold, when the first fly appeareth upon the window, when the first straw hat appeareth upon the street, when the first Summer widower steppeth out of his wrappings and donneth his lighter underwear and emotions, then doth the Business Damsel's EDUCATION begin.

HELEN ROWLAND

Lo, she hath glanced from the corner of her eye, and beheld men, when they returned from bidding their wives godspeed, and unlocked the secret drawer of their desks and foregathered to toast the absent. And the words of their lips were sad, but the look in their eyes was inscrutable.

She hath observed how their eyes and their cravats and their hosiery brightened, and their fingernails became more glittering and their hair more glossy, and they lost "that married look," as the days of their freedom increased.

* * *

She hath seen them, when they entered the office at high-noon, upon Monday morning, filled with grouches and remorse; and their breath was sweet with cloves, and they leaned their heads upon their hands.

She hath taken down their letters to their wives. Yes, many times hath she written: "Dear-old-Thing-working-like-a-dog-wish-I-were-with-you-miss-you-all-the-time-how-much-do-you-want." And her sleeves been filled with silent laughter.

* * *

She hath spied the "Well-THAT'S-done!" expression on their faces, when they had finished dictating their ardent epistles to the wives of their bosoms.

She hath answered the long distance calls from the country, and sweetly said, "In conference," even though her heart told her that the place of conference was a roof garden, a golf course or a poker party.

* * *

She hath heard them groan and complain to heaven of OVER-WORK, after a brief hour in the office, and beheld them sneak out by a secret door to the links.

She hath noted the unaccustomed flower in their coat-lapels, the new geniality in their greetings, the powder marks upon their shoulders, the new glint in their smiles. But her knowledge is hidden within her breast.

* * *

For, verily, nine months of the year, doth a man labor and do all those things which his doctor, his wife and his conscience demand; but in the SUMMER time, he relaxeth and is natural!

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Thursday, September 15

THIS is a day that is rather menacing in planetary direction, according to astrology, but certain benefic aspects are strong.

There is a fortunate sign for business men who may expect good trade in many lines.

Professors and all who lead thought are subject to the most favorable influences.

Women should be wary in business or in social contacts while this configuration prevails.

The seers have warned women that they are in a stage that is preparatory to great development in public service and they counsel patience for opportunities that are coming.

Speculation at this time may be tempting, but it will entail losses, if the stars are read aright.

Food will attract wide attention, for scientific eating is to become an important concern of men and women, the seers prophesy. Many nervous disorders will manifest themselves in the next few weeks, it is foretold, and for this reason there should be much patience within the family circle.

Under this sway there may be a tendency to irritability and it is wise to avoid argument.

Scandals and unkind gossip are supposed to be encouraged under this rule of the stars.

All the astrologers foretell for Russia a period of prosperity that brings new international alliances.

South America and Australia also will benefit tremendously within the next few months, it is prognosticated.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a happy year, in which they find that friends are helpful in many ways.

Children born on this day probably will be cheerful in disposition and keen in intellect. They should be able to conquer all obstacles.

WHAT'S the ANSWER?

1. Who was the first English commander to see the Pacific?
2. Who was the original Robinson Crusoe?
3. Why do we tan when we are exposed to the sun?
4. In what year was Christ born?
5. What English ruler is said to have commanded the sea to retire, in order to show his courtiers how powerless the greatest earthly ruler is?
6. In gladiatorial contests in the days of ancient Rome, what did the signal "thumbs down" mean?
7. Who was Absalom?
8. Are A flat and G sharp the same note on a perfect musical instrument?
9. What was the first day of the twentieth century?
10. Where do we find the quotation: "Spare the rod and spoil the child"?

Here are the answers to yesterday's questions.

1. "Blue blood" means aristocratic lineage to us because the old families of Spain traced their pedigree beyond the time of the Moorish Conquest, and claimed that their blood was blue, while that of common people was of a muddy hue.
2. In classic mythology, Calliope was one of the nine muses. She presided over eloquence and epic poetry.
3. Bats are not blind, but they are nocturnal in their habits, and see better at night than in the daytime.
4. A camel can only go for about four days without water, contrary to the common belief that he can live for a long time without it.
5. A carpet knight is one who is dubbed at court by favor, not having won his spurs by service in the field. Mayors, lawyers and other civilians are knighted as they kneel on a carpet before the sovereign.
6. Cats are bred in Holland for the sake of their fur.
7. The bloodhound is not ferocious, and his present name probably embodies the idea that he represents the original stock from which all other types of British hounds have risen, and that he is thus the bloodhound in the same sense that the Barbary Arab is the blood horse.
8. Achilles' only vulnerable point was in his heel. England is supposed to be vulnerable only in Ireland, because of the disaffection there. So Ireland has been called "the Achilles' Heel of England."
9. Greenland belongs to Denmark.
10. A bird can stand on a charged trolley wire without getting a shock because he touches only one wire, and no electric circuit is made. To receive a shock you must either touch both of the electric wires at once, or else touch one wire and at the same time touch the earth or something connected with it.

Millie, Ill In a Hospital, Snubs Sally Because of Davidson's Attention

her blue eyes. "Have you an apron?"

Mabel had one. It was stained with egg and coffee, but it was, nevertheless, an apron. Sally put it on and went to work, emptying out most of the water from the potato kettle, trimming off the edges of the bread slices, scraping the toast crumbs from the butter.

"What else are you going to have?" she asked when she had done that. "What kind of meat have you?"

"Th-the-there isn't any meat," Mabel answered, and her voice shook.

No meat, thought Sally, for young Beau had thought nothing of putting away a pound of it at a meal when he lived at home!

"Eggs?" she asked, remembering that Beau would eat an omelet, although he grumbled about having to eat eggs when what he wanted was sirloin steak or three pork chops. As the man of the family, he had usually had what he wanted, too.

"The-there aren't any eggs!" wailed Mabel, and put her head down into her hands and began to sob wildly.

Sally leaned over her little sister-in-law and patted her small, shaking shoulders.

"Well, that's nothing to have hysterics over, Maby," she said. "Where's Beau?"

At that Mabel began to sob more wildly than before.

"I don't know!" she wailed. "He walked out on me a few minutes ago—because there wasn't any meat for supper!"

She stopped crying after a minute, and seemed to be thinking over her wrongs. Then she said, "The low hound dog," with great venom, and seemed to feel better.

"Do you think he'll be back soon?" asked Sally. "Our father's coming home tonight. You know mother wired him about Millie, and he'll be here at 10 o'clock. Mother wanted you and Beau to go and meet him in the car to show him how well we're getting along—how well Beau's getting along, I mean."

"How well Beau's getting along!" Mabel repeated with great scorn. "How well Beau's getting along! I'd laugh at that if I didn't feel so much like crying or swearing. Yes, I said swearing, Sally Jerome! I'm just mad through and through at your brother! And I don't know whether I'm going to go on living with him or not! If he's getting along well I'm the Brooklyn bridge!" Mabel was full of wise cracks.

Bit by bit Sally got the whole story from her. She had bought herself a fall hat instead of keeping the $10 that it cost for the household expenses.

So there had been no meat for supper. And when Beau had found it out, he had flung himself out of the little honeymoon flat, telling her that he'd go and buy himself a decent meal somewhere else.

"H-he told me I could sit here and eat bread and potatoes by myself," blubbered Mabel, unhappily. "And he ought to be ashamed of himself. Oh, Sally, there's just no use in our trying to have a home of our own any more. It takes every nickel we earn. You'll just have to let us come and live with you! You can tuck us in somewhere, I guess."

She laid her hands on the white-enamel table top before her. The nails were varnished a bright coral pink and they were long and pointed—all except one. That had been broken off, and there was a large blister on one thumb.

"Look at my hands—just ruined for typewriting," wailed Mabel. "I just can't hold down an office job and keep house, too. It's too much to expect of a girl. And the prices of food! Oh, why did I ever marry Beau Jerome? Why did I?"

She was despair personified, as she sat there at the table in her sloppy clothes, her lips drawn down, her eyes watery with tears, and her breath coming in little sobbing gasps.

Sally's warm, generous heart was filled with pity for her. She seemed so woe-begone and helpless and incapable of facing the hard tasks of life. A broken fingernail was a tragedy to her. A new hat every few weeks was an absolute necessity to her.

Sally saw it all, and she went on patting her shoulders with one of her own hands that had known many a broken nail and blister—that could wield a broom as deftly as they could tap a typewriter.

"All right, Maby," she said, comfortingly. "We'll see about it as soon as my father leaves. He won't be here long, I imagine."

The promise was scarcely off her lips when the front door opened and closed sharply. There came a sound of hurrying feet, and Beau popped into the kitchen with a parcel in his hand.

"Come on, dust off the top of the stove!" he hailed his miserable better half. "Papa's brought home some hamburger steak and beans!" He dumped his package on the table, and Mabel fairly leaped into his arms, rubbing her cold-creamed cheek against his sleeve like an affectionate kitten.

"Oh, Beau, I knew you wouldn't leave me!" she sighed unevenly. "And Beau! The most wonderful thing! Sally's promised to let us live at home again, just as we knew she would!"

Sally's heart sank at her words, but Beau's shifty blue eyes were almost honest for once as he turned them on his sister. "Thank the good lord for that!" he said fervently. "I haven't had a decent meal since I got married! Now, don't start bawling again, Mabel. You're the world's best vamp, even if you can't cook."

To Be Continued.

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

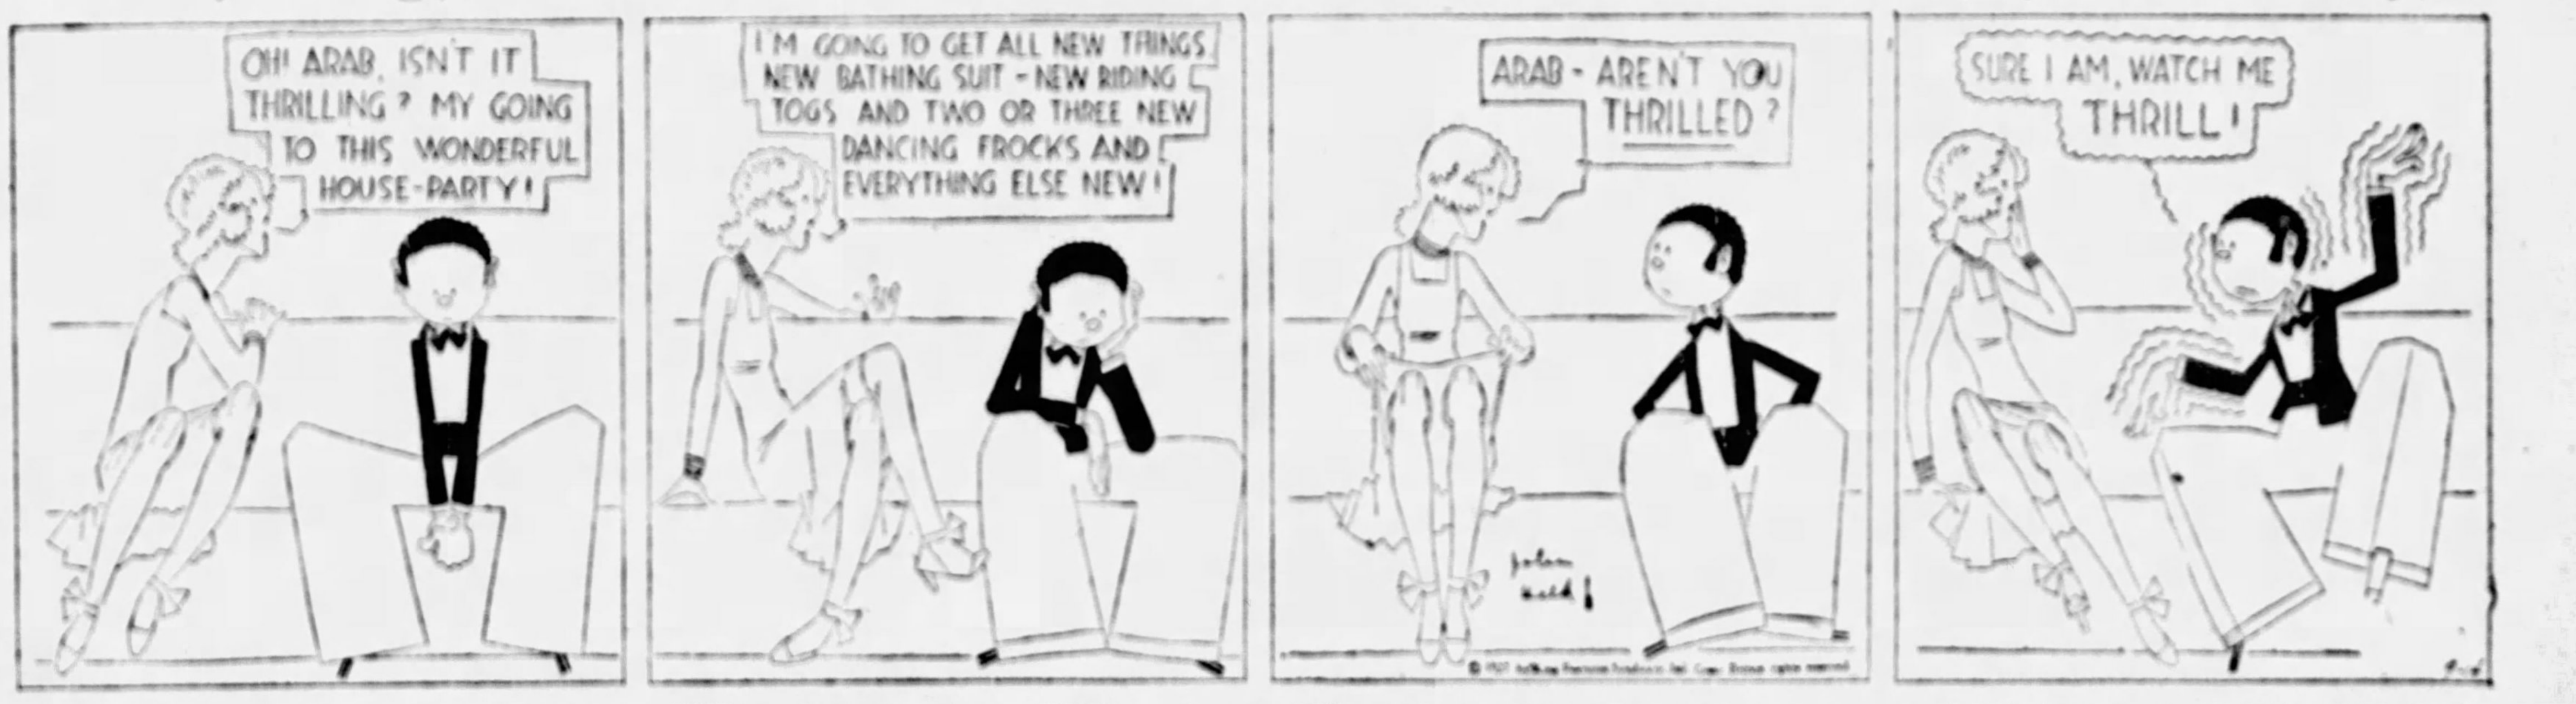
Story by Lloyd Mayer

By John Held, Jr.



OH! ARAB, ISN'T IT THRILLING? MY GOING TO THIS WONDERFUL HOUSE-PARTY!
I'M GOING TO GET ALL NEW THINGS NEW BATHING SUIT - NEW RIDING TOGS AND TWO OR THREE NEW DANCING FROCKS AND EVERYTHING ELSE NEW!
ARAB - AREN'T YOU THRILLED?
SURE I AM, WATCH ME THRILL!
John Held Jr

"HONestly, my dear, I've been having more darn FUN torturing ARab about this HOUSE party effect at the McTAVish's I've been inVIted to because practicably EV'ry time I SEE him I spend HOURS pouring rhapSODic deSCRIPtions of it into his EARS because I mean I ACtually think it's the ONly way to SUBlimate his conCEIT complex because, as you KNOW, my dear, he and NOIsy have the odd idea that NO party is comPLETE withOUT their BRILliant PRESence and they are practicably ready to ROLL over and BUTter themselves with disMAY because they weren't ASKED to this one at the McTavish's—can you BEAR it, my dear? Well, ANYways, I haven't the VAguest idea why I was asked because I simply LOATHE that MRS. McTAVish because, my dear, she's a TERrible GOSsip and MOther says she wouldn't HAVE her in the HOUSE because she's so awfully VULgar and all, but I mean I wouldn't MISS it for the WORLD because I honestly think they give you an AWfully good TIME at their HOUSE parties, don't you really think they DO? But I think it's SIMply FOUL for these girls who are all the time TALKing aGAINST them and saying they are so terribly COMmon and all to acCEPT inviTAtions to their HOUSE parties because I mean if I FELT that way about the McTAVish's I certainly would NEVer accept their hospiTALity, do you know what I mean?"

The Married Life of Helen and Warren

FACE LIFTING IS NOT INDORSED BY WARREN

By Mabel Herbert Urner

"WHY shouldn't I mention it?" persisted Mrs. Harmon. "Everyone knows I'm older."

"Yes, because you keep dragging it in," her husband plainly annoyed.

"Do try this tomato preserve," Helen's second effort to change the subject.

"Thanks. Why make a secret of it?" she refused to be diverted. "You knew I was nine years older when we married. Not ashamed of it then."

"I'm not now," he reddened. "But it isn't necessary to keep discussing it."

"How about a second joint, Harmon?" Warren started to carve.

"No more for me. It's getting to be an obsession with Marie. Even with strangers—she must lug in she's nine years older. As if anyone cared—"

"You know Baldwin's going to South America?" sharpening the carver.

"Sailing Saturday, isn't he? Marie, we must send something to the boat."

"Don't send fruit or flowers," advised Helen. "The best steamer gift is a book on the country you're going to."

"That's a peach of an idea. We'll hunt up something on the Argentine," Mr. Harmon turned to his asparagus. "Wonder how long he'll stay?"

"They've opened a branch in Buenos Aires. He's to manage it—"

The conversation safely diverted now, the dinner progressed without further reference to ages.

Helen sensed that Mrs. Harmon's "dragging it in" was only bravado. Trying to seem not to care—when she did. Desperately.

Still attractive, but obviously older than her husband. Her flapperish dress and "wind-blown" bob only emphasized her middle age.

The hope of subtracting years by too-youthful clothes—a common fallacy.

After dinner, leaving the men to their cigars, Helen led the way to her room.

"You've such lovely old things," Mrs. Harmon dropped on the couch. "This little table—Oh, it opens?"

"Yes, an old toilette table," the raised top revealing a lift-up mirror.

"How adorable! These little satinwood drawers! What was this for—powder? Oh, do I look like that?" shrinking from the mirror.

"That old glass makes you look dreadful," reassuringly. "I never use it."

Leaving the antique, she crossed to Helen's modern dressing table. Studying herself in the triple mirror.

Lifting her sagging cheeks with her finger tips—a temporary rejuvenation.

"Now doesn't that make me look 10 years younger?" turning about. "You know it does!" at Helen's evasive murmur. "Do you know anything about face-lifting? Have you seen anyone who's had it done?"

"Only Mrs. Wynn, and it gave her a strained look. It lifted the sag, but—"

"It did lift the sag?" eagerly. "I'd take a chance on anything else."

"You know it's dangerous," discouraged Helen. "You hear such awful stories—disfigurement—blood poisoning—"

"But think of all the actresses who have it done. If they can risk it—Wait, here's something I want to show you."

Nervously searching through her beaded bag.

"Hope I haven't lost it! No, here it is."

A thin blue circular.

"Do you know anything about this?"

"No, I just got that circular. But I thought I'd go see anyway."

"I certainly wouldn't risk anyone I didn't know."

"Easy enough to say 'don't,'" dropping into the dressing table chair. "You can't know what it means to be nine years older than your husband—and look it!"

"You don't look it," comforted Helen. "If you'd stop talking about it—"

"I can't help it," still lifting her face from different angles. "I can't forget it."

"And you won't let anyone else! Just tonight you brought it up twice. Mr. Harmon didn't like it at all."

"Yes, he hates me to speak of it," now intent on the under-the-chin flabbiness. "But I suppose it's a sort of defiance. Everyone I meet—I imagine them thinking, 'Older than her husband!' And I want them to think I don't care."

"But they can see you DO care! That sort of thing doesn't deceive anyone."

"That's what Fred says. Just look!" again drawing up her cheeks. "Why, I'd be even younger than he! Oh, I'm wild to have it done."

Helen absently stroking Pussy Purr-Mew on the couch beside her. What to advise? What solution for so pathetic a problem?

"Mrs. Gordon had it done in Vienna. She doesn't look over thirty—I know she's forty-seven. And not a scar! She had it done under her eyes, too. But I haven't any lines there," again staring at the mirror. "Only these jowls! Oh, how I loathe them—even that word. Jowls!"

"Not nearly as noticeable as you think," vainly trying to reassure her.

"Yes, it is! And every time Fred looks at me—I feel he sees nothing else."

"He probably doesn't notice it at all. I'm sure Warren wouldn't. Most of the time he doesn't even see me."

"Some men are like that," enviously. "How comfortable to live with!"

"No, I resent it," laughed Helen. "Think how provoking—when you have a new gown and feel you look well. I'd rather be criticised than never noticed at all."

"You think so now. It's different when you're older," she sighed. "You know, I've come to love cloudy days! Sunlight is so pitiless. And I won't go to a restaurant that hasn't shaded lights."

"Why, of course—all women look better under a soft light."

"I know one who doesn't. She's stunning under any light—Fred's new stenographer. I was in his office Monday and—well, I've been just sick ever since! Oh, no, not jealous," hastily. "Fred isn't that kind. But think of the contrast! Coming home to me after seeing her all day. How old and faded I must look!"

"I certainly wouldn't worry about a stenographer. Mr. Harmon is much too serious," soothed Helen, "he'd never——"

"I know, but I can't get that girl out of my mind. She went to lunch while I was there. Put on a cheap little felt—and looked ravishing! When I think how hard it is to get a hat that I look even decent in! And every year it's harder——"

Helen's patience waning. Impossible to divert her. She insisted on making herself unhappy.

"Is that eleven?" glancing at her diamond wrist-watch. "We must be going—"

Carefully replacing her face-lift circular in her purse before they returned to the living room.

The air thick with smoke. The radio delivering a political speech.

"It's after eleven, Fred. You said you had to get up early."

"I do! Dickens of a time at the office since Miss Drake got married. Tried half a dozen girls—didn't know they came so dumb. Fired one day—not a brain under her shingle."

"Not that very pretty girl I saw there Monday?" eagerly.

"Yes, that's the one," rising from the deep chair. "Was she pretty?"

"Why, Fred, she's beautiful! You don't mean you hadn't noticed?"

"Humph, anyone that dumb don't look beautiful to me. What I want in my office is brains—not beauty. No more flappers, either. This last one cured me."

"That's the ticket!" grinned Warren. "Get 'em old enough to have a little sense. Darn sight more interested in their work—not always exercisin' their lipstick."

"Yes, this one was always at it. No wonder she couldn't read her notes. The original Dumb Dora. How do you think she spelled affidavit?" he chuckled. "Affedavid!"

Mrs. Harmon fairly radiant. Her eyes aglow. At least five years younger—without the face-lift.

In their leave-taking, Helen had a chance for only a swift "I'm-so-glad" glance.

"Want to get up early myself," yawned Warren, when they were alone. "We'll turn in now."

"Yes, right away," straightening the library. "Dear, did you notice how she brightened up when he said he'd discharged that girl?"

"Huh, she's batty. Where's my pipe? Harmon's not that sort."

"She knows that," emptying the ash-tray in the waste-basket. "But she's so sensitive about being older— Dear, do you think he—he feels it, too?"

"Wouldn't if she didn't keep harpin' on it. Where's that pipe? Why in blazes did she keep draggin' it in? Rotten taste. Harmon was sore as the devil."

"That's what I told her. But it's almost an obsession. She's been worrying over that girl—she felt he must make comparisons."

"Hugh, set on making herself unhappy. Where the Sam Hill is that pipe?" again searching his pocket.

"She IS unhappy. Here," taking the pipe from the mantel. "She thinks of it constantly. And now she wants a face-lift!"

"Face-lift?" he snorted. "She'd better let her map alone. Might make it a darn sight worse."

"But dear, so many women do. Sometimes it's very successful——"

"What about the times it isn't? How about it, Pussums?" as Pussy Purr-Mew jumed up on the table. "You're gettin' along—want a face-lift?"

"She's determined to have it done—but she ought to go to somebody reliable. Of course I don't need it yet," with a grateful glance at the mantel mirror. "But it would lessen the dread of getting old if one could feel——"

"Well, when you start wrinklin' up—you're going to stay that way!" explosively. "Haven't even her excuse—needn't worry about a younger husband. She can let 'em carve up her mug all she wants—but no takin' any tucks in yours!"

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By Adele Garrison

Madge Blows Faintly at the Embers of Her Love

WITH a hasty word of direction to Katie about luncheon, I hurried to the front hall, from which Junior was still vociferously demanding my presence. I found my mother-in-law standing by the hall stairs and frowning, Dicky doing his best to look smilingly courteous and not succeeding very well, Junior astride his father's shoulders and calling for me, while Jim stood respectfully and uncomfortably in the rear, bearing the suitcase and golf-bag which comprised Dicky's luggage.

"We are waiting, Margaret," my mother-in-law said, with heavy disapproval, "to see which room you have planned for Richard."

I shot a quick glance at my husband. What was he trying to do, stretch our agreement to the last tension of ridiculous observance? Never, except in an emergency during his absence, has his room ever been given to anyone else, and I found when I returned to the farm-house that my father had scrupulously preserved our sleeping rooms so that we could enter them at any moment as if we just had left them. Yet, Dicky was behaving as if he were registering at a summer hotel, an attitude which his mother was bolstering to the best of her ability.

It was not to him I spoke, however, and on my mother-in-law I turned my sunniest smile.

"Why, what possible room could I have planned except his own?" I said. "Surely, Mother, you remember gathering flowers with Junior this morning to put into the vase on his table, Mr. Graham's old room, Jim," I continued nonchalantly, and stepped back to permit of the man's passing me.

But not so easily was I to get off. From his perch on his father's shoulder, Junior held out his hand to me. "Hurry up, Mother," he urged imperatively. "Let's go upstairs the way we always do when Daddy comes."

There was nothing for me to do but to acquiesce. Junior's round questioning eyes, and his grandmother's equally interrogative, but more disapproving orbs were fixed upon me. So, though I had much the feeling that I would have experienced at the funeral of someone dear to me, I went to my accustomed place at my husband's side, felt his arm go around my waist in the old way, put my hand up and caught Junior's, and thus ascended the staircase in what was to me, and I know to Dicky as well, a pitiful travesty of our old loving rollicking journey up the stairway upon his homecomings.

If I had not been so heartsick at the remembrance of the old days—although I could find in my soul no desire for a rekindling of the embers of our love—I could have smiled at the gingerly way in which my husband's arm encircled my waist, and at the stiff aloofness with which I held my body as we made our way up the stairs.

"Just so that Junior will not suspect!" This was the slogan sounding in my hart, and I knew that it was echoing in Dicky's ears also. But I knew that my mother-in-law's keen old eyes were watching both of us, and that we could not hope to deceive her.

A sudden clutching little fear struck me. I must warn Dicky that under no circumstances must he tell his mother the reason for our estrangement. Acrid, crabbed, unreasonable as she often is, she is fundamentally as sound and sweet as a russet apple, and her pride and love for her son are no stronger than her sense of justice. Often she has helped me through a difficult place in my life with Dicky, when I knew that a lesser woman would have ranged herself upon her son's side and blamed me. I must spare her a revelation which would so pain her.

I frantically clutched at my whirling thoughts trying to capture an excuse which I could present to Dicky's mother when she should call me to account, a proceeding which I judged by the look on her face, was very near. And, indeed, Dicky barely had shut the door of his room behind himself and his small son who was already clamoring to help him unpack before my mother-in-law's voice said firmly:

"Margaret, come in here a minute. I want you."

Today's Fashion

Frock of Yellow Georgette With Ruffles.

WHAT is more feminine than ruffles? Those who deplore the absence of feminine charm today have only to see some of the new dresses to be convinced that it still exists.

The charm of this frock lies in its frilly, feminine simplicity. It is of yellow georgette with tiny sleeves, a round neck and a deep yoke, from which rows of tiny ruffles of the georgette form the bodice.

After an interval of plain georgette and a wide belt, the ruffles continue down the skirt, leaving a wide plain band at the hem.

Borrowed from Chinese

Capping the climax of millinery modes, one of the newest shapes is directly adopted from the round, crown-like cap of the Chinese. A flaring, upturned brim adds a sophisticated and rather dashing air.

For the Lovelorn

Bobbie

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have been a constant reader of your column for several months, but this is the first time I have written to you for advice. I am 18 years old, and not bad looking. I have been going with a certain young man two years my senior for about a year and a half. I have been madly in love with him and the other night he asked me to marry him. My parents do not approve of this, so please, Miss Gale, tell me what can be done about it. Hoping,

BOBBIE.

Your parents are quite right in objecting to your marrying so young. Wait a year or so and if you still care for each other I am sure your parents will consent.

Anxious

DEAR MISS GALE:

Took interest in your columns, and thought them wonderful. I am going to ask a few questions and I know you will be willing to answer them. I am helping a friend of mine. He is engaged to a girl for over a year. They seem to be on bad terms. He asked for the ring, but she refused to give it to him. Don't you think she ought to give it to him? When she goes out with other girls, she wears the ring on the right hand. I think it would be better for her to return it, or should he ask for it again?

ANXIOUS.

He gave her the ring and he cannot very well demand its return now that he has changed his mind. It is up to the girl entirely whether or not she gives it back to him.

A good dancer but—

Perspiration odor so unpardonable

Why risk it—when it's so easy to banish?

WE notice perspiration odor instantly in others, yet cannot always tell when we offend.

For even when we aren't conscious of perspiring, the pores constantly give off odor-causing moisture.

Don't take needless chances—use Lifebuoy! Millions bathe with it daily, for it is so refreshing and gives lasting freedom from perspiration odor.

For healthier complexions

Lifebuoy's mild, antiseptic lather not only purifies body pores—it purifies face pores, too, keeping complexions clear, fresh and glowing with health.

Better still, it helps safeguard family health by removing unseen disease germs that hands may carry home.

Lifebuoy's clean, hygienic scent—which quickly evaporates after rinsing—tells you it gives greater safety. Yet Lifebuoy costs so little. It is orange-red, the color of its pure palm-fruit oils. Get it today.

DAMON RUNYON SAYS

DAMON RUNYON

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—"It was an old man that faced Tunney coming out for the sixth round. A tired expression had stolen over Dempsey's face. A wan smile played about his eyes. Perhaps he was thinking of that day long ago at Toledo, when a dark visaged, brown and tawny giant had reached the pinnacle of the pugilistic heights.

"Somehow the hardened faces about the ringside softened as they gazed upon the transformation. The weight of years indeed had borne down upon this man's shoulders heavily as he stood there waiting to meet the attack of the younger and stronger Tunney."

THAT is the sort of stuff I expect to be reading on the morning of September 22," writes Mr. Henry Maloney of 1616 University avenue, New York City, a gentleman who favors me about once every semester with a communication.

I am vaguely wondering if Mr. Maloney is quoting from some old-time tale or tales of mine. The words have a familiar ring. Or if not from me, perhaps Mr. Maloney quotes from some other earnest reporter of pugilistic events of a bygone day, such as—let's say—the fight between Burke, the deaf 'un, and Bold Bendigo, or the struggle between James J. Jeffries and John Arthur Johnson.

IN ANY event I think I shall preserve Mr. Maloney's contribution for future reference. It may be useful, not only for the morning of September 22, but for the morning of the day after Mr. Gene Tunney is knocked bow-legged by young Wyoming Warner or James J. Braddock, or Benjamin Touchstone, or Armand Emanuel, or one of those lads.

"Applesauce, Mr. Runyon!" says Mr. Maloney, violently, referring to his own dark visaged, brown and tawny effusion, "applesauce! If I ever decide to write melodrama, I'll take a course in journalism. Here is a tip for you—take that 2 to 1 that they are offering on Broadway Dempsey cannot go the distance. He is through."

Mr. Maloney's only error as a tipster may be in his price quotation. The very latest reports from my operatives along the big white line is 3 to 2 Tunney, with not much Dempsey money in sight. This is the quotation of Harry Fink & Co., uptown commissioners, who report to me that they have $7,500 offered at those odds, with Mr. Dempsey's admirers holding out for 8 to 5.

A letter from Mr. Fred (Windy) Winsor picks Mr. Tunney to win by a K. O. It is the first time that Mr. Winsor has ever called Mr. Dempsey anywhere but on top. This does not make it final, to be sure, but Mr. Winsor, like Mr. Maloney, seems to call 'em right as often as he calls 'em wrong, which beats the best average of the experts.

MR. WINSOR, who is called Windy because of a verbal gustiness well nigh beyond belief, once managed Mr. Dempsey. That was back in the days when Mr. Dempsey was what you call a pork-and-beaner, though he rarely had the price of pork and beans. Neither did Mr. Winsor.

Before Mr. Dempsey's fight with the terrible Sharkey man, Mr. Winsor hied himself to Ojai, out in California, where Mr. Dempsey was training, and made secret observation of Mr. Dempsey, duly reporting his findings to me. He said he found Mr. Dempsey in a sad state as to legs, but still able to punch.

He thought Mr. Dempsey was aiming to fight Mr. Tunney and he orted to me the opinion that Mr. ey would knock him from in those shaky pins. Then it came out that Mr. Dempsey was to battle the terrible Sharkey man, and Mr. Winsor promptly switched and picked Dempsey. "I picked him on Sharkey's previous record and on his own unquestioned gameness," writes Mr. Winsor. "I didn't think Sharkey a game fellow, nor did I think him the smartest fellow in the world. Against Tunney it is a different story. I think Tunney is one of the gamest fellows we have in the game. Also he has something under his hat besides hair.

"Dempsey still retains that steel chin. I don't think there is a man in the world who could knock him over pounding his chin. If Tunney does it he may lose the fight and Dempsey will come back as the champion.

"Dempsey has lived much since he won that title. When I had him we were lucky to get the old pork chops. Since he hasn't had to hustle for them he has grown flabby in the body. If Tunney centers his attack on Jack's body he is sure to knock him out.

"The other fellows who have fought him have always taken their best shots at his chin. It is a natural target, and they just can't help banging away at it. They hurt their hands more than they hurt Dempsey. Jack had the right idea against Sharkey. He plowed into him with body punches from the start and if Tunney fights that way Dempsey won't have a chance.

"The former champion has passed from the picture, he may look perfect to the outside, but the old spring is gone from his feet, and I believe that he is burnt out inside."

PARTNERS BATTERED AS JACK DRILLS

LINCOLN FIELDS, CRETE, Ill., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Under the rays of a beautiful harvest moon, Jack Dempsey went through his second secret workout by floodlight last night, his longest, and some said his fastest, since he settled down to intensive training.

For seven full rounds, five with sparring partners and two with heavy bag, Jack hammered away. Dave Shade, California middleweight, made the occasion impressive by facing the former champion for the first time in the preparation for the Tunney match.

Shade gave Jack the speediest workout he has had with any sparring partner here. Rocky Adams, a 200-pound Iowan, followed Shade, but was on the receiving end all the time.

Big Boy Peterson, a rangy New Orleans heavyweight with a powerful right hand, was third in the list, and Jack rushed into Peterson's upright stance, similar to Tunney's, whaling away with both hands.

Whitney Allen, Boston 175-pounder, a newcomer, was the next opponent, and fared about as well as Adams. A round with Allentown Joe Gans, who has been on the sparring program with Jack almost every day since this camp was opened, closed the evening performance about 10 o'clock.

SHOWS REAL SPEED

Throughout the five rounds, Manager Flynn followed his pupil around the ring, calling for speed and more speed, and Jack responded with the fastest stepping he has shown in three weeks.

While the mercury stood around 90 yesterday when Jack took his afternoon exercises against the heavy bag, it was comparatively cool, with a comfortable breeze, when the moonlight workout began. Jack seemed to enjoy the action so much that Manager Flynn has about decided on a similar program for tonight, with a gradual tapering off thereafter until Sunday, when the former champion will start resting up for the night of September 22.

GENE STILL A. W. O. L.

LAKE VILLA, Ill., Sept. 14—(AP)—Most people would naturally believe that the heavyweight champion of the world, of all people, is best able to take care of himself, but not the citizens of Chicago.

For the first time since Gene Tunney came West 10 days ago to complete training for the most expensive fistic display in history—his $3,000,000 title battle with Jack Dempsey at Soldier Field—the champion today had no one minding him.

Gene left his personal bodyguard, Bill Smith, of detective headquarters, spinning yarns of the stockyards and the bold Chicago gunmen when he departed the training camp Monday to visit with friends at Lake Forest, 20 miles away.

The situation had not changed today, for Gene still was visiting and the sergeant still was spinning his yarn.

And Bill was not the only member of Gene's protective forces left "holding the bag." A miniature fire department, assigned from headquarters in Chicago, as well as Sergt. Smith's three assistants, the regular police force about the grounds and Jiggs II, the Quantico Marine mascot from Virginia, all were left with nothing to protect.

FIGHTERS SCORE DOUBLE KNOCKDOWN

BENNY BASS DEFEATS RED CHAPMAN FOR TITLE

Here is the picture of the near-double knockout, which featured the ninth round of the bout for the featherweight championship between Benny Bass and Red Chapman at Philadelphia the other night. Both scored simultaneously and both went to the floor. Bass was the first to recover and got up at the count of four, while Chapman did not reach his feet until nine and then was groggy and barely able to last through the round. Bass, shown at the right in the picture, won the decision and the crown.

Preliminary Card For Dempsey, Tunney Show

Big Boy Peterson, New Orleans, vs. Knute Hanson, Racine, Wis.

Chuck Wiggins of Indianapolis and Jimmy Byrne, Louisville.

Martin Burke, New Orleans, vs. Billy Vidabeck, Jersey City.

George Manley, Denver, vs. Yale Okun, New York.

Jack McCann, St. Paul, vs. Wyoming Warner, Cheyenne.

Armand Emanuel, San Francisco, vs. George La Rocco, New York.

Each will be six rounds.

SCRANTON BEATS UNIVERSAL

DETROIT, Sept. 14—In the hardest played game of the Class A tourney being waged here this week, the Universal Cement of Pittsburgh were eliminated yesterday afternoon when they were defeated by the Bellevue Boosters of Scranton, 3 to 1.

Because of the victory the Boosters claim the Class A championship of Pennsylvania. Scranton, which drew a bye for today, is conceded a good chance to bring home the title to Pennsylvania, as Detroit and Toledo, the only two undefeated clubs, meet today, with the result that one of them must fall.

It was flawless infield play that defeated the Universals yesterday. The Scranton inner defense made five double plays, being invulnerable upon the several occasions when the Universals had a man on first. The score:

Monte Munn in Test With Godfrey Tonight

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—New York's boxing spotlight is turned on Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, where the biggest match of the year, of its sort, is scheduled to take place tonight.

The contestants are Monte Munn, the biggest of all the white heavyweights, and George Godfrey, the giant Negro. They are scheduled to go 10 rounds to a decision, although no one expects it to go half that distance.

Not only is the match big in a literal sense, but it is one of the most significant bouts that could be arranged. Godfrey is the most formidable challenger for the championship, and is now generally accepted as the successor of Harry Wills, who worried the white champions for many years.

A former sparring partner of Jack Dempsey, Godfrey came into prominence last fall when he fought Jack Sharkey at Boston. Godfrey appeared to some to be the better man, but the decision was given to Sharkey. However, the other heavyweights used their own judgment, and it became difficult for Godfrey to secure opponents. He went west, where he is a big card, and knocked out 14 men in a row.

Godfrey's most impressive showing was made at Philadelphia a few weeks ago, when he knocked out Jimmy Maloney, of Boston, in less than two minutes. Sharkey fought 15 rounds against Maloney before he turned the trick, yet Godfrey did it the first time he met Jimmy. Sharkey predicted many months ago that Godfrey surely would knock out Maloney if they met.

Godfrey jumped to California and last Thursday night he knocked out Henry Van Patten, a 225-pounder, at Los Angeles, in three rounds. He left immediately for New York to box Munn.

Like the late Harry Greb, Godfrey keeps in condition by actual fighting. With matches so difficult to obtain, he has to be ready to fight at a moment's notice.

Godfrey stands 6 feet 3 inches and his tremendous size usually prejudices the fans against him. This time there should be no complaint, for Munn is as immense as the black man. Both will weigh in the neighborhood of 230 pounds.

Munn made the match himself. He saw Godfrey knock out Maloney, and became convinced that he could beat him. Munn has been boxing for nearly 18 months and believes he is ready for the big test.

BUFF DONNELLI JOINS DUKES

Assistant Coach John Weible got down to hard work with the Duke linemen today, putting them through a tough line scrimmage. He gave special attention to the guards and tackles, correcting faults. After about an hour of this he let up and they ran through a brisk signal drill.

Layden took the backfield men and gave them a rather light session in passing, kicking and receiving. This afternoon Aldo (Buff) Donnelli, last year a versatile kicker, center and passer, joined the squad. He will try out for a backfield position.

U. S. GOLFERS COMPETE FOR TOTEM POLE TROPHY

JASPER, Alberta, Canada, Sept. 14.—Several American golfers are among the hundred odd players who teed off yesterday on the Jasper Park golf course, in the opening round for the Totem Pole trophy, the feature event of the annual tournament at this famous Rocky Mountain course. They include Bob Davis, of New York City; H. Y. Mills, of the Appawamis Club, Rye, N. Y.; George B. Carpenter, of Del Monte, Cal.; A. F. Moerter, of Portland, Ore.; Irving Hale, of Winnetka, Ill., and J. E. Morrill, of Honolulu.

The interprovincial match, in which teams from every province in Canada participated, was won by British Columbia, with a score of 332. Harry Jones, of Vancouver, upheld the golfing reputation set by the famous member of the Jones family from Atlanta, Ga., by turning in the best card, a 77. The Vancouver Jones last year was the winner of the Totem Pole trophy match.

BUFFALO CLINCHES FLAG IN INTERNATIONAL LOOP

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 14.—(INS)—The Buffalo Bisons had clinched the International League pennant today and will meet the winner of the American Association flag in the "little world series." Buffalo defeated Rochester here 12 to 1, and sewed up the pennant.

Bout Framed, Pugs Fined $100

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 14.—(AP.)—W. L. Stribling and Leo Diebel are wondering if their boxing match here a week ago was a benefit performance they knew nothing about.

Arrested and found guilty of taking part in a "framed" fight, Diebel and the "Georgia Schoolboy" each were fined $100. Later, however, the state boxing commission held that the fight was according to the Marquis of Queensbury, and the fighters' purse, which had been withheld, was ordered paid the boxers.

Today, however, John Hopkins, city commissioner who holds the money, said that it will be paid over to the state welfare department. Hopkins said the referee had called the match "no contest," and that a court had found the fighters guilty of stalling. The decision of the boxing commission, he said, means nothing to him.

If the fighters want their pay, let them sue, Hopkins added.

LOAYZA BOXES MORGAN

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—The indoor boxing season in Chicago will be opened this year two days before the outdoor season reaches its grand climax in the Tunney-Dempsey scrap. Promoter Jim Mullen announced today a card for the Coliseum the night of September 20, topped by a 10-round match between Tod Morgan, junior lightweight champion, and Stanislaus Loayza. My Sullivan, St. Paul middleweight, will box Morrie Schlaifer, of Omaha, in the 10-round semi-final.

Woman's Heel Scores Kayo

EL PASO, Tex., Sept. 14.—Rosy Rosales, a prizefighter, was knocked out by a woman's heel here. It was round nine and the milling was fast and furious. Rosales swung at Fred Cullen, his opponent, and missed. Both fell from the ring. Rosales couldn't get up because a woman had her shoe in his face. Cullen, back in the ring, was declared the victor by a technical knockout.

A New Dutch Ziringer

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

FOND memories were stirred last night at the annual fall get-together of St. Canice Lyceum up in Knoxville. Memories of the halcyon days in local ring circles when the boys didn't get much for fighting, but gave the fans much in return. Memories of frequent meetings between two of the best crowd pleasers ever developed in this section.

There, in the center of the ring, up on the stage of the auditorium, acting as referee of a series of amateur battles, moves Patsy Brannigan, a figure who never will be forgotten by the boxing followers of his time. In his 40s now, but still the agile, alert athlete, with the fiery crop of red hair and the sureness of foot in the ring that the lads doing the fighting lack.

Between bouts, he flashes his old happy laugh and tells of his readiness even yet to fight anybody, anywhere, any time. He does box from time to time at smokers, and says he can travel 10 rounds with the best, despite his years and the fact that more than a score of years have passed since he first donned the mittens.

But it isn't only the sight of Brannigan that stirs the memories. No, it is a combination, rather a coincidence. One of the youngsters in there doing his stuff as Patsy glides about, the third man in the ring, is named Ziringer. Jimmy Ziringer. He's only 16 and he's a nephew of the late Young (Dutch) Ziringer, of the North Side, probably the hardest-hitting featherweight that ever boxed here. Ziringer was a knock 'em dead kid if ever there was one, and he fought Brannigan 17 or 19 or 21 times. Patsy himself has lost track of the number of engagements, but time has not dimmed the great respect in which he held his old rival.

"HE COULD hit like a middleweight," Patsy says, as he goes back across the years to recall the bouts. He knocked out many opponents. On the other hand, I wasn't much of a puncher. I could outpoint my opponents and then Ziringer would knock them out in a punch or two. And then they would rematch the pair of us. In this way we were fighting each other almost every other week. And every one of our bouts was a fight. He never was able to knock me out, probably because I got on to his style and was able to avoid most of his killing blows. Yes, sir, he certainly could punch."

We watch for signs of his uncle's prowess in young Jimmy Ziringer, and, sure enough, they are there. His opponent is a boy of about his own age, who has height and reach on him and is constantly laughing, as he steps about and stabs his left and crosses his right. But young Ziringer is deadly in earnest, and hits with trip-hammer force for a boy of his tender years. He packs a wallop in both left and right and frequently jars his more nimble foe. Patsy's eyes fairly dance as he watches the punching exhibition, and his mind again must be back in those golden days.

AFTER it is all over, he commits himself. "The kid is there," he says. "He's just starting. Give him a little time and he'll be a pip."

Is Patsy figuring on handling the lad? Well, perhaps. But he won't rush him. There's plenty of time and a period in the amateur ranks won't hurt. With the spirit of Dutch Ziringer to urge him on and the counsel of a wise ring general like Brannigan to round out the combination, the youngster may go far. Here's hoping, anyway, if only for old time's sake.

FIGHT RESULTS

At Portland, Ore.—Harry Dillon knocked out Harry Lee, 6 rounds.

At San Jose, Cal.—Buddy Saunders defeated Young Carmen, 10 rounds.

At Denver—Frankie Lewar knocked out Pal Sheaf, 7 rounds; Ernie Mussick knocked out Kid Dennis, 2 rounds.

At Newark, N. J.—Pete Nebo defeated Frankie Fink, 10 rounds.

At Indianapolis—Red Uhlan defeated Jack Eckhart, 10 rounds.

At Boston—Jimmy Sacco defeated Sol Barbarian, 10 rounds.

STEWARDS' EVENT CARDED

From the number of entries received for the marathon race and boxing bouts to be staged by the Pittsburgh Stewards Club on Thursday, the event should be interesting. The marathon race handicap will start from the City-County Building at noon, ending at the Raybrook Farms, South Hills.

Amateur boxing bouts will be held at the Farms and will start at 2:30 o'clock. The bouts will be refereed by John H. Henderson, under A. A. U. sanction.

C. M. C. PLANS SHOW

The North Side Catholic Men's Club will open the 1927 entertainment season with an outdoor boxing show to be staged next Monday night on the property adjoining the club rooms on Antrim street. The proceeds will be used to finance the 1927 C. M. C. football team. Eddie McEntee, chairman of the arrangements committee, has promised that some of the best amateur talent will be seen in action. A regular meeting of the club will be held Friday evening.

ISLES WANT GAMES

Bloomfield again will be represented on the gridiron this season by C. W. Isles' Bloomfield Tigers. The team has been strengthened by the addition of Mat Gardner and Henry Jones, former Schenley High stars, Dutch Bauer of Fort Pitt, Wineland and White of Lawrenceville Triangles and Hafer of Bloomfield Crimsons. Coach Jake Pargen has ordered practice for Friday night.

Work For Two Captains

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Indiana University's football team will have two captains, one for defense and one for offense, appointed for each football game this season. When Indiana has possession of the ball, a backfield man will be in charge of the team and when the team is on defense a lineman will be captain.

Yanks, Flag Clinched, Await Series

SPORT COMMENT
by JAMES J. LONG

YOU may chalk up one more expert opinion that the Pirates are going to win the pennant. Manager Dave Bancroft of the Braves believes that they are, and he does not hesitate to say so.

One not knowing the real Bancroft might be inclined to think that, as a result of the Earl Smith episode, he would be swayed by prejudice against the Buccaneers to such an extent that he would be unable to see any good in them and would not readily say anything in their praise.

Or it might be suspected from the same unfamiliar angle that his old relations with John McGraw and the New York club would lead him to favor the Giants in the present hot pennant race, for sentimental reasons alone.

BUT "Banny" is not of that narrow type. He is too good a sportsman to hold any grudges against the Pittsburgh club, is able to study the flag fight with impartial eyes, and to give an opinion on the outcome with an open mind and on the soundest kind of baseball logic.

The Boston manager's opinion is worth something, too, for he is generally recognized as one of the smartest men in the game. In spite of being 35 years old he still is one of the greatest shortstops that ever wore spikes, and in his knowledge of the game and judgment of players and clubs he ranks abreast of the foremost.

"Banny" knows considerable about pennant-winning clubs, too, and about what is required to make a team a flag winner, as he played with the Phillies when they won the National League championship in 1915 for the only time in their history and also was a member of the Giants when they finished first in 1921, 1922 and 1923, being transferred to Boston for 1924.

AND it cannot be said that "Banny" was influenced by the two beatings administered to his team here yesterday by the Bushmen, as it was before the starting of the first game of the double-header that he was asked his opinion of the pennant race in which his club's six-game series here was expected to play such an important part.

"Pittsburgh is my pick to win the pennant," he replied without an instant's hesitation. "For one thing, the Pirates are proving they have the real stuff and gameness by sticking out in front in the face of stiff opposition, and I think they will still be heading the parade when the season ends. Even if they are ousted for a day or two I look for them to get back.

"It is a good ball club, there can be no question of that, and it has a smart and hustling leader in Donie Bush, who makes very few mistakes. I like the Pirate pitchers, who gave us hard battles even when we succeeded in beating them in a number of games, and all around, Pittsburgh shapes up as the club that, in my opinion, will win the pennant."

IT IS Bancroft's belief that the flag fight is no longer a four-cornered one. He thinks it is only a three-handed affair now, expressing the opinion that Chicago is out of it and that the Cubs are too far behind the leaders and playing too inconsistently to have a chance to catch up.

Naturally, you would expect the boss of the Bostonese to figure New York at least second to the Pirates in pennant chances, as most of the experts are doing. But there you miss another guess.

"I think that St. Louis will finish second, and that New York will come in third," said Davy. "The Giants have a great hitting club, and Harper, Terry, Hornsby and others give them tremendous batting power, but they haven't got the pitchers. Grimes is the only pitcher who is doing really high-class work and you can't win pennants with one pitcher, particularly when you have such a string of double-headers to play as the Giants are facing on this western trip.

"Pittsburgh, first, St. Louis second and New York third is the way I think they will finish."

APPARENTLY there is little or no chance of a change taking place in the ownership of the Pittsburgh hockey club for the coming season at Duquesne Garden.

It is said that the present operating company and owners of the team and franchise might be willing to sell, provided they were given their price, and it is known that some other Pittsburghers would be willing to take over the club if they could get it at their figures, but the two groups are so far apart in what they consider the monetary value of the local ice outfit that there appears to be no possibility of an agreement being reached.

From present indications, therefore, the Duquesne Garden puckmen will continue to play under the present owners the coming season.

PITTSBURGH has been one of the most active clubs in the majors in lining up new talent, having already recalled Outfielder Adam Comorosky, Pitchers George Peery and Walter Tauscher, and purchased Pitchers Fred Fussell, Lester Bartholomew and Irwin Brame, Third Baseman Gotlieber, First Baseman Walter Windle and others, but still has Infielder Dick Bartell, Outfielder Herman Layne and one or two more to add to the list, which will bring the Pirate roster close to the limit of 40.

Catcher Ralston Hemsley, who reported here last week, belongs to Wichita, and has not yet been purchased, having come here merely for a looking-over.

BURLEIGH GRIMES did not start out very auspiciously as a Giant pitcher this year, losing seven of his first 12 games and being hammered off the hill repeatedly, but he certainly is making a whirlwind finish. His victory in St. Louis yesterday was his eleventh win in succession, a record not equaled by any other hurler in the majors this season.

CORSAIRS, BRAVES IN TWIN BILL TODAY

Three full games ahead of their St. Louis and New York foemen, and with the Cubs practically eliminated, the Pirates today were eager for action in the scheduled double-header with the Braves. Winning both ends of a dual fight with Bancroft's Tribe yesterday, the Bushwhackers gained a full game on the Cardinals and Giants and they increased the gap separating them from the Bruins by one and one-half games. The Cubs are now five full games below the Pirates.

With less than three weeks of the race to be run, an advantage of three games constitutes a big bulge for the club fortunate enough to possess it. But while Donie Bush and his players appear to realize their fine position they were none the less cautious as they laid plans for the second doubleheader with the dangerous Braves.

"The Kilkenny Cat" act staged by the Cards and Giants in St. Louis while the Pirates were grabbing two victories was just the right caper so far as Pirate partisans are concerned. Moreover, if the two rivals of the Pirates continue to battle to draw decisions in their two remaining double bills there will be rejoicing in the Pittsburgh sector.

BUCS "TAKE" GREENFIELD

The morale of the Oaklanders was boosted in the first battle of yesterday owing to the fact that they were able to shell Kent Greenfield off the firing line. Since Greenfield joined the Braves he was an unsurmountable barrier to the Pirates until his latest run-in with them. It is likely that Kent will be back at least once again before the series is over, but the home boys think they have his number now.

Remy Kremer will pitch one of the games this afternoon with John Miljus and Mike Cvengros eager for the slab assignment in the other contest. The French ace had to hustle to Fogarty Knoll in the ninth inning to save the nightcap of yesterday, but Remy did not have to throw many pitches to make the battle safe for the home hosts. Therefore, his efficiency should not be impaired.

Manager Bancroft of the Braves will use Bob Smith to fling one of the battles with Goldsmith and Robertson available for the other game.

Lee Meadows and Victor Aldridge hung up triumphs as the Buccos rode to their latest triumphs. The two successes ran the Pirate consecutive string to five. The Buccos were very impressive as they landed the opening battle and they were just about as clever in the twilight affair up to the seventh round when Aldridge began to lose his effectiveness. The scores were 6 to 1 and 5 to 4.

LLOYD SAVES GAME

A beautiful bit of fielding by Lloyd Waner in the ninth inning, coupled with some very bad baseball on the part of the Braves, saved the second game for the Pirates. Sprout chucked out Eddie Moore at the plate with the tieing tally, the out turning the picture in a flash.

Aldridge entered the ninth with a two-run lead. Luke Urban singled at the outset and Moore, batting for Pitcher Wertz, doubled, putting runners on third and second with none out. Kremer hustled to the mound to pitch to Richbourg. The batter drove a liner to Sprout, who nailed it as Urban scored. Moore was held at second.

Bancroft rattled a single past Wright into center. The kid centerfielder made a clean pickup of the ball and then made a fine throw to Gooch, who touched out Moore. Eddie was out by such a large margin that he did not slide. After the game he was fined $200 by Manager Bancroft for failure to "hit the dirt." The game was over in favor of the Pirates when Welsh flied to Comorosky.

THROUGH the SPORT LENS
by HAVEY BOYLE

HAVEY BOYLE.

OWNER WRIGLEY of the Chicago Cubs concocted what proved to be an abortive scheme to win the pennant. Getting the notion his Cubs would hustle even more with an added lure that they would share a part of his world series profits with them, beyond the share the players are entitled to by baseball law, Owner Wrigley made his astounding offer. A very short time after getting this shock the Cub players began to fold up. This will be taken as a very important lesson by all clubowners. The prospect that any owner in the future will be tempted to ruin his club's pennant chances by offering it a bonus is very slight. In fact, the magnates may even infer from the Cub example that the less money dangled before the eyes of the players the more successful the players will be. Owner Wrigley's scheme, while proving harmful to him, may in the long run prove quite beneficial to his brethren. Any impulse to be generous will be checked by the sad history of 1927.

PERHAPS even when next winter some of the boys begin having arguments with their respective owners the owners will be able to say with great logic that they have found through the experiences of Mr. Wrigley that keeping the players lean and drawn, financially, works out better than if they grew fat, wealthy. The whole argument between player and owner may take a new turn as the result of Mr. Wrigley's offer. After this, the owner may say, instead of the old argument he can not afford higher salaries, that after all it has been found to hurt a club to put it in the way of making additional money.

PIRATE fans are beginning to breathe more easily with the turn for the better the club has taken. It took a long while for the Pirates to discover that they must fight and hustle against the weak clubs as they fight and hustle against good opposition, but their splendid work against Philadelphia, and their fighting attitude against the lowly Braves proves that at last they know that the pennant-winner is the club that takes advantage of the so-called soft spots.

Defeats suffered at the hand of inferior opposition have a double effect. They not only hurt considerably in the percentage column, but often they have a woeful effect on morale. A defeat at the hands of a good club weighs heavily enough, but when a bad outfit comes along and scores then the superior club does much brooding, which is bad for its baseball health in games to come.

IF A manager could impress a good club with the notion that a victory over second division clubs really is more important than a vic-

Failure to Hit Dirt Costs Moore $200

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Eddie Moore, of the Braves, today was $200 poorer because he failed to slide into the home plate with the tying run in the ninth inning of the second game of the doubleheader at Forbes Field yesterday.

It cost Ki Cuyler one-fourth this amount for not "hitting the dirt" on a certain play at Forbes Field a few weeks back. The Pirates were a mile behind the Giants in that game and the play had little or no effect on the result. But Moore's play might have been the means of winning a game, yet Eddie had little or no chance to register it.

SHOULD HAVE STOPPED

The inside story of Eddie's tragedy is herewith recorded. In the first place, it would have been better baseball on the part of the Boston coach had Moore been flagged down at third base. Had he been stopped, runners would have been on third and first with only one out and two runs needed for victory.

Moreover, the cleanup section of the Braves' order would have been at the plate. The fact that Welsh flied out after the bad play does not alter the argument. With runners on the two bases mentioned, Welsh might have looked at different pitching; he could have tried a squeeze; in fact there is no telling what he would have done.

But the big reason Moore looked so bad and the real cause of why he was thrown out so far were manifest in the actions of Pie Traynor, who bluffed that Wright had stopped Bancroft's grounder and was throwing to him for a play on Moore.

Eddie was on second with one out when Bancroft hit between Wright and the bag. Moore streaked for the plate, but his back was to Wright and he was not sure that the ball had passed Glenn. Traynor held up his hands as if to take a throw at the bag. This act would naturally mislead to some extent and Moore might have been ready for a slide to third.

INFIELD PLAYS CLOSE

To make matters worse for Eddie, Lloyd Waner and the other infielders were playing closeup for two reasons; first, Bancroft is a short hitter and there is no reason for playing a deep field on him; second, the outfielders were anxious to cut Moore down at the plate on a possible single.

The Pirate centerfielder seldom kicks a ground ball and he played this bounder like an infielder. Sprout followed through with an accurate throw to Gooch. Moore was out more than 10 feet. Instead of sliding he ran into Gooch. He should have played out the string, but on the other hand, it looked like bad baseball to let him come in.

Well, it's a rather hard way to make an easy living.

HUGGINS' SUCCESS FIFTH IN 10 YEARS

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—For the fifth time since Miller Huggins became manager, in 1918, the New York Yankees have captured the American League baseball championship. When the team defeated Cleveland yesterday in both games of a double header it clinched the pennant.

Babe Ruth hit his fifty-first home run of the season in the first contest and his fifty-second in the windup. The Yanks won by 5-3 scores in each game. New York has 15 games left on the schedule. If the team lost all of these while the Philadelphia Athletics, now in second place, won all of their remaining 17 games, the Yankees still would finish the season six points ahead of the Mackmen.

Since Huggins took over the reins the Yankees have finished below first division only once. In 1925 the team was badly disorganized and slumped into seventh place. Under Huggins' management the Yanks finished fourth in 1918 and 1919, third in 1920, won pennants in 1921-22-23, finished second to Washington in 1924 and captured their fourth pennant last season.

HAVE GREAT TEAM

This year the Yankees got away to a flying start and made a runaway of festivities. Some of the keenest students of baseball believe the Yanks are the greatest all-around team the game has ever known. It tops the American League in team batting and was only one point behind the Chicago White Sox, leaders in team fielding, in the last official averages. The Yankees have hit 145 home runs to date, five more than the previous high mark established in 1884 by the Chicago Nationals. Ruth and Gehrig has contributed 97 home runs to this total, and today Ruth was seven ahead of Gehrig. Ruth has to make only seven more homers to equal his record, established in 1921.

The Yanks will play the rest of their games at home and will open the world series in the park of the National League winner probably October 5.

CUBS MUST BE GETTING READY FOR CITY SERIES

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—The Chicago Cubs have recalled four pitchers, three infielders and one outfielder to report here at the close of their respective league seasons.

Those recalled were: Kern, first baseman, with Nashville; Jarrett, outfielder; Sewel, infielder, and Pitchers Hanson, Rupprecht and Wilkie, all of Reading, Pa.; Pitcher York, of Wilkes-Barre, and Infielder Moore, of Spartanburg.

SPEAKING OF HANDS—HAVE A LOOK!

THEY BELONG TO LEONARD SCHNUPPE OF CARNEGIE TECH

An outcast? Decidedly not! But just the same, no welcoming hands were extended to Leonard Schnuppe, gargantuan candidate for Carnegie Tech's Plebe football team, when he loomed on the Skibo horizon the other day. And there's a very good reason.

Graduate Manager Buddy Overend was dreaming of pars and birdies in the athletic offices the morning Schnuppe blew in from his home in Jeannette. "Welcome to Tech," exclaimed Buddy, reaching out his hand for a hearty shake. So did Schnuppe. There was a crackling sound, and Buddy looked at his hand.

"My golf," he said, "is ruined for the next 10 years."

Leonard is a gaudy-looking tackle if ever one entered Carnegie. He weighs somewhere between 210 and 220 pounds. He stands 6 feet 4 inches peeled right down to his bare feet. But his hands are his crowning glory. Young Mr. Schnuppe totes around what are probably the mightiest duo of mitts in captivity. He easily encircles a water glass with his fingers, and they do say that once he lays those paws on a rival linesman the latter simply sits down and thinks over his past sins.

Out at Tech they tell a story of Schnuppe's first trip to the training table, which may or may not be true, but could be fact easily enough. It seems that Schnuppe had one of his hands flat on the table when Capt. Purl Anderson strolled in. "Oh, boy! ham tonight," chortled Purl.

"Ham, my eye," retorted the aggrieved Plebe, promptly poking the misleading member into a convenient pocket.

In the photo you see Mr. Schnuppe's hands. Mr. Schnuppe may be partially seen just behind them.

CHICAGO GRIDDERS MAKE USE OF TRACK SUITS

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Track suits instead of football uniforms will be issued by Coach Stagg to his Chicago Maroons tomorrow for the opening of Big Ten practice, if the heat wave persists. Hard work the very first day, with some scrimmage against the scrubs, was Coach Stagg's plan, but in view of the unusual heat, only practice in formations will be held, until it is cool enough to wear gridiron armor.

VARSITY CLAN TO HONOR SKIBO COACHING STAFF

Members of the Varsity Clan of Carnegie Tech have arranged to hold a luncheon Thursday night in the Carnegie Inn on Woodlawn avenue in honor of the Skibo coaching staff. The guests of honor will be Wally Steffen, head coach, and his assistants, Bob Waddell, Dr. Marks, Bert Munhall and Paul Allison.

William Pinkel, president of the Varsity Clan, and J. N. Franklin, secretary, are in charge of the affair. The affair is scheduled to start at 6:30 p. m.

Youth Will Be Served

A 44-YEAR-OLD pitcher on the mound for Johnstown and a 51-year-old twirler on the mound for the Homestead Grays will be offered either Saturday or Sunday, when the Grays and Johnstown meet in a two-game series at Johnstown. Chief Bender is the Johnstown "youngster" and Joe Williams, the Grays' "rookie."

PUNCH 'EM PAUL [illegible] snapped out of his batting slump yesterday [illegible] refreshing manner [illegible] connected for three [illegible] in [illegible] official times at bat [illegible] came out of the double series with the same figures. It is quite remarkable that [illegible] collected 22 hits during the afternoon, the big difference being the Pirates won a couple of [illegible] important ball games.

GEORGE GRANTHAM was called upon to handle [illegible] chances of varied [illegible] and the fact [illegible] failed only [illegible] cut on difficult chances. He slipped once or twice on the wet footing of yesterday but his dancing master grace enabled him to stay on his feet and throw out prospective base collectors.

MANAGER BANCROFT returned to the lineup of the Braves after a [illegible] off [illegible] a stone bruise of the heel. The defeat of his club in the opening game doubtless hastened his return as he was not sure that he would be in the series at any time. When Dave entered the active fight Eddie Moore warmed a seat on the bench.

DR. EDWARD (EDDIE) FARRELL played bang-up ball at short and second during the exciting afternoon. The collegian has made himself one of the most talked-about players in the league through his sturdy application of inherent skill. He seems to be equally at home in the shortfield or on the other side of the bag. That's more than can be said of his collegiate predecessors who jumped from the campus to the big show—Eddie Collins and Frank Frisch. Columbia Eddie and the Fordham Flash wished to be counted out when the short field was being assigned.

BANCROFT and Farrell are a nifty pair around the middle bag. As a whole the Braves are no setup for any club, although they were not quite as effective against the Giants as they have been in previous years. The Tribe dropped 15 out of 22 games to the Polo Grounders.

THE uncertainty of baseball is exemplified by the doings of the Cubs in the past month. Four weeks ago yesterday the Bears clawed the Dodgers while the Pirates were taking a licking at the Polo grounds. The events of that day sent the Cubs to their highest peak of the season—they were six full games ahead of the Pirates! Four weeks later they were five games behind the Pirates, showing a net loss of 11 full games.

THE line forms on the right for those people who knew the Cubs would win because their park was being made larger.

McInnis Suspended For Three Days, Fined $100

NEW YORK, Sept. 14—(AP)—Stuffy McInnis, manager of the Philadelphia Nationals, has been suspended for three days and fined $100 for his part in an argument the Phillies had with Umpire Jorda in last Monday's game at Pittsburgh.

McInnis, Alex Ferguson and Barney Friberg of the Philadelphia club were banished from the game when they protested a decision by Jorda calling Moon Harris, Pittsburgh first baseman, safe on a play at third.

It is McInnis' fourth penalty of the season.

MRS. FLYNN GETS GIFT FROM DEMPSEY

LINCOLN FIELDS, CRETE, Ill., Sept. 14—(INS)—As proof that all is rosy between Jack Dempsey and Leo P. Flynn, his manager, the latter today displayed a glittering diamond bracelet, which he said was a gift from the former champion to Mrs. Flynn, who soon will supervise Dempsey's cooking.

"And it's worth nine grand if it's worth a nickel," said Flynn. "That ought to give the lie to some of the newspaper accounts that harp on discord between Jack and myself."

Flag Series On This Week

By TOM BIRKS.

SEVEN play-off games to determine the championship of the various sandlot leagues in operation hereabouts this year will be staged this week end. Five of the important contests take place next Saturday and the remaining two on Sunday afternoon.

The Regina Candies and the Heinz Club clash Saturday at the Salt Works grounds in the first of a three-game series for the City League championship. The second game of the Allegheny County League series between Bellevue and Beltzhoover will be played Saturday at McKinley Park, while the deciding battle of the Kaufmann Major League series between St. Richard's and St. John's will be played Saturday on the Schenley High School field. Sunday afternoon the two teams renew their engagement at the Thirty-sixth street and Liberty avenue grounds.

The championship of the Kaufmann Amateur League will be decided Saturday and Sunday when Washington alumni meet Whittaker at Denny Field Saturday and at Locust Grove, Homeville, on Sunday.

Immaculate Heart won the title in the Greater Pittsburgh League yesterday, defeating Oakland Y., 12 to 1.

CUYLER IS CHEERED AT LYCEUM SMOKER

Three cheers for Hazen Cuyler of the Pirates were given at a smoker held by St. Canice Lyceum, Knoxville, last night. His ability as a player was lauded.

Edward J. O'Brien and William Carson, active workers in the interest of the Lyceum, were presented watches for their faithful service. Jack Donley was toastmaster and the speakers included Coaches Elmer Layden and John Weible of Duquesne University, Harry Keck, sports editor of the Sun-Telegraph, and Julius Levin, also of the Sun-Telegraph; the Revs. Fitzpatrick and Brennan and J. J. Freund, Jr.

STENGEL TO MANAGE TOLEDO AGAIN IN 1928

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 14—(UP)—Charles (Casey) Stengel, pilot of the Toledo American Association Club, was assigned to again manage the Mud Hens in 1928, it was said here today. This is Stengel's second year here. He took the club from a low spot in the second division to fourth place in 1926. This season he had his club leading the league for months. Two weeks ago his team dropped to third place, a few games from the top, but yesterday the crew went into a second-place tie with Kansas City.

SPORT LENS

tory over a first division outfit he would score heavily toward success.

In the days when John McGraw was rolling up four consecutive pennants he achieved most of his success by keeping his men keyed up against low opposition. He was helped in this because then all clubs were shooting at a perennial winner. The spirit of the opposition made the Giants fight all the harder in self-protection.

THIS is what is helping the Pirates now, as a matter of fact. Possibly the sentimental favorite among the clubs not concerned in the race is the Chicago team. This makes these unconcerned clubs play hard against the Pirates, Cards and Giants. Owing to certain happenings, which the Pirate players as a whole had little to do with, Philadelphia and Boston are particularly anxious to down the Pirates. The benefit of this attitude against the Pirates is reflected in the recent Philadelphia series and in the Brave series just begun.

CONCEDING the Pirates a great chance now to gratify their followers with a pennant, remembering the situation with regard to Cuyler, and recalling that the new star of great merit, Comorosky, will not be eligible to play in the world series, a situation may arise over night which will put, indeed, a fantastic complexion on events.

Barnhart, and the two great Waner boys, are eligible, and are the active candidates for world series competition. Supposing that a day or so before the big series, should the Pirates win, one of either of the Waners or Barnhart should be hurt! You would then see the very, very funny situation of Cuyler's entrance into the big series after a half year's idleness.

EVEN Cuyler's strongest supporters, however, do not wish for this sort of an eventuality, because no matter how strongly they feel for him, there is just as great a bond between the fans and the Waners and Barnhart. And considering how this trio has plugged for the club it would be a tough break to see a world series without anyone of them.

But the dramatist among us cannot help but consider the possibilities in the big series. In fact, here is a fine plot for a good short story. Of course the magazine editor would want Cuyler to make the hit that won the series.

If editors were not so stubborn about our great fiction we might like to try that story. Probably it will be written by us, adjudged by us as quite bad, and put away never to be sent to a magazine. But as Mr. Oppenheim, the writer of many a thriller, says of his fiction work: "It's great fun, no end, really."

THE team that wins the National flag to bring the honor of the championship to its league must have a nervy pitcher or two who can baffle the great Ruth and the lesser Gehrig of the Yankees. A nifty southpaw would come in handy to stop these two excellent long-distance hitters, Ruth and Gehrig. Right-handers will have difficulty. However, many of the experts believe that the National League hurlers will bother the American Leaguers far more than American League hurlers have bothered them.

In the matter of southpaws the Pirates are what might be known as bereft.

HIGH SCHOOLS OPEN

MONONGAHELA, Pa., Sept. 13—The Monongahela High School football team is without a game for Friday, September 23, or Saturday, September 24, at home. Call Monongahela 111, or write Principal H. W. Crane, Monongahela City High School, Monongahela, Pa.

The Sacred Heart High School would like to book games with school teams of light first-class caliber. Call Montrose 4095 and ask for Henry Martin.

A great many high school students will be affected by the order, especially first and second year students.

EAST LIBERTY TRADERS LOYAL PIRATE BOOSTERS

"Right now Pittsburgh has a team battling valiantly for a chance at the highest honors in baseball. Be loyal to the Pirates. Stand back of them. I am for anything or anybody that helps to put Pittsburgh on the map."

Thus President E. S. Bayard, of the East Liberty Trade Association, opened the weekly luncheon-meeting of that civic-commercial organization yesterday in the auditorium of the East Liberty Y. M. C. A.

Resultant cheers and applause revealed that the East Liberty Trade Association numbers many Pirate boosters among its members.

WAYNESBURG FOOTBALL CAPTAIN QUITS SCHOOL

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Sept. 14—Followers of the Waynesburg College football team were surprised today when it was announced that William J. (Ike) Buttermore, captain of this year's team, has decided not to return to school this fall. Announcement was made by school authorities following his failure to report here for preliminary training and upon receipt of word from Buttermore from his home in Connellsville to the effect that he is considering entering a Southern institution of learning. Buttermore held down the center berth on the Yellow Jacket varsity for the past two years and last fall was selected as all tristate conference center.

NEW CASTLE ELEVEN TO AVERAGE 172 POUNDS

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Sept. 14—Statistics compiled concerning the probable varsity lineup of the New Castle football team this season shows that the team will have an average of about 172 pounds. The linemen average 171 pounds, and the backfield men 174 pounds. This will be the heaviest team in years.

Extra Dividend Payments Indicate Good Business.

By B. C. FORBES

IF American business is to be judged by its dividend disbursements, then 1927 has brought a very satisfactory measure of prosperity. For the first eight months of this year the favorable dividend announcements of one kind or another have totaled 651, compared with 544 a year ago, 432 in 1925 and 269 in 1924.

August again revealed a favorable comparison with last year. A total of 63 companies, against 57 in August of last year, declared 23 extra dividends, 15 initial dividends, 11 stock dividends, 8 increased dividends, 5 dividends, and 1 resumed dividend.

THE number of corporations that took unfavorable dividend action was only nine, an unusually small total. Four industrial concerns omitted payments, 3 deferred payments and 2 reduced their payments. This compares with 11 in July and 19 in June and is, indeed, the smallest total for any month this year.

A SUMMARY of the records compiled exclusively for this column shows the following cheerful dividend action by industrial, public utility and railroad companies:

| Ind. | P.U. | R.R. |
|---|---|---|
| 21 | 1 | 1 |
| 13 | 1 | 1 |
| 11 | 0 | 0 |
| 6 | 1 | 1 |
| 4 | 1 | 0 |
| 1 | 0 | 0 |
| 56 | 4 | 3 |

AMONG the better known industrial companies that declared extra dividends last month were:

| Company. | Payment. |
|---|---|
| Imperial Oil, Ltd. | 12½c |
| Maytag Co. | 25c |
| Standard Oil of Indiana | 1% |
| Timken Roller Bearing | 25c |
| Vacuum Oil Co. | 50c |
| Eastman Kodak Co. | 75c |
| Midland Steel Prod. | 45c |
| Midland Steel Prod. pfd. | $1.00 |
| Ohio Oil Co. | 25c |
| Warner Co. | 50c |
| Mergenthaler Linotype | 25c |
| Procter & Gamble | $1.00 |
| Standard Oil of New Jersey | 12½c |
| Financial Investing Co. | 50c |

STOCK dividends, which were extremely popular some time ago when there was much talk of governmental action against unduly large surpluses, were again a feature last month among the industrial enterprises. Eleven announced stock dividends ranging from the regular ½ to 1 per cent paid by Cities Service, to 100 per cent. The list was:

|---|---|
| American Factors, Ltd. | 66⅔% |
| Kroger Grocery and Baking Co. | 5% |
| Glen Falls Insurance Co. | 30% |
| Kraft Cheese Co. | 1½% |
| Remington Rand, Inc. | 1% |
| Schmidt Lithograph Co. | 100% |
| United Cigar Stores | 1¼% |
| North American Co. | 2½% |
| Cities Service | ½ of 1% |
| Ind. Finance Corp. | 25% |
| American Safety Razor | 1% |

WITH the single exception of March, no month this year has compared unfavorably with that of last year. Whether this record will be maintained during the final third of the year remains to be seen. The monthly record follows:

| | '27. | '26. | '25. | '24. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| January | 59 | 57 | 69 | 78 |
| February | 51 | 72 | 64 | 40 |
| March | 93 | 103 | 81 | 67 |
| April | 60 | 69 | 34 | 45 |
| May | 63 | 54 | 42 | 29 |
| June | 137 | 98 | 67 | 47 |
| July | 60 | 54 | 36 | 21 |
| August | 63 | 57 | 39 | 23 |
| Total for 8 mos. | 551 | 544 | 432 | 269 |
| September | | 55 | 82 | 48 |
| October | | 69 | 54 | 37 |
| November | | 103 | 96 | 63 |
| December | | 184 | 147 | 104 |
| Total 12 mos. | | 1025 | 811 | 621 |

A RATHER curious circumstance is that this increase in the number of companies able to treat their stockholders more generously has come at the same time that business failures have been unusually numerous, the total so far this year having been 15,754, as compared with 14,674 last year. The explanation probably is that the smaller and weaker concerns are finding it more difficult to compete successfully against companies and corporations of greater resources. The handwriting on the wall is that this elimination of smaller concerns will go on and that American business will gravitate more and more into the hands of larger organizations.

STOCK PRICES CONTINUE UPWARD

NEW YORK, Sept. 14 (AP)—Stock prices continued to work upward in today's market under the leadership of the high grade industrials and rails. A reduction in the call money rate from 4½ to 4 per cent stimulated the recovery, which had been temporarily interrupted after mid-day when weakness cropped out in a couple of specialties.

The weekly steel trade reviews reported little change in operations or demand, the Iron Age composite pig iron price falling to the lowest level since 1916. However, considerable interest was manifested in the announcement that the Pennsylvania Railroad directors had approved the purchase of 300,000 tons of steel rails for use in 1928, the largest rail order in any year in the company's history.

Commodity markets also displayed an improved undertone. Cotton rallied $1.50 a bale or more, on unfavorable weather reports. Wheat advanced about a half a cent a bushel and corn a cent a bushel.

General Motors (old stock) was again an individual feature, soaring more than 6 points to a new high record at 262⅞. DuPont touched a new top at 328. United States Steel common and several other industrial leaders also reached new high ground. R. H. Macy and International Shoe each recorded extreme gains of more than 8 points and National Tea jumped 6½.

A good inquiry developed for the so-called investment rails, with New York Central, Frisco common, Louisville and Nashville and Reading in the forefront of the advance.

A break of 5 points in Gabriel Snubber followed by a decline of 7 points in Houston Oil, had a temporarily unsettling effect.

Trading was on a huge scale, total sales averaging 600,000 shares an hour for the first three hours, with indications that the day's total would run well above 2,500,000 shares.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Shorts Routed.

Shorts rushed to cover this morning with the result that many stocks went into new high ground for all time and volume of trading soon exceeded that for any single hour this year, probably reaching, with two or three exceptions, the largest amount for any one hour in the history of the exchange. Hardware Markets Active.

The hardware trade throughout the country seems to be experiencing a decided activity in the movement of fall lines of merchandise, says Hardware Age. With the approach of the hunting season, guns, ammunition and sporting goods, including cutlery, are in demand. Autumn athletics are also having their effect upon the sporting goods trade. Radio sets and accessories, which have held up well during the summer months, are continuing to gain. Reports on collections are fair, but not as growing as might be hoped for.

—I—

Corn Products.

Third quarter earnings of Corn Products Refining Company will be around 75 cents a share on 2,530,000 shares of $25 par common compared with 84 cents a common share in the second quarter, according to preliminary estimates.

—I—

A. P. I. Oil Figures.

United States daily average crude oil output for the week ended September 10 totaled 2,480,450 barrels, a decrease of 21,050 barrels from the preceding week, according to the American Petroleum Institute.

—I—

Government Cotton Report.

The Census Bureau reports there were consumed, exclusive of linters, during August, 622,414 bales of cotton, against 568,529 in July and 509,513 in August, 1926. Cotton on hand in consuming establishments was 1,171,018 bales, against 1,404,259 in July and 918,784 in August, 1926. Cotton on hand in public storage and at compresses August 31 was 2,172,941 bales, compared with 1,432,477 the month before and 1,715,271 in August last year. Active spindles in August numbered 32,133,266, against 32,111,582 in July and 32,540,492 in August, 1926. August cotton exports totaled 340,311 bales against 356,554 a month ago and 291,293 in August last year. August imports were 24,041 bales against 31,147 in July and 13,279 in August, a year ago.

Fourth Quarter Sheets Unchanged.

Formal announcement by Inland Steel Company of prices for fourth quarter to be made in the next few days will show no change in its sheet prices.

—I—

Arnold Constable.

Report of Arnold Constable Corporation and subsidiaries for six months ended July 31, 1927, shows net profit of $111,921 after depreciation, interest, federal taxes, etc., equivalent to 50 cents a share earned on 221,103 shares of no par stock. This compares with net loss of $169,127 in same period of previous year.

—I—

California Packing.

California Packing evinced an upward tendency today, but traders did not seem inclined to follow the movement. This stock has lagged behind the general market and especially the food stocks, which have been going forward for some time. Last year there was considerable discussion of a merger with Postum, but that rumor has not cropped out so far this year. Postum has been a leader of the upward market for about a month now and observers are expecting any day to hear that negotiations have been opened with California Packing. Sterling Packing Company, subsidiary of California, has taken over the fruit and vegetable plants of the Virden Packing Company, according to an announcement today.

—I—

Torrington Company.

The Torrington Company reports a consolidated net income of $1,582,611 after income tax for the year ended June 30, 1927. This is equal to $4.61 a share on 344,000 shares issued, against $1,494,442 or $4.15 a share for the preceding year.

Ruling on General Motors.

"When issued" contracts on General Motors stocks will be settled Friday, September 23, according to a ruling by the committee on securities of the New York Stock Exchange.

—I—

Record P. R. R. Rail Order.

Directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad today authorized purchase of 300,000 tons of steel rails for use in 1928. This is the largest amount ever ordered in any year in the company's history.

—I—

Rock Island Financing.

The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway has asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to issue $10,000,000 secured 4½ per cent gold bonds, to be sold to Speyer & Co. of New York at 92½ per cent of par. The proceeds are to be used to retire $10,442,000 of notes maturing during 1927 and 1928, the remainder to be used to reimburse the carrier's treasury for expenditures made on additions and betterments.

—I—

Mid-Continent Pete Expands.

Mid-Continent Petroleum Corporation has purchased the Blackhawk Oil Company, formerly the Hawkeye Oil Company from F. E. Kistler and associates. The company distributes gasoline, kerosene and lubricating oils in Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Kentucky and Minnesota. The consideration was not divulged. No additional financing is contemplated by Mid-Continent Petroleum as a result of this purchase.

—I—

Steel Subsidiaries at 67 Per Cent.

Ingot operations of United States Steel Corporation subsidiaries are scheduled for 67 per cent of capacity this week. This is a slight decline from the past week, but is a reduction of approximately 8 per cent from two weeks ago. Independents are operating at an average of approximately 70 per cent of capacity.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—The bond market displayed more firmness today than in other sessions this week, although selling pressure continued in several recently active issues. Traders expected little recovery from dullness until after the money market again settles down to a definite trend following the return of income tax checks to their various banks for clearance.

Realizing was again pronounced in the case of Cities Service Power 6s which sagged a small fraction under heavy offerings. Several high-grade railway liens also were easy, but offerings were not large.

Some of the convertible liens displayed considerable strength, notably Brooklyn Union Gas 5½s, which moved ahead more than a point to 236½, and Erie 4s, which gained fractionally.

Polish 8s declined a little after yesterday's advance, and numerous other foreign obligations exhibited softening tendencies.

Transactions in the Federal Government group were in relatively small volume and prices in most instances were slightly lower.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Transactions in the bond market today on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, including issues of the United States, in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—The curb market contrasted sharply with the various movements in Tuesday's trading when there was an uncertainty in the early dealings with irregular movements in leading issues. Today the market started with advances in a number of the high priced specialties ranging from 5 to 17 points, but after those gains were made business decreased in volume and many of the gains were either reduced or lost before mid-day.

Realty Associates of Brooklyn had the widest movement in the early trading, making a further gain of 15 points to the high record of 312, and was followed by Royal Typewriter, which rose 1½ points to 50. Celanese common and preferred both reached new peaks and there was a continued advance in Palmolive Peet, which was a feature in yesterday's trading. Bancitaly was one of the record-breakers, moving up over 3 points to 102⅛. Chain Stores were active and strong and also made substantial gains.

General Baking "A," which has been in steady demand for some time, made a further advance of a point to above 73 and there was renewed accumulation of Johns Manville, which rose over 2 points. New York Central new stock advanced to the high record of 165, equaling the trading level of the present shares. American Arch was one of the weak features, having a further loss of over 6 points to a new low for the year.

There was a sensational movement in Pacific Light following the announcement of readjustment of capitalization which was construed as including a stock dividend of 300 per cent. Sales were made at 380, an advance of 15 points from the last preceding sale.

Other public utilities were firm to strong, American Gas and Electric and American Light and Traction being prominent. There was little movement in the oil stocks.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Following is the official list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded, with closing, as high and low, as listed:

BIGGEST RAIL ORDER BY P.R.R.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—The board of directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company today authorized the purchase of 300,000 tons of steel rails for use in 1928. This is the largest rail order ever made in any one year by the company.

The new rails will be used to continue the extensive program of renewals and betterments, the company announced, much of which involves the substitution of heavier rail for that now in the tracks, as well as additional double tracking and new track construction.

"It is of interest," the company said, "to note that this quantity would be sufficient to lay a new double track line between Philadelphia and Chicago, a distance of over 800 miles.

The extent of the company's annual railroad purchases in the past is indicated by the following compilation of the rail orders for the last 10 years:

|  | Tons. |  | Tons. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1919 | 28,000 | 1924 | 194,000 |
| 1920 | 119,500 | 1925 | 120,000 |
| 1921 | 200,000 | 1926 | 200,000 |
| 1922 | 98,000 | 1927 | 250,000 |
| 1923 | 138,000 | 1928 | 300,000 |

The names of the steel companies among which the order will be distributed were not announced.

MELON CUT BY UNITED SHOE

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(AP.)—Directors of the United Shoe Machinery Corporation of Boston cut a melon for common stockholders today, authorizing a stock dividend of 20 per cent with an extra dividend of $1 a share in addition to the regular quarterly disbursement of 62½ cents a share. The stock dividend is payable November 30 to holders of record September 20, and the cash dividend on October 5 to stock of record September 20. The regular quarterly of 37½ cents on the preferred stock was declared.

152nd Dividend

The regular quarterly dividend of Two Dollars and Twenty-Five Cents ($2.25) per share will be paid on October 15, 1927, to stockholders of record at the close of business on September 20, 1927.

H. BLAIR-SMITH, Treasurer.

Firm Tone In Local Stock Market

Quotations were steady to firm on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today, but the early session developed no noticeable activity in any of the recently strong market leaders. Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt displayed a strong tone around its newly attained high level of $55 a share.

Several lots of the issue changed hands at that figure while bids and offers held fairly close to the actual sales price. Standard Sanitary did not appear in the early trading, but was wanted at 84, the price at which it closed Tuesday.

Trading in fuel issues centered in Arkansas Gas this morning with several hundred shares changing hands at 9 and 8⅞, ex-dividend. Closing price Tuesday was $9 a share. Oklahoma Gas certificates were handled in small lots at 21½ as compared with the last previous sale at 21⅝. Lone Star was unchanged early at 48½.

First sale of the new Westinghouse Air Brake since listing yesterday morning was recorded around the noon hour today when a small lot changed hands at 47. The stock is on a $2 annual dividend basis. Traders seem to favor the issue around these levels despite the low yield, the demand being based on the company's forward orders for railroad safety signal equipment and also on expectations of a stock dividend. There are enough of the new shares in the treasury to permit a stock dividend of 25 per cent without changing present capital set-up.

Blaw Knox Steel sold again in the early market at 89, but moved up a point on later dealings, the price of 90, at which subsequent sales were made, being equivalent to the close on the stock at the end of last week. Lone Star was in moderate supply and slipped off a small fraction from the opening quotation. There was no evidence of pressure, however.

In the late session demand for Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt was a little more urgent and prices were moved up fractionally.

WHAT FAMOUS MEN HAVE SAID ABOUT LIFE INSURANCE

WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT

"Life insurance is a wonderful aid, especially to those of us who are dependent upon salaries and upon professional incomes. It is the only way by which we can make our lives happy in the thought that we are putting by something so that those who are dear to us may live on after us and not feel pinched or not be subject to poverty when the bread winner is gone."

INSISTENT demand for greater adequacy, convenience and flexibility has been responsible for the instant public favor which the Perfect Protection Policy has met.

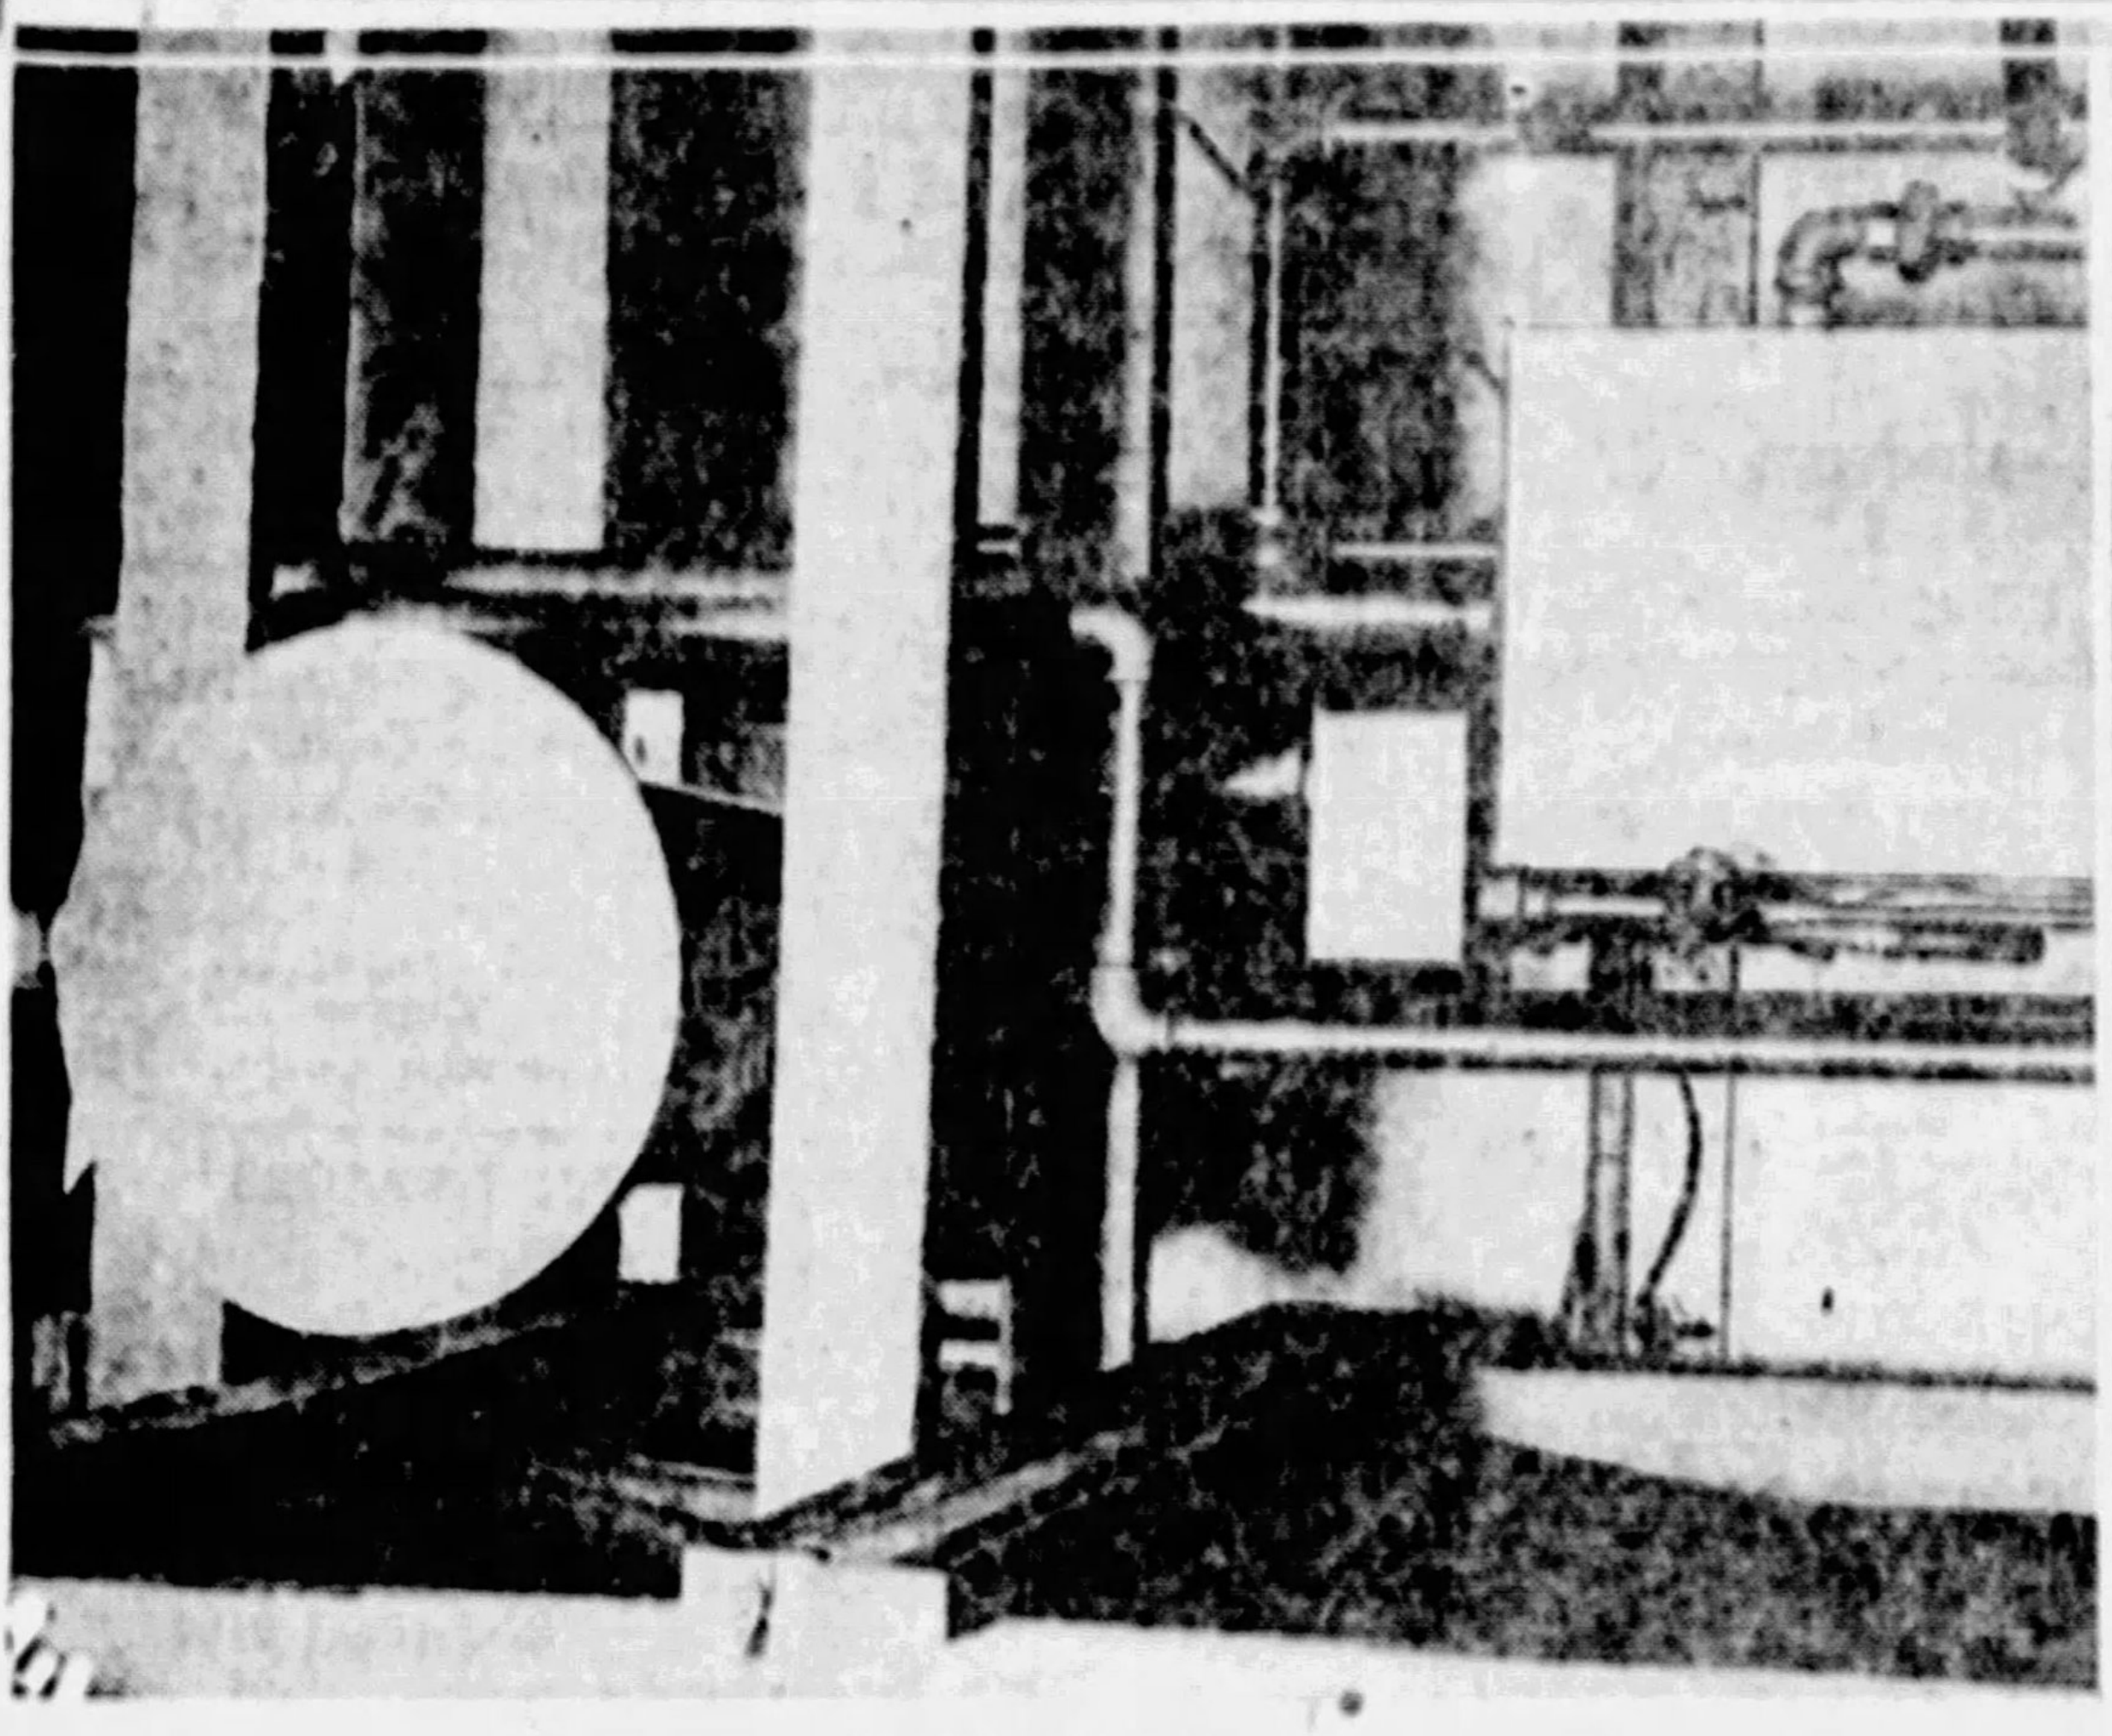
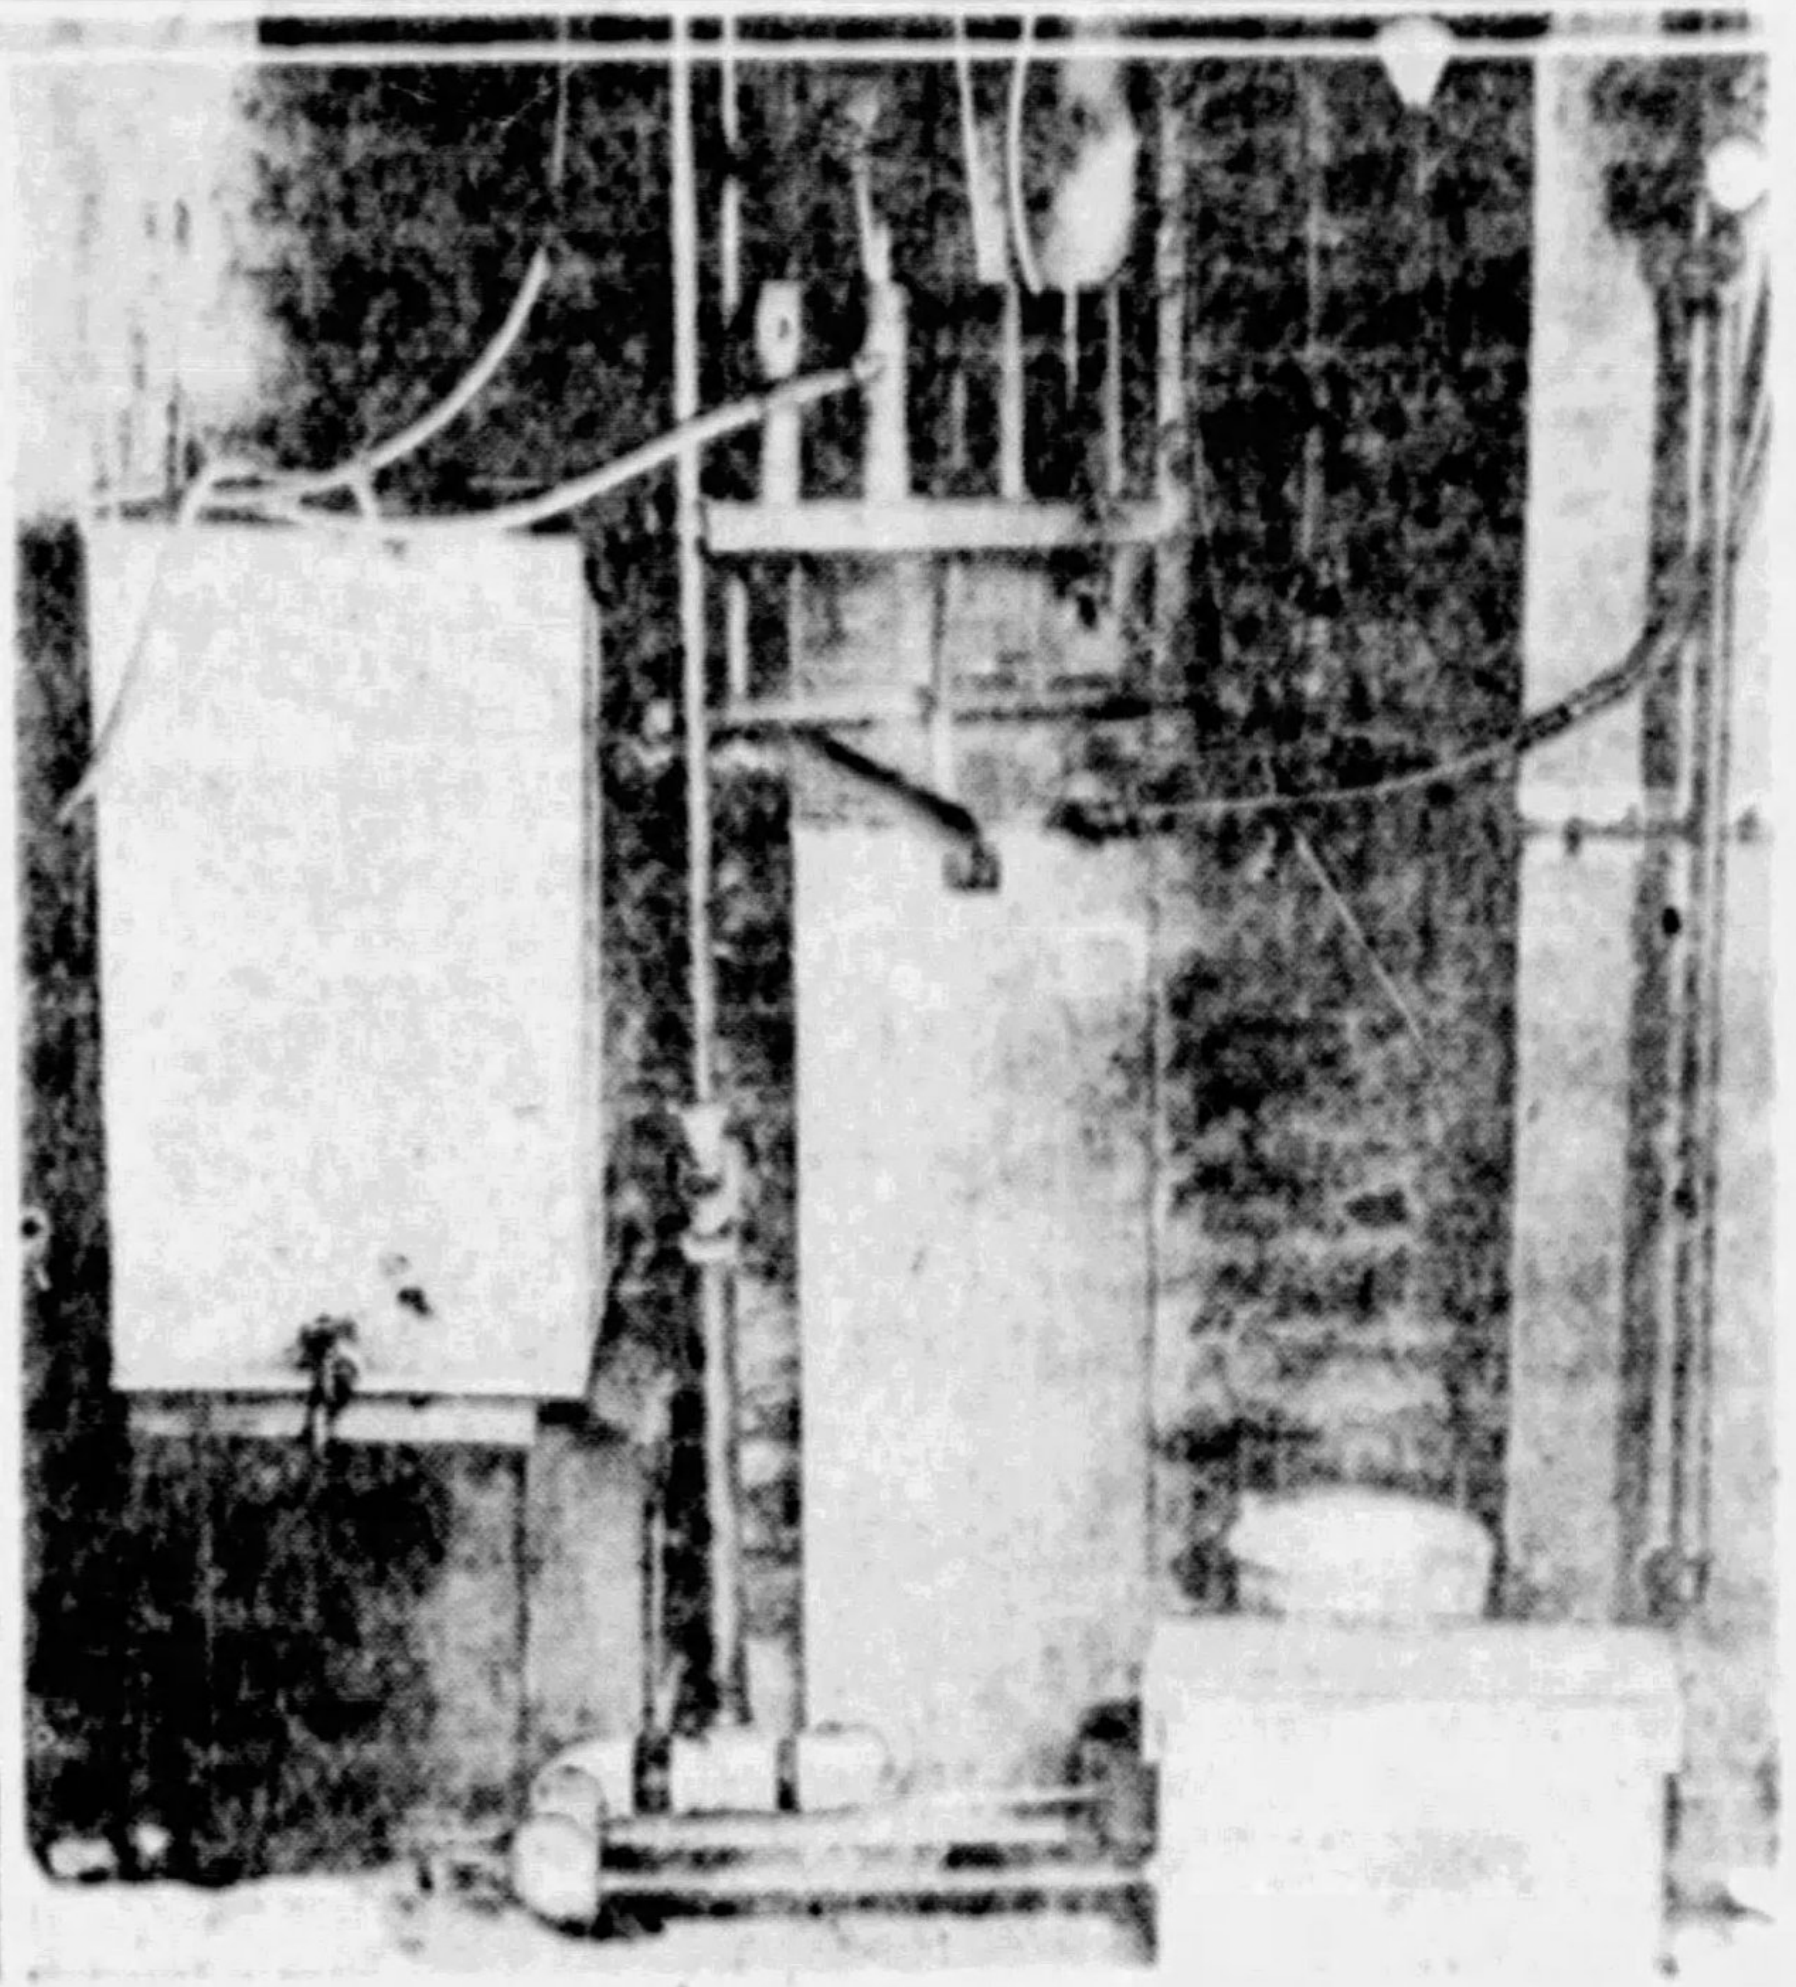
BOOTLEGGERS OUTDO MELLON INSTITUTE CHEMISTS



ONE BETTER

Prohibition agents raiding 6925 Brighton road, Ben Avon, found a solution for the government's latest scheme for making industrial alcohol undrinkable, a plant for removing alcohol, denaturant, which Mellon Institute chemists thought couldn't be done, agents said.



RAPID OUTPUT

The dry raiders said the plant was capable of producing from 15 to 20 gallons of renatured alcohol hourly. The machinery was more elaborate and costly than any yet found in this district.

THOUSANDS OF MELODY WAY ENTRIES

VERA VAN HAUSEN

As thousands of letters with certificates go out, Uncle Sam brings in hundreds of letters containing entries in the Sun-Telegraph Melody Way Club, whose members are entitled to free music lessons and free use of pianos. Affiliated music dealers in Western Pennsylvania have offered free use of pianos and instruction. They have done it jointly, as members of the Western Chapter, Pennsylvania Music Dealers' Association. Fill in your coupon today and mail it to the Melody Way Editor, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Certificates will be sent you to present these to your dealers. Buttons will be sent later. Don't wait for them.

CATCH EX-W. VA. POSTMASTER

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Sept. 14—(AP.)—Roy E. Curtiss, former postmaster at Huntington, W. Va., and said to have been a fugitive since last February, is under arrest here, charged with defrauding the government out of $658 while he was head of the postoffice in the West Virginia city.

Curtiss has expressed willingness to return to Huntington, it was said, but he will likely remain here several days until a Federal judge can sign an order of transfer.

WOMAN'S RIGHT TO MANAGE HOME UPHELD

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 14—A woman's right to manage her home, long recognized by many husbands, was on record here today in Judge Leo A. Coleman's court. M. W. Doran, who pleaded guilty to a charge of disorderly conduct, was told to give his wife sufficient money to run her house. Doran handed his spouse a roll of bills and Judge Coleman suspended sentence.

WIFE SEES MEN BEAT MATE

George Brown, 53, former city fireman, was attacked and severely beaten by four men who set upon him early today in front of his home, 537 Pollmey street. The attack, the motive for which Brown declares he cannot explain, was witnessed by his wife, Sadie, who was accompanying him. His assailants made no effort to rob him and after administering the beating left him lying on the sidewalk. He was removed to the Presbyterian Hospital, where his injuries were dressed.

LEGAL NOTICES.

NOTICE is hereby given that application entered to Application Docket 11515-1927, Folder No. 3, has been made to the Public Service Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, under the provisions of the Public Service Company Law, by E. H. Scott Transportation Company, Erie, Pennsylvania, for a certificate of Public Convenience evidencing the Commission's requisite approval of the additional right and privilege of operating motor vehicles as a common carrier for the transportation of freight, merchandise and other personal property between Erie, McKean and Edinboro, Erie county; Cambridge Springs, Venango, Saegertown, Meadville, Conneaut Lake, Harmstown and Adamsville, Crawford county; Greenville, Sharon and West Middlesex, Mercer county; New Wilmington, New Castle and Wampum, Lawrence county; Beaver Falls, New Brighton, Rochester, Beaver county, and Pittsburgh, Allegheny county.

A public hearing upon this application will be held in the Commission Building, 112 Market street, Harrisburg, Pa., on Thursday, the 29th day of September, 1927, at 9:30 o'clock a. m. (Standard time), when and where all persons in interest may appear and be heard, if they so desire.

E. H. SCOTT TRANSPORTATION COMPANY,
P. A. WHEELER, Secretary.

IN THE Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County, Pennsylvania. In the matter of the petition of Damascus Bronze Company for decree of dissolution of said corporation. No. [illegible] October Term, 1927. Notice is hereby given that the Damascus Bronze Company has filed in the above court its petition praying for a decree of dissolution, and that the court has fixed the 10th day of October, 1927, at 9:30 o'clock a. m., as the time and the said court as the place for hearing said petition and application for dissolution, when and where all persons interested can attend and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of the said petition should not be granted.
WEIL, CHRISTY & WEIL,
Attorneys for Petitioner.

NOTICE
FEDERAL EQUIPMENT TRUST
Pittsburgh, Pa., August 1, 1927.

To Holders of Trust Certificates:

Notice is hereby given by the undersigned as Trustee under a certain lease of railroad equipment, dated December 15, 1919, between The Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, Trustee, and Federal Tank Line and under a trust agreement accompanying said lease and of even date therewith between James O. Carr, The Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, Trustee, and Federal Tank Line, as modified by an agreement dated December 15, 1924, between The Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, Trustee, Federal Tank Line and James O. Carr, that Federal Tank Line, Inc., successor to all of the rights of said Federal Tank Line under said lease and trust agreement as amended, pursuant to the provisions of said trust agreement dated December 15, 1919, has elected to redeem, on September 15, 1927, all of the trust certificates issued by the undersigned under said agreement and now outstanding.

The trust certificates which by their terms mature on September 15, 1927, will be paid on and after September 15, 1927, at the principal amount thereof with all dividends accrued thereon to said date. All outstanding trust certificates, which by their terms mature after September 15, 1927, will be redeemed and paid on and after said date at one hundred one and one-half (101½) per cent of the principal amount thereof with all dividends accrued thereupon to said date. All dividends upon all outstanding trust certificates will cease on September 15, 1927, and you are required to present your trust certificates and appurtenant dividend warrants for payment on or after said date at the office of the undersigned in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Payment will be made only upon presentation and surrender at said office, on or after said date, of the respective trust certificates and dividend warrants.

Producer says motion pictures are advancing to realism and making an honest attempt to reflect life as it really is.

This being the case, when the hero and the heavy meet, the action should go about like this—

Hero—How's every little thing?
Heavy—Can't complain.
Hero—Whadda yuh know?
Heavy—Notta thing.
Hero—How's tricks?
Heavy—Long time no see.

AUNT BELLA'S DAILY TALK TO HOUSEWIVES

If your grocer sticks a potato on the spout of your kerosene can do not throw the potato away. Boil the potato for 10 minutes in a concentrated lye solution and then soak in pure vinegar for half an hour. Serve on a platter, which by the way, can be easily hammered out from the side of a five-gallon oil tin.

Scotty Chisholm says there's an old Scotch proverb that says if a brother Scot insults you by offering to buy a drink—swallow the insult.

And Scotty Chisholm likes to tell about the Aberdeen boy who asked for a dime to buy ice cream—so the old man started telling ghost stories to make the boy's blood run cold.

* * *

"And then," says Mister Chisholm, "there's the Scotchman who rushed into the chemist's shop and asked for a dime's worth of arsenic. 'What for?' asked the druggist. 'For a nickel,' replied the Scotchman."

VIVIAN GETS IN A CRUEL THRUST

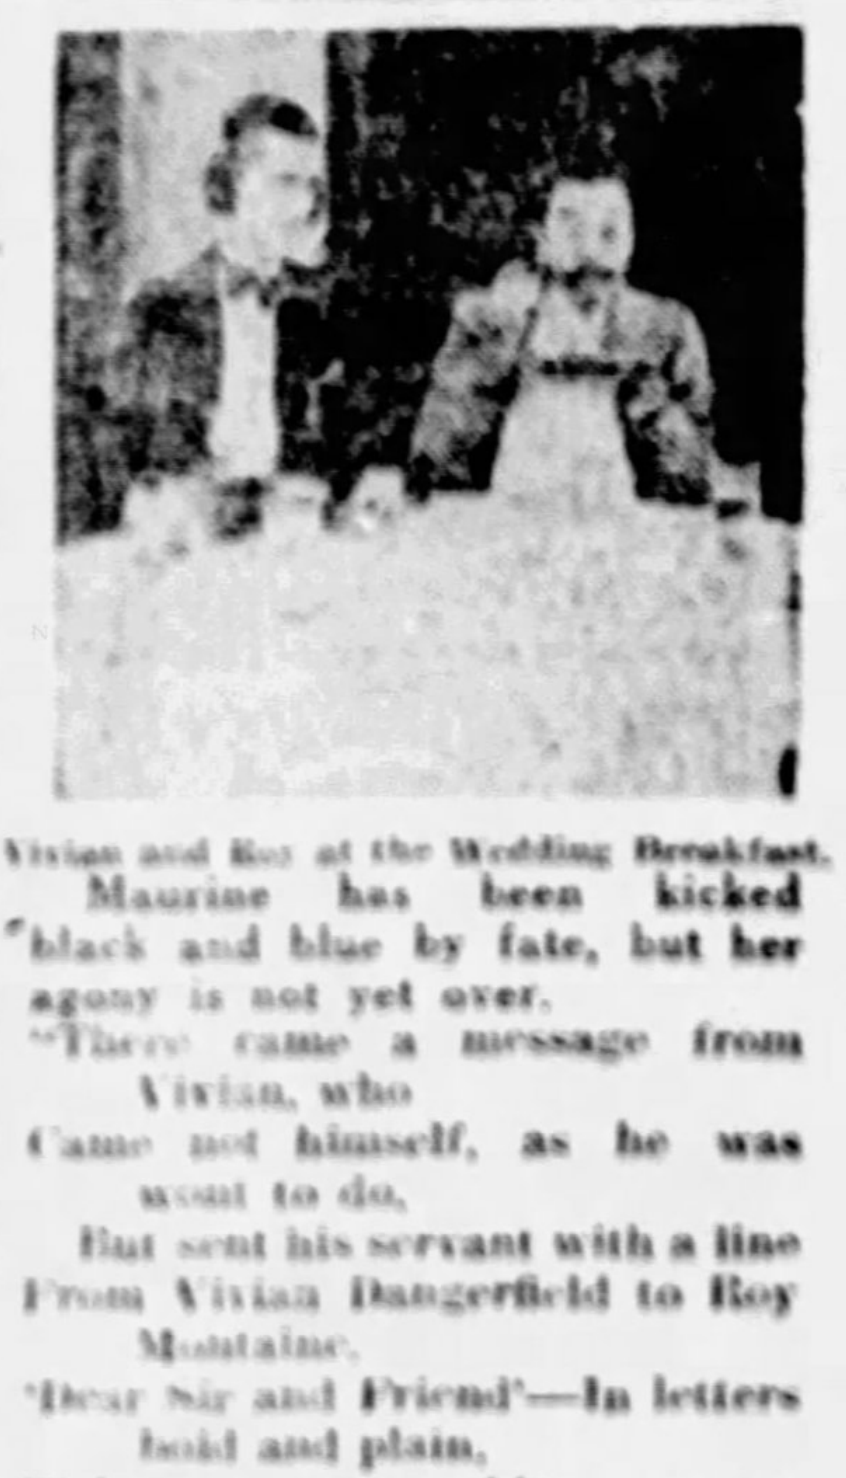
Asks Roy Montaine to Wedding: Book Review of "Maurine."



Vivian and Roy at the Wedding Breakfast.

Maurine has been kicked black and blue by fate, but her agony is not yet over.

"There came a message from Vivian, who Came not himself, as he was wont to do,
But sent his servant with a line
From Vivian Dangerfield to Roy Montaine.
'Dear Sir and Friend'—In letters
bold and plain,
Written on cream-white paper, so it ran:
'It is the will and pleasure of Miss
Trevor (or Trever)
And thereby doubly so a wish of mine,
That you shall honor me next
New Year's Eve,
My wedding hour, by standing as best man.'"

The last hope had vanished, Muraine must drain e'en to the dregs this bitter cup of pain.

Up and this daye come Squire Baker, the stonemason, in a fine frenzie of excitement and knock at our casement, and, when I answer, says he: "Why," says he, "is a mouse like a bale of hay?" and afore I could make answer he cry, "Why," says he, "because a cat can eat them both!" and then he turn on heel and scurry away, sniggering and chuckling, and into his stonemason's truck and away. But Lord! I did stand baffle-headed for an hour, and know not yet the point of his folderollol.

BUGS BAER Says

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

AN AMERICAN idea of fun in Europe is to travel from Mausoleum in Crypt, laughing heartily at the wise cracks on tombstones.

You can pick up quite an education off these loose-leaf marble pages. There is one tablet in the Tuilleries containing the words of a man who was thoroughly versed in his broccoli and spinach.

The man is Ben Franklin. He stood in the Gardens of the Tuilleries in 1793 and saw Dr. Roberts make his first balloon ascension.

ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Ben was the champion boy kite flier of the Western World. When he piped the balloon twirling up toward the roofless ceiling of the universe, Ben said:

"Today we have seen the birth of a marvelous idea—"

Just then the balloonist dropped a bag of hot sand on Ben's bean. Ben finished:

"If it's handled right."

Those sandbagged words were wrung from the heart of a man who could see the future through the knothole of logic.

Ben knew that the business of kites was all gummed up when he lamped the big balloon stretching its capers in the clouds.

But he could not look ahead and see the development of kite flying into ballooning and of aeronautics into aviation.

His words of 134 years ago are still good. Ben knew that flying was a new toy which should be controlled.

The next wise words on aviation are from Lindbergh, a golfer who made our biggest water hazard in one.

He states that to totally restrict dangerous flights would be to place a ban on scientific progress.

The Wright Brothers were forced to develop the airplane in secret because neighbors thought they were the prize winning exhibits in a fruit and nut store.

Everybody thought the Wright boys were squirrel food. But they went right ahead.

The words of Ben Franklin in 1793 and of Lindbergh in 1927 can be added up and the result will be the correct answer.

But aviation is doomed if it ever falls into the controlling hands of the rocking chair experts.

ON "THE INS AND OUTS OF LOVE."

When one loves, one
Asks so LITTLE and
So MUCH. Just to Be TOGETHER in some Quiet, sheltered spot
And TALK. Or
Be SILENT together,
But when a GIRL does
NOT LOVE she is always Restless. And
She lets the MAN
See she wants gay
CROWDS, excitement, and
Other THINGS
For which he must PAY,
MARRIED PEOPLE are Supposed to be DIFFERENT, but they often
ACT the same,
When their hearts are EMPTY they, too, seek DIVERSION,
For they want that
VACUUM filled,
But MARRIED PEOPLE who Still LOVE TENDERLY
Can, and do often,
Stay QUIETLY at HOME,
They do not seek
HAPPINESS outside, for
It blooms NATURALLY
In their own HEARTS.

Gene Tunney Speaking

Young Gentlemen Will Listen Attentively.

This is intended for foolish young persons—and old persons—who say, "I can get along with very LITTLE sleep."

Learn from Gene Tunney, who fought his way through the war as a marine and then into the national heavyweight championship, that his experience teaches him that while you may "get along" with little sleep, you can't get VERY FAR with little sleep.

To one of his friends Champion Tunney said: "I wish I could find some way to make young men, especially boys from 16 to 20, realize how important sleep is, if they want to accomplish a really big job, physical, or mental.

"In my own case, particularly if I have anything difficult ahead of me, I store up sleep, just as I would store up money in the bank if I wanted to buy a house. I know that in sleep we store energy and establish a reservoir of strength upon which we can draw whenever we need it, each in his own line of business.

"There is, after all, only one kind of human energy, I suppose. Whether a man is going to box, or run, or jump or THINK, each, working at his business, needs ENERGY. That is the thing we get WHILE WE ARE ASLEEP. The man that foolishly deprives himself of regular sleep may be as good as anybody FOR A LITTLE WHILE. But when the strain comes, the LONG pull, the man who thinks he doesn't need sleep will find that he DOES lack staying power."

Young gentlemen that say "Life is too short to spend much of it in sleep" are urged to bear in mind the advice of Champion Tunney. He allows nothing to interfere with regular sleep. And because he had the regular sleep back of him, nothing interfered with HIM when he started out to be champion.

Whoever thinks life too short for much SLEEP should remember also that life is too short for much SUCCESS, unless you devote your brain to getting it.

What Tunney says about storing up energy in sleep is literally the truth. Our bodies, nerves and brain during sleep store up power, just as an electric battery stores up power when it is being charged.

Young gentlemen will remember this rule:
Eight hours for SLEEP.
Eight hours for good hard WORK.
Eight hours for thinking, eating and amusement.
And DON'T OVERLOOK THE THINKING.

Oil Industry Should Help to Shape Control Legislation

The United States government offers help to the oil industry. It even offers the industry the chance to suggest what form the help shall take.

Secretary Work, at the Buffalo meeting of the American Bar Association, suggested that legislation should be drafted by a commitee composed of three members of the Bar Association, three representatives of the industry, and three representatives of the government. The oil industry will make a grave error if it does not seize the opportunity.

The oil industry has an opportunity to profit from this legislation, even though it is not inspired by the government's concern for the losses which the industry is suffering. It is true there are a million and a half persons interested in oil securities, leases and royalties, but this number is insignificant compared with the millions who, at least for the present, are profiting from the low price of gasoline induced by the insane competition of oil producers. If only political expediency were consulted, this situation might be let alone, allowing the producers to go on ruining themselves by selling to the happy consumer below cost.

The government's concern is more fundamental. It is with the present waste of the nation's oil resources. Oil is the foundation of our industrial life. Without it, the chief units of the national defense could not function: airplanes, motor transport, tanks and naval vessels.

The government says it cannot stand by and watch a flood of oil being needlessly taken from the ground in such quantities that, in order to dispose of it, it must be sold in competition with cheap coal. Secretary of Interior Work estimates this needless production amounts to a million barrels a day.

That is one phase of "waste." But that is not all. The engineers know that our present methods of many-headed production get out of each oil pool less than half the oil we should extract. They know the technical solution of this difficulty, though they are not yet agreed whether the precise method should be Henry L. Doherty's "unit operation," E. W. Marland's "oil-and-gas ratio," or some such plan as Walter Teagle and W. F. Farish have proposed for financing wildcatters.

To say that the Federal government has no power to legislate is to deny the first principle for which the Federal government was formed, namely, "to provide for the common defense." No lawyer is likely to persuade the people or the Supreme Court that the Federal government has got to wait until the outbreak of war to conserve our chief munition of war. In appointing his Federal Oil Conservation Board, President Coolidge said:

> "It is probable that the supremacy of nations may be determined by the possession of available petroleum and its products."

There is going to be Federal legislation for oil conservation this coming session. The oil industry should participate in shaping that legislation. Its leaders should welcome it, because it will be to their own advantage and because it is their patriotic duty to co-operate in the same conservation of a vital national resource of which they are, after all, the nation's trustee.

Large Earnings of Students Important Economic Factor

Alumni and undergraduates of the Carnegie Institute of Technology earned $932,583 in the year ended July 1, 1927, according to the report of the Bureau of Recommendations, which, in the same period, placed 5,583 persons in positions. The total earned is $200,000 greater than the amount reported by the bureau for the preceding year.

To add nearly one million dollars to the wealth of the community these young people worked in thousands of part time jobs. There were 1,726 placements as waiters and 50 students served as "green marshals" at the national open golf tournament. Some worked as handymen and others did duty as houseworkers. Four were listed as "entertainers."

Earnings of well over nine hundred thousand dollars stamp the service of these students and alumni as a fact of economic importance in the industrial, commercial and domestic life of the city. Of still greater importance, though, is the evidence of the character of those who attend our great institutions of learning.

When we see so-called "rah-rah boys" indulging in pranks that seem foolish let us keep the above facts in mind. When we hear tales of weird college escapades, let us not forget that heads of great schools tell us the youth of today ranks as equal if not superior to those of any other day.

The young person who is ready to earn his way or part of his way through school is a pretty solid individual.

He Got His Ball

Garrett P Serviss Says:

Jupiter

THE mightiest of the planets, Jupiter, is now lord of the night. On September 22 he is "in opposition," an astronomical term applied to the outer planets when they are seen from the earth at a point in the sky opposite to the position occupied by the sun. More accurately defined, opposition occurs when a planet's longitude differs by exactly 180 degrees from that of the sun, so that the planet is on the meridian at midnight.

A moment's thought shows that a planet when in opposition must be nearer the earth than at other times, since the earth is then directly between it and the sun. Owing, however, to the elliptic form of the planetary orbits the distance varies at successive oppositions. On this occasion Jupiter's distance from the earth will be about 367,500,000 miles, but on March 1, when Jupiter was in conjunction with the sun, or on the farther side from the earth, his distance was about 555,800,000 miles, being greater then by the whole diameter of the earth's orbit.

In consequence of its relative nearness and the fact that it is visible during the entire night, from sunset to sunrise, Jupiter is now very favorably placed for amateur, as well as professional, telescopic observation. Its huge disk presents to the naked eye an apparent diameter of nearly fifty seconds of arc, or five-fifths of a minute, which is considerably more than one-fortieth of the mean apparent diameter of the full moon.

So, in a telescope magnifying only 40 diameters, Jupiter now appears as large as the full moon does to the naked eye. Although this is a mathematical fact, readily proved by measurement, to the untrained observer the planet's disk will probably seem much smaller than the moon.

However, no thoughtful observer can fail to be strongly impressed with its enormous actual size as he sees the great planet glowing in his telescope. Its diameter is nearly eleven times that of the earth, so that the area of its surface is 120 times, and its bulk 1,300 times that of the earth.

If the continent of North America were expanded to Jovian dimensions the distance between New York and Chicago would become about ten thousand miles, and on the same scale Lindbergh would have had to fly some 37,000 miles to skip over the Atlantic to Paris.

But that giant world is very unlike ours. Its mean density is not very much greater than that of water. In fact, it may be mostly a liquid globe, but there is evidence that its central core is relatively much denser than the earth's, so that possibly there is a solid globe within. The smallest telescope will show you its great "belts" running parallel with its equator, on both sides. You will see how wonderfully rich they are in color, and diversified in their continually shifting forms; but only careful study with powerful instruments reveals the curious fact that the various zones into which these belts divide the planet are traveling around at different velocities. The average time of one axial rotation of the entire big planet is about 9 hours 55 minutes (against the twenty-four hours taken by our little earth), but the central, or equatorial, zone, from 10,000 to 15,000 miles broad, travels so much faster than the zones on either side of it, that it gets round in 9 hours 50 minutes. North and south the striped and spotted surface seems to be divided into many zones, having different rates of motion, so that "well-marked features near one another on the planet's surface drift by one another, sometimes at the rate of 200 miles an hour."

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY.

Your Education

ARE you allowing much that you learned in school to slip away from you because you will not use your brain in tests which would bring into use the rules and principles that you once learned?

Aside from mental training which high school and college gave you, how much lasting benefit have you derived?

Of course the mind discipline you practiced in school helps you to surmount your daily obstacles more easily.

But are you satisfied with your years of study?

If you have no wish to retain what you learned in higher schools, why did you spend so many years in academic or college work?

If the time spent had been less but more intensive, would you not be just as well prepared as you are at the present time?

Sometimes now you are confronted with matters that puzzle and baffle you, but these same things would have been easy to solve at the time you were a student.

A little practice would have kept you up in these subjects, but you are too lazy to make the effort to retain your knowledge.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Incentive

IF EVERY day your life was gay and nothing ever chanced to vex you, but day and night all things went right, no cares, no troubles to perplex you; if not a cross, a lack, a loss was ever on your road to greet you, why, you would grow to hate it too, sheer weariness would soon defeat you! That's why, no doubt, the plan works out with many little woes and worries, why each one shares in doubts and cares, why each one knows some frets and flurries. For only he who fights can see how all his goals were worth the gaining, he who must fight achieves delight with little leisure for complaining. No wise man asks for easy tasks, he knows their joys are swiftly over; but bliss requites the man who fights, new realms each day he may discover.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

SOMEWHERE IN MONTANA, Sept. 14.—This is the grim land of the West that was and has passed away. It is a little desolate yet beautiful. Here and there may be found buffalo bones bleached white in a blistering sun. There are purple canyons, green fringed streams and mountains capped with eternal snows.

And beyond lies Butte, that hell roaring camp of another day, with a net work of rising steel-girt buildings. Nearly all vegetation withers and dies as result of the furious fumes from the smelters despite the fact that most of them now are at Anaconda. Humans and horses wear cloths over their noses and mouths to keep out the poison.

Butte in the period of its early romance was perhaps the toughest town in America. Two-gun men from the Bad Lands notched their guns as casually as they spat tobacco juice. Today that is all changed. It might be a city as effete as Syracuse, New York.

Men drank hard, lived hard and died with boots on. The dance halls, gambling dens and red light districts appealed to the worst passions of men and women. The road agent was a hero. Rangers chased Indians with wild whoops and spitting lead through the main street.

There was no law save that of the gun and the vigilantes. It is only in rare spots the old west peeps dimly through. Early this morning in the smoker a player with a traveling theatrical troupe pointed to a heavily yoked team of drooping oxen toiling across the plain.

And dotting the countryside is a figure straight in the saddle that might have stepped from a Remington. The towns in Montana have the bright newness of those in Kansas. There seem to be many Chinese. And strangely enough many British.

Glittering tourist limousines flash along smooth roads once awhirl with clouds of dust kicked up by cattle rustlers. It is at dusk that Montana blazes with the fire of a dying sun offering a breath taking beauty that is enthralling.

Montana is a state where you feel a walking stick is as much out of place as the left Smith Brother without a beard. And as for spats, well, they are just downright sappy.

A train conductor who travels through many states is authority that Montana, despite a hard living past, is far more observant of prohibition than most states. "I know many old time prospectors who averaged a pint a day," he said, "and who went on the water wagon when the law went into effect and have remained on ever since."

* * *

I heard one expletive that smacked of wagon-trail days. A thin man with a patched eye and a long neck brought his gawky and inquisitive son down to see the train. The boy was fascinated by the puffing locomotive and was peering under it. "You git away from thet thar injin," he shouted, "or I'll whale the whey outta you."

Fumes of the smelter have a strange "feel." At first stifling and then a giddiness, but old-timers become acclimated and live to ripe old age.

At one wayside station there was a fly-blown store with a weatherbeaten scarred sign: "The Paris Bon Ton Store for the Elite—wool shirts, hand-knitted socks and corduroy breeches." In other words—swell.

You see big mercantile establishments with Jewish names. Many of the owners came to Montana as pack peddlers and with the usual sagacity of the race took root and prospered.

This is a perfectly legitimate rave about casual impressions of a great state, but there is one passenger who would just as leave—in fact a little rather—be jostled about tonight by the crowds around, say, Forty-seventh and Broadway. New York spoils you for any other city in America and that in a way is a great pity.

The Best Diplomacy

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The political diplomat is not the best representative of the country. His nationalism, or if you please his patriotism, gets in his road.

To be a diplomat you not only have to compromise and see the other fellow's point of view, but you have to have a consciousness, a world consciousness, which is lacking in most political appointees.

Whenever there is an international conference you may expect over-wise correspondents and newspapers to circulate reports that the representatives of our country, bland and childlike souls, are being taken in by the shrewd and crafty foreigners.

Every nation has its tradition that while it is simple and direct itself other nations are full of guile.

Approaching the conference in this spirit it is most difficult to come to conclusions, for conclusions are rarely reached unless all parties are willing to sacrifice a little.

The best diplomat represents commerce. That knows no nation and has no boundaries. The one thing that has no so-called patriotism or nationality is the desire to make money. This may be very low and vile, but just the same it is a surer foundation of peace than some of the more exalted sentiments.

The Louisville and Nashville, the Illinois Central and our railroads connecting the North and South have done more to cement the country after the rift of the Civil War than all of the efforts of political carpetbaggers.

It is proposed to use airplane routes between Tampico and other Mexican places and the United States. A successful issue of this enterprise promises more for mutual peace than anything secretaries of state may do. The trouble is that Mexico is made up too much of highly isolated communities. They do not see the other man's point. When the commercial traveler with an airplane begins to visit these isolated places their views will enlarge.

The automobile probably has done more to unify the United States than any other agency. Quick transportation means unification and that means solidarity.

The greatest menace to the peace of the world is provincialism, and if the airplane shall conquer this, in a measure, it will be our best diplomat.

Probably Lindbergh did more good in the way of spreading a friendly feeling to the United States in France than all of the efforts of statesmen.

Tales That Are Told

Help Wanted

SPANISH INQUISITOR—"As you are to be cast into the flames in another moment you may express your last wish."

Thoughtful

MAUD reached for the telephone and demanded a number.

"Is that you, Edward?" she asked as a man's voice answered the call.

"Speaking," he replied. "That you, Maud?"

"Yes. You remember I told you last night that on no account would you be permitted to enter our house again?"

"Shall I ever forget it?" replied Edward.

"Well, we have decided to move, and I thought you might like to know our new address."—London Tit-Bits.

THE LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

(Authorized and Endorsed by Mr. Edison)

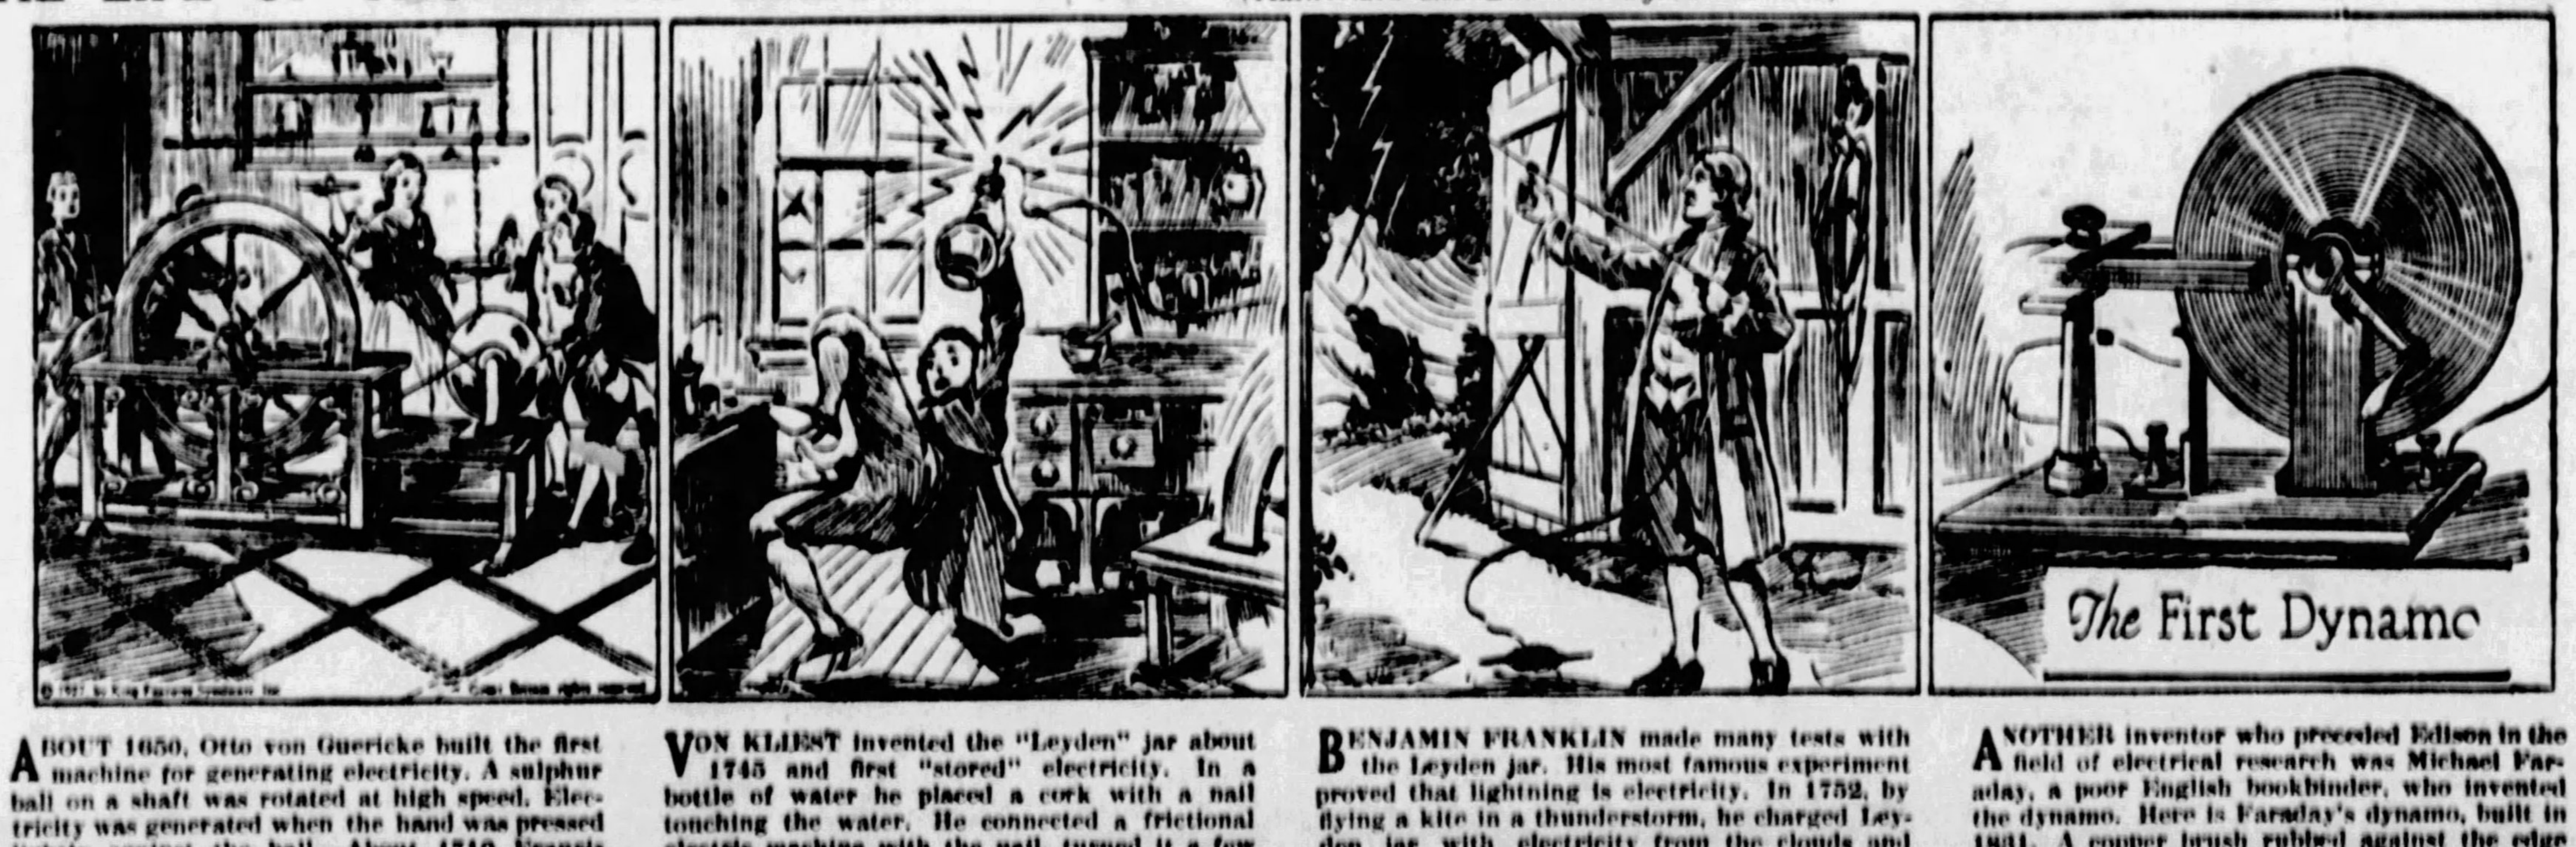
Text by Arthur J. Palmer
Drawings by Frank Kuchenmeister



ABOUT 1650, Otto von Guericke built the first machine for generating electricity. A sulphur ball on a shaft was rotated at high speed. Electricity was generated when the hand was pressed lightly against the ball. About 1710 Francis Hawksbee produced light with a similar machine.

VON KLIEST invented the "Leyden" jar about 1745 and first "stored" electricity. In a bottle of water he placed a cork with a nail touching the water. He connected a frictional electric machine with the nail, turned it a few moments, then touched the nail and was knocked down.

BENJAMIN FRANKLIN made many tests with the Leyden jar. His most famous experiment proved that lightning is electricity. In 1752, by flying a kite in a thunderstorm, he charged Leyden jar with electricity from the clouds and drew sparks from a key attached to the kite string.

ANOTHER inventor who preceded Edison in the field of electrical research was Michael Faraday, a poor English bookbinder, who invented the dynamo. Here is Faraday's dynamo, built in 1831. A copper brush rubbed against the edge of a copper disk rotated between the poles of a magnet. (Continued tomorrow.)
